Blizzard paralyzes much of nation

Combined News Services

Heavy snow driven by 60-mile-an-hour winds ripped across the nation's midsection Friday, trapping thousands of persons in their homes or offices and stranding thousands of motorists from Michigan to West Virginia.

The blizzard forced factories, offices and schools to shut down, but highways were often too blocked by snow and ice to allow travel home.

Buffalo, N.Y., on the eastern shore of Lake Erie, reeled under yet another winter storm. The Weather Service said 4 inches of snow fell on Friday, bringing the total accumulation on the ground to a staggering 37 inches.

Buffalo streets were clogged by snow and by stranded cars, trucks and buses. The National Guard was called out to clear routes for firefighters trying to get to a house fire. Most of the firemen got through, but the blaze spread to six houses. No injuries were reported.

Thousands of people spent the night in office buildings in downtown Buffalo. Three men were found dead in their stalled cars.

As the storm bore down on West Virginia, Gov. Jay Rockefeller took to the emergency broadcasting system to ask all residents to seek immediate shelter.

"Don't travel anywhere. Establish a buddy system," he warned as visibility dropped to zero and temperatures to two degrees below.

A fleet of 23 snowmobiles struck out from Rensselaer, Ind., to attempt to rescue some 400 persons stranded in sub-zero weather on Interstate 65 north of Lafayette.

State police said up to 300 vehicles were stranded, including three buses carrying a total of 85 passengers. One of the buses, out of gasoline, could not even keep its engine running to provide heat.

The blizzard meant more trouble for the already hard-hit East, Midwest and South.

Frigid temperatures for a second week, and cutbacks by natural gas suppliers, already have overtaxed fuel reserves in most areas east of the Rockies.

An estimated 548,000 persons remained laid off from their jobs, especially in such energy-starved states as Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

The severe shortages of natural gas needed to heat homes and run factories worsened sharply, threatening more job layoffs and freezing homes. The Federal Power Commission warned that if supplies dip much lower, deliveries for homes might have to be curtailed.

"Extremely cold weather is headed for the eastern U.S. this weekend and will cause heavy draw-down of already weakened underground storage reserves," the FPC said of gas supplies. It added that one substitute, propane, also is in short supply.

An interstate natural gas supplier asked its utility customers along the Eastern seaboard — an area with a population of 35 million — to shut off immediately the service to its non-essential customers.

Six states have declared energy emergencies, giving their governors special powers to cope with severe shortages of the fuel caused by two weeks of record cold temperatures.

In New York, Consolidated Edison Co. late Friday declared an unprecedented natural gas emergency on its system and directed its industrial and large commercial customers to turn off all gas service unless required to prevent damage to plumbing and other equipment.

New York officials began mapping plans for massive natural gas cutbacks they said could idle 500,000 workers. Continued cold weather could force the diversion of virtually all remaining gas supplies to homes, they said.

Officials said more than 100,000 workers had been idled by nightfall Friday. "By Tuesday, we expect to have 500,000 to 600,000 layoffs," said a source in the state Energy Office.

Meanwhile, four traffic deaths Friday in Minnesota were blamed on the storm. Wind-chill readings of minus-83 degrees prompted weath-

Cold-wave layoffs jar U.S. resurge

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said Friday he is worried that the cold weather will drive up unemployment and slow economic growth, setting back the Carter administration's efforts to revive the economy.

Marshall said his department estimates that 548,000 workers have already been laid off because of the weather, and that alone could push the jobless rate up by about half a percentage point if there's no improvement in the next few weeks.

The January jobless figures, to be released next week, are unlikely to reflect the new layoffs, because most occurred after the survey was taken. In December, joblessness stood at 7.8 per cent, with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

THE CARTER administration presented Congress with a $31-billion package of economic stimulants Thursday, including a tax rebate and job-creating measures. But Marshall said its effect could be lost if people are forced to use their rebates to buy more fuel to heat their homes.

To deal with the weather emergency, Marshall said his department is prepared to speed unemployment benefits to states declared disaster areas.

Meanwhile, one of the government's principal economic barometers, the Commerce Department's composite index of leading indicators, showed its biggest gain in a year and a half last month.

If it weren't for the jolt the economy has taken from the severe winter, the 1.6 per cent gain in December, the third successive monthly rise, would have been interpreted as a harbinger of better times in January.

The index, which measures activities in 12 key economic sectors to find pointers to future trends, confirms the accelerating growth pattern that most analysts, both in and out of government, saw developing late last year.

"The stage is set for what could be a long stretch of good times," said the Morgan Guaranty Survey, summing up the pre-freeze views of many.

While acknowledging the adverse impact of the layoffs and the loss of consumer purchasing power because of higher fuel bills, the Commerce Department's chief economist, John Kendrick, said he still sees bright prospects for continued growth in 1977.

Will hearing ends in cloud of suspicion

LAS VEGAS (AP)—Melvin Dummar stepped from the witness stand under a cloud of suspicion Friday, ending more than three days' testimony about where he got the so-called "Mormon will" allegedly written by the late Howard Hughes.

"He has not proven himself to be a credible person. That's as polite as I can get," said Clark County District Court Judge Keith Hayes after the hearing ended.

Dummar, who weathered attacks on his credibility and even the strength of his religious beliefs, said he was glad that he voluntarily agreed to appear before Hayes to testify how the purported will came into his possession.

DUMMAR, 32, stands to inherit more than $100 million if the three-page, handwritten document now being tested by the FBI is declared the authentic last will and testament of the eccentric billionaire recluse.

Under questioning from four attorneys and Judge Hayes, Dummar related how a mysterious stranger apparently left the will last April 27 at the service station Dummar used to operate in Willard, Utah.

Dummar, a member of the Mormon Church, said he delivered the will to its headquarters in Salt Lake City later that day, but only after he steamed open the envelope containing the will to make the shocking discovery that he was named a beneficiary.

Dummar claims to have come upon a grubby man who identified himself as Hughes nine years ago in the Nevada desert. Dummar said he gave the man some change and a ride to Las Vegas.

Freddie Prinze clings to life

Associated Press

Television star Freddie Prinze clung to life after putting a bullet through his brain Friday, but doctors said it might be several days before his chances can be predicted.

The 22-year-old star of the "Chico and the Man" series underwent surgery for two hours at UCLA Medical Center.

Richard Greene, administrator of the hospital, said Prinze "tolerated the operative treatment very well." But he said the actor's "brain tissue was severely damaged" and it might be several days before doctors could make a prognosis.

Prinze's estranged wife, Katherine, relatives and a dozen friends gathered at the hospital.

Los Angeles Police Lt. Dan Cooke said the actor's business manager, Marvin Snyder, was in Prinze's suite at the Beverly Comstock Hotel in West Los Angeles, trying to cheer him up, when the shooting occurred about 3:30 a.m. after the star had been talking with his wife on the phone.

"He hung up, reached down into the sofa, grabbed the gun and put it to his temple and fired," Snyder told police.

Jack Albertson, co-star of the hit series who played "the Man" to Prinze's "Chico," said the young actor had seemed upset lately over a lawsuit with his former manager and his arrest last November on a misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence of drugs, in addition to his marital problems.

Prinze, whose swift climb to national fame began only a few years ago on New York's East Side at a comedy club, left an unaddressed, handwritten note discovered after the shooting.

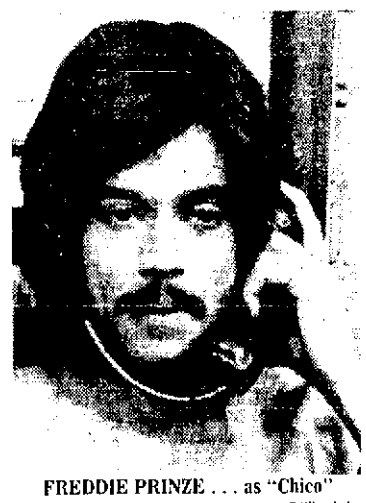

"It was in general terms," Cooke said. "He just said he couldn't go on."

Prinze had been staying at the plush hotel since he and his wife filed for divorce last month. They were married in Las Vegas in October 1975 and have a 10-month-old son, Freddie.

Albertson, who was to have taped a "Chico" episode with Prinze on Friday, said Prinze was known for his emotional highs and lows but never talked about committing suicide, "at least not to me.

"But he said . . . he expected not to get past the age of 30."

Prinze's action, he said, "seems such a tremendous waste. The kid had everything in the world to live for, regardless of his problems. The only thing we can do now is say a kind word for him, a prayer; that's all we can do."

Oil-laden barge aground, leaking

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass. (AP) — A barge carrying 3.3-million gallons of home heating oil ran aground Friday in Buzzards Bay and began leaking oil from its damaged cargo hold.

The Coast Guard said the vessel, which ran aground in the general area of the Atlantic where the tanker Argo Merchant broke up and spilled 7.6 million gallons of oil in December, was in danger of sinking.

The 3,965-ton vessel, the Bouchard No. 65, was caught in the ice below Cleveland Ledge Light, about 10 miles offshore from Marion, a Coast Guard spokesman said. It was later pulled by its tug, the Frederick E. Bouchard, to Wings Neck at the edge of Pocasset harbor, a shallow area some 20 feet deep "where it can be dealt with," he added.

Winds in the area were about 45 knots with gale warnings in effect all along the coast.

The ship had holes in four of its 10 compartments and might sink, the spokesman said. It reportedly ran aground while in tow.

The barge was on its way from Providence, R.I., to Portland, Maine, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers stationed at the Cape Cod Canal.

The tug Crusader with an empty barge in tow was on its way to the stricken vessel in an effort to unload some of its cargo. However, it was reported having trouble making its way through heavy ice in the bay.

90 PCT. CHANCE OF SUN OVER WEEKEND

Light showers dampened the Southland Friday, but forecasters said skies will be clear today and Sunday.

The National Weather Service said the chance of rain dropped to less than 10 per cent by this morning. Warmer temperatures were predicted for the weekend with highs of 65 to 75 in the coastal areas and valleys, 45 to 55 in the mountains and 58 to 75 in the deserts.

The high temperature Friday at Long Beach Airport was 66 where .91 inches of rain fell, bringing the season total to 7.21 inches.

In the mountains, chances of rain also are about 10 per cent, with snow flurries likely above 7,500 feet. Temperatures at resorts should range to the mid 70s. Lows should be in the low 40s.

The deserts should have clear skies, with highs near 60 and lows in the 30s at higher elevations. Lower regions should be about 10 degrees warmer, forecasters said. (Complete weather, Page B-2.)

Nixon loses ruling on tapes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals dealt Richard M. Nixon another setback Friday in his efforts to keep his White House tapes out of the public domain. The court ruled that he must yield tapes in civil as well as criminal cases.

The decision makes it possible for plaintiffs in various wiretap suits against Nixon to demand tapes as evidence to be played in open court.

A Supreme Court ruling, while Nixon was president, forced him to yield the tapes in criminal cases. That decision led Nixon to make public several incriminating tapes that forced his resignation and provided evidence for the Watergate cover-up trial of his associates.

The new appeals court decision, which Nixon's lawyers say they will appeal to the Supreme Court, says the tapes must be provided in civil actions as well.

Rep. John V. Dellums, D-Calif., and 1,200 persons arrested in the May Day 1971 demonstrations at the Capitol, had demanded the tapes in their civil suit against Nixon and others.

Specifically, they asked for all tapes of conversations at the White House from April 16 through May 10, 1971, at which the demonstrations were discussed.

A lower court has awarded the demonstrators $12 million in damages from the District of Columbia government. That case is being appealed, and the tapes are being sought in connection with that appeal.

In Friday's action, the court said in a 2-to-1 ruling that the plaintiffs had shown a specific need for the requested information, "sufficient to overcome the rebuttable presumption of privilege of a former president, assuming such a privilege exists."

There are about a half-dozen civil suits pending against Nixon or some of his chief administration officials.

The Nixon tapes are still embroiled in various courts in other ways.

The Supreme Court is considering whether an appeals court ruling making Watergate trial tapes available for public sale and broadcast should stand.

In the meantime, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is going ahead with briefs and hearings to decide on a plan to distribute the tapes if they are cleared for release.

'My Town': North L.B. lives in fear

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a "My Town" series reporting what residents of local communities believe is right or wrong in their neighborhood. The series will continue to appear on Saturdays.

The boundaries stretch for approximately nine square miles and are commonly enclosed with a label, North Long Beach.

Traveling from east to west on Artesia Street, it is about three miles from Downey Avenue to Long Beach Boulevard.

From Greenleaf Drive on the north, it's about a three-mile drive down Atlantic Avenue to where it's crossed by the Union Pacific Railroad overpass.

Within that nine square miles many of the residents plead a common need.

They want more police protection.

Maxine Matson writes:

"We enjoyed Houghton Park for 30 years, took our children there to play and picnic. Now, because of muggings and stabbings, we are afraid."

B. J. Pierce writes:

Jack L. Beckwith:

"Inadequate police protection. Frequent home burglaries have prompted vigilante groups."

The police themselves are not the target. Most of the letters about officers currently patrolling and responding to emergency needs are complimentary.

Typical, from W. B. and E. B.:

The need is stressed by 24 of 160 North Long Beach respondents.

The number is less significant than the emotion with which the fear is expressed about crime—crime that has happened, crime that may happen to them here and now.

The number does not include 15 letters about traffic problems, most of which could be eased by more police patrolling.

The number, 24, does not include 23 Jordan High School students who, with multiple signatures on seven letters, also cited the need for more police protection.

New neighbors welcome Fords to California desert

Combined News Services

Former President Gerald Ford and his wife, Betty, arrived in their new desert hometown of Palm Springs Friday to be welcomed by some 300 residents — and an elephant.

The Fords, who moved out of the White House last week, marveled at the sunny weather. "The weather looks great," said Mrs. Ford as she stepped from the Air Force DC10 which brought the couple to California.

"The people are nice, too," said Ford as he waved at a cluster of reporters and cameramen.

Emily DeWare, who is leasing her home to the Fords, placed a bouquet of yellow roses in Mrs. Ford's arms. The welcoming party also included the mayors of Palm Springs and neighboring Rancho Mirage, where the Fords will live for at least the next year. They plan to build their own house in the area.

A two-and-a-half ton elephant named Ginny stood by wearing a large sign reading "Riverside Young Republicans." The Riverside County group arranged the welcome.

In the interim, the Fords plan to stay at the home of Leonard K. Firestone, the former ambassador to Belgium.

Piano master Rubinstein notes 90th birthday with pride, joy

Proclaiming "I'm very proud to be an American," Polish-born master pianist Arthur Rubinstein celebrated his 90th birthday Friday at his New York apartment surrounded by his kin, flowers — and a dozen birthday cakes.

"I hope I won't be compelled to eat them all," he said.

"Every day is the happiest day of my life," he said, displaying the Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian award, given him last year. "I never met in my whole life anyone who is as happy as I am, and at 90 that is a very big declaration. I'm wildly interested in everything.

"For me, everything is eternally different, eternally new — when I play a composition for the 150th time it is new again. Maybe that's what keeps me alive."

With a broad smile — even his nearly blind eyes light up — Rubinstein confessed that "the only thing that makes me angry is someone who bores me. I would rather spend the night with a murderer than with a bore."

Rubinstein, who triumphed a year ago at Carnegie Hall on the 70th anniversary of his American debut, said he would never play publicly again, but would never give up the instrument permanently. Walking over to the piano, he said "I go to the piano like other people go to a bar for a drink."

Sniper

A teen-ager was sentenced in Wichita, Kan., on Friday to three life terms for the sniper slayings of three persons who were gunned down last summer from atop a downtown hotel.

Michael R. Soles, 19, of Sand Springs, Okla., was convicted Jan. 14 of the three slayings.

Soles pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, but a jury of seven women and five men convicted him after deliberating eight hours.

Judge Tom Raum imposed the sentences after denying a motion for a new trial. Raum said all the sentences will be served concurrently, and an aide said Soles could become eligible for parole in 15 years.

Spiro speaks

The taxpayers of Maryland have just paid $23,203 to publish a two-volume compilation of papers and speeches from Spiro T. Agnew's two-year term as governor, but just what will be done with the 1,200 copies is uncertain, as even Agnew has indicated such collections were "silly." Agnew told state officials that he didn't want such a compilation when he left office to assume the vice presidency. The project was authorized by the administration of Gov. Marvin Mandel, who took office in 1971. Agnew, who is abroad and could not be reached for comment, resigned the vice presidency in 1973 after pleading no contest to federal income tax evasion.

Sportscaster beats pot case

An old marijuana charge against ABC sportscaster Jim Lampley, who was arrested after a detective saw him on television during the Gator Bowl, was dropped Friday after a prosecutor in Miami told a judge that the state of Florida had no case.

"Unfortunately, there was an improper search and arrest," Asst. State Atty. Fred Graves told Circuit Judge Richard Fuller before Fuller dropped the seven-year-old charge.

"The marijuana, the evidence, has been destroyed," Graves said. "The arresting officers are no longer policemen — all circumstances which would make prosecution difficult."

Lampley, 27, was arrested Dec. 26 in Jacksonville after a former schoolmate, Detective Tim Judge, recognized him as he did a sideline interview from the Gator Bowl.

Judge, who said he had noticed Lampley's case in an unserved-warrants file a year before, contacted Duval County deputies.

Burt Mustin, one of Hollywood's oldest and busiest actors, died Friday at the Glendale Manor Hospital in Glendale, a family spokesman said.

Mustin would have been 95 years old on Feb. 8. He did not become an actor until he was 60.

His last show was his wedding to Mother Dexter on the "Phyllis" television show aired on Dec. 13 on CBS. He also appeared on the engagement show Dec. 6. Judith Lowry, who played Mother Dexter, died at 86 in New York City on Nov. 29.

"This is it," Mustin told friends during the filming. "I've had it. But it's a classy way to go."

Mustin appeared in more than 350 television shows and more than 85 movies, including "Detective Story," "Sex and the Single Girl," "Bus Stop" and "Son of Flubber."

Mustin was born in Pittsburgh on Feb. 8, 1882, and was a salesman most of his life. He said he was the announcer on the first weekly variety show ever broadcast, on pioneer radio station KDKA in Pittsburgh in 1921.

His first acting was an appearance in "Detective Story" at the Sombrero Playhouse in Phoenix, Ariz., where producer William Wyler told him to look him up if he ever got to Hollywood. He did look up Wyler and was cast as the crotchety janitor in the film version of the play.

He was a regular on the musical comedy series "The Funny Side" on NBC in the early 1970s.

His wife of 54 years died in 1968. They had no children. Funeral services are pending. He is survived by a sister who lives in Las Vegas.

New trial ordered in mine union murders

Combined News Services

NATIONAL

PHILADELPHIA — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Friday reversed the 1974 murder conviction of former United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle in the slayings of union rebel Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter. In its 6 to 1 ruling, the Supreme Court granted Boyle a new trial.

The high court said Delaware County, Pa., Common Pleas Judge Francis Catania, who presided at Boyle's trial, improperly refused to allow Boyle's lawyer to introduce testimony that might have aided in the defense.

Boyle, who is 74 and in poor health, is serving three consecutive life terms at the Western State Correctional Institution at Pittsburgh.

His present attorney, A. Charles Peruto, said he would seek to have Boyle released on bail pending any new trial on the murder charges. Peruto said he expected to file a request for bail early next week.

Charles Zimmerman, deputy superintendent at the prison, said he told Boyle he was to receive a new trial. "He was calm, but obviously pleased," Zimmerman said. "He just accepted the news calmly."

ATLANTA — Cases of Influenza B have been reported in many parts of the country, and school absenteeism indicates further spreading of the disease, the National Center for Disease Control said Friday.

Ford has surplus

WASHINGTON — Former President Ford's campaign committee still has more than $670,000 on hand as it winds down its unsuccessful effort to win him election to the presidency. Campaign or former White House officials assisting Ford in his transition to private life weren't available to say what will be done with funds remaining after the completion of committee business.

Bombs erupt in London

Combined News Services

INTERNATIONAL

LONDON — Eight bombs exploded in a central London shopping district early Saturday, starting fires at Selfridge's department store and a jewelry shop but causing no casualties.

Jim Nevill, head of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad, told reporters that officers detained two men for questioning after they were seen "acting suspiciously" in the area of the blasts.

Hundreds of police and bomb squad experts poured into the area around Oxford Street, one of London's main shopping thoroughfares, where the blasts started erupting shortly after midnight, London time.

"It's almost a case of pick a street and you'll find a bomb," said a policeman at the scene.

The area is about 1½ miles west of the Central Criminal Court, familiarly known as the Old Bailey. Four Irishmen are on trial there — accused of seven killings, bombings and other terrorism in the British capital in 1975.

"We do not know if there are any political connections at this stage," police said.

Mondale in France

PARIS — Vice President Walter F. Mondale hailed France as America's "oldest ally and friend" as he arrived Friday for talks with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing on the Mideast, arms sales, trade and nuclear testing. However, the meeting with Giscard d'Estaing today may point up sharp differences between the two governments in those areas.

Unrest in Spain

MADRID — Gunmen killed three policemen here Friday and wounded three others in a new outbreak of violence, and the government sought to cope with the rising challenge to its program of political reform by suspending for a month constitutional guarantees against unreasonable searches and the right to be charged within 72 hours of arrest.

Flood toll tops 30

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Heavy rains sent water gushing through a mountain resort and at least 32 persons drowned or were killed when their shanty homes collapsed, firemen reported Friday. They said 500 other residents of Teresopolis, 35 miles northeast of Rio, were left homeless and about 60 persons were injured. The rain began Thursday night and ended late Friday.

Gandhi picks judge

NEW DELHI, India — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi picked a new Supreme Court chief justice Friday and set off a furor by passing over the ranking judge, who had delivered the lone dissent against her government in a landmark civil liberties case. Justice Hans Raj Khanna, whom Mrs. Gandhi bypassed, resigned from the 13-member Supreme Court bench in protest as opposition politicians alleged he had been victimized for his frequent independent judgments.

Soviets sent home

OSLO, Norway — Three Soviet trade officials, a diplomat with the rank of third secretary and a driver at the Soviet Embassy were expelled from the country Friday for illegal intelligence activities, the government announced. A Tass correspondent was asked to leave or face expulsion. The ousters followed the arrest Thursday of a Norwegian Foreign Ministry employe who authorities said had met secretly with the secretary and turned over classified information to him.

New neighbors welcome Fords to California desert

Combined News Services

Former President Gerald Ford and his wife, Betty, arrived in their new desert hometown of Palm Springs Friday to be welcomed by some 300 residents — and an elephant.

The Fords, who moved out of the White House last week, marveled at the sunny weather. "The weather looks great," said Mrs. Ford as she stepped from the Air Force DC10 which brought the couple to California.

"The people are nice, too," said Ford as he waved at a cluster of reporters and cameramen.

Emily DeWare, who is leasing her home to the Fords, placed a bouquet of yellow roses in Mrs. Ford's arms. Officer accused of shooting death released on OR

A Long Beach patrolman charged with murder in the shooting death of a Compton restaurant owner was released on his own recognizance Friday in Los Angeles Municipal Court.

A warrant charging officer Robert W. Schroeder, 33, with one count of murder in the death of Anastasios Spathorolos, 26, of South Gate, was issued Thursday by Judge Elwood Lui.

Schroeder, a 13-year veteran of the department, surrendered Friday in the Criminal Courts Building in downtown Los Angeles, where his arraignment was postponed to Feb. 11.

He remained on duty Friday after Police Chief Ralph Kortz said the department lacked grounds for suspending or dismissing the patrolman.

Schroeder, reassigned immediately after the shooting from the patrol division to the juvenile investigation division, has again been reassigned to the communications division, a department spokesman said.

The shooting occurred Jan. 14 as Schroeder and his partner, Steve Filippini, were dressed in plain clothes and returning from an unsuccessful stakeout in Compton.

Long Beach police Friday said the victim was shot when Schroeder "attempted to place Spathorolos under arrest after the officer observed him to be armed with a gun leaving a commercial business location at 1521 S. Long Beach Blvd., Compton."

A district attorney's spokesman Friday said witnesses told investigators that Spathorolos "was running from the scene, a .38-caliber revolver in his hand, when Schroeder fired once."

The district attorney's office said the bullet glanced off a wall and struck Spathorolos in the back of the head.

Compton police said the day after the shooting that Spathorolos was standing in front of the restaurant, which he owned, while an employe stood in the parking lot.

Compton police said both men, who were closing the restaurant for the night, held guns in their hands because they feared they might be robbed.

Compton police said Schroeder ordered Spathorolos to drop his gun and shot him in the head when Spathorolos spun around.

Filippini, who had circled around the building to cover the second man with a gun, did not fire his weapon, Compton police said. Spathorolos died six hours later at County-USC Medical Center where he had been booked for suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon on a policeman.

Long Beach police went on to say that "a review of the incident by LBPD administrators concluded that Schroeder had acted within the confines of LBPD shooting policy guidelines when the incident occurred."

A spokesman said Schroeder will remain on duty with a station assignment until the case is resolved.

The spokesman said the decision to not suspend Schroeder was made by Kortz after a conference with the city attorney's office which concluded that Schroeder's suspension was not compulsory under Civil Service rules and regulations and the city charter.

The district attorney's office, which asked that bail be set at $10,000, objected when Schroeder was released on his own promise to appear.

A department spokesman said the Long Beach policemen's association would have posted Schroeder's bail had it been necessary.

See the light

I have a complaint about a traffic light at the intersection of Sixth Street and Alamitos Avenue (where California Avenue merges with Alamitos). For the westbound Sixth Street traffic, there is a stop sign on the east side of Alamitos. But across the street, there is a traffic light, which I think is meant to regulate pedestrian traffic between the center divider and the west side of California. A westbound motorist on Sixth Street, however, might see this light and assume he has the right of way to turn onto Alamitos without stopping. This signal either needs to be removed or changed in some way so that it does not create such a dangerous situation. L.T., Long Beach.

The traffic signal, which the city believes is necessary for pedestrian safety, is going to be further adjusted so that the lights can't be seen clearly by motorists traveling westbound on Sixth Street, according to John Gillespie, assistant city traffic engineer. Gillespie said the green light already was positioned so that the beam was directed at the pedestrian traffic and not at motorists on Sixth Street. But the red light simply had louvers to shield the light from motorists. After Gillespie inspected the area at our request, he said that parts of the red light could be seen by westbound motorists, and he has arranged for the necessary adjustments. "A motorist couldn't really see the green light, but if he saw the red light, he might pull out when it went off if he assumed the green light wasn't working and he didn't see the stop sign," Gillespie said.

Security

Can you help me get my $75 security deposit back? I rented an apartment at 221 Grand Ave. April 10, 1976, and moved out Dec. 15. My rent was paid through the end of the month. I had told the landlord, Ray Storey, in November that I would be looking for another place. When he inspected the apartment Dec. 15 he said there were no damages and the premises were in good order, but he refused to return my deposit, saying his accountant told him it was not necessary. M.L., Long Beach.

Storey told Action Line he will not return your $75 deposit because you did not give him a 30-day written notice you were going to move, as required by your signed rental agreement. He said you gave him a three-day notice, then moved out. He said he would return your deposit only if you paid him $112.50, one-half of a month's rent.

Juvenile Medicare

I read that in some cases a disabled child can receive Medicare benefits, but when I inquired about coverage for my daughter who has cerebral palsy and grand mal seizures, I was told she doesn't qualify. Her doctor says she is totally disabled. Can Action Line explain why she isn't eligible? C.F., South Gate.

A child under the age of 18 is eligible for Medicare benefits only if he is suffering from kidney disease and is undergoing dialysis treatment while awaiting a transplant operation, according to a spokesman for the Social Security Administration. When Medicare was first introduced, it was available only to persons 65 years of age and older. The law later was modified to include those persons between the ages of 18 and 65 who have been eligible for Social Security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months. To qualify for Social Security disability payments, a person must be totally disabled and he must have made sufficient payroll contributions to the Social Security program when he was working or he must be the dependent child of a person who is receiving disability benefits. But except for the victims of kidney disease, Medicare coverage is not available to persons under 18. If your daughter's medical expenses exceed your resources, however, you may be eligible for Medi-Cal benefits through the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services.

SOUND OFF!

I'm really perturbed about what I consider a case of downright false advertising. I'm referring to the film, "In Search of Noah's Ark." The TV ad leads us to believe that it is an exciting movie when, in fact, it is simply a commentary on expeditions into an area where scientists think the remains of the ark may be located. There are pictures taken from the air and on land scattered through the hour and a half film, but it is really nothing more than a lecture, however interesting to some adults. I was so aggravated to have spent $2.50 ($1 for children) to sit in a dingy movie house that I was tempted to go down the line of people waiting to go inside for the next showing and warn them of what to expect. Because of the way the film is advertised, at least half the audience was children who were so bored they were continually going up and down the aisles. Be warned, you parents, who think you are taking your children to an exciting Bible story. Mrs. L.F., Long Beach.

Officer accused of shooting death released on OR

A Long Beach patrolman charged with murder in the shooting death of a Compton restaurant owner was released on his own recognizance Friday in Los Angeles Municipal Court.

A warrant charging officer Robert W. Schroeder, 33, with one count of murder in the death of Anastosios Spathorolos, 26, of South Gate, was issued Thursday by Judge Elwood Lui.

Schroeder, a 13-year veteran of the department, surrendered Friday in the Criminal Courts Building in downtown Los Angeles, where his arraignment was postponed to Feb. 11.

He remained on duty Friday after Police Chief Ralph Kortz said the department lacked grounds for suspending or dismissing the patrolman.

Schroeder, reassigned immediately after the shooting from the patrol division to the juvenile investigation division, has again been reassigned to the communications division, a department spokesman said.

The shooting occurred Jan. 14 as Schroeder and his partner, Steve Filippini, were dressed in plain clothes and returning from an unsuccessful stakeout in Compton.

Long Beach police Friday said the victim was shot when Schroeder "attempted to place Spathorolos under arrest after the officer observed him to be armed with a gun leaving a commercial business location at 1521 S. Long Beach Blvd., Compton."

A district attorney's spokesman Friday said witnesses told investigators that Spathorolos "was running from the scene, a .38-caliber revolver in his hand, when Schroeder fired once."

The district attorney's office said the bullet glanced off a wall and struck Spathorolos in the back of the head.

Compton police said the day after the shooting that Spathorolos was standing in front of the restaurant, which he owned, while an employe stood in the parking lot.

Compton police said both men, who were closing the restaurant for the night, held guns in their hands because they feared they might be robbed.

Compton police said Schroeder ordered Spathorolos to drop his gun and shot him in the head when Spathorolos spun around.

Filippini, who had circled around the building to cover the second man with a gun, did not fire his weapon, Compton police said. Spathorolos died six hours later at County-USC Medical Center where he had been booked for suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon on a policeman.

Long Beach police went on to say that "a review of the incident by LBPD administrators concluded that Schroeder had acted within the confines of LBPD shooting policy guidelines when the incident occurred."

A spokesman said Schroeder will remain on duty with a station assignment until the case is resolved.

The spokesman said the decision to not suspend Schroeder was made by Kortz after a conference with the city attorney's office which concluded that Schroeder's suspension was not compulsory under Civil Service rules and regulations and the city charter.

The district attorney's office, which asked that bail be set at $10,000, objected when Schroeder was released on his own promise to appear.

A department spokesman said the Long Beach policemen's association would have posted Schroeder's bail had it been necessary.

WITH A WAVE OF his hand, left, Leonard Grimes, state general services director, has the Capitol fountain shut off in Sacramento Thursday as a symbolic gesture, calling attention to the need to conserve water. But first workers had to turn on the fountain, which had been closed for maintenance. Also, the fountain recycles the water by pump, so there isn't much water savings anyway. Cal. officials at N.Y. talks on money order firm's troubles

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Representatives from California's State Banking Department are meeting this weekend in New York with representatives from the fiscally troubled Universal Money Order Co. and with New York state banking and court officials, and some sort of development is expected Monday, a department spokesman said Friday.

Assemblywoman Leona Egeland, D-San Jose, said she had learned of the scheduled meeting after calls to state officials inquiring about the status of an estimated 200,000 money orders, purchased by Californians, which presently are worthless.

THE STATE Department of Banks has seized Universal Money Order's California assets Jan. 20, nine days after New York State officials had acted to prevent the firm and its affiliate, USN Co., from further money order sales after the company's collecting bank began returning money orders because USN did not have covering funds on deposit.

Banking Department spokesman John Stuart said "I don't think we're going to have any comment on what's going on in New York until possibly Monday."

But, he said, there should be a development.

State Banking Supt. Carl J. Schmitt and the department's attorney are attending the New York meetings, Stuart said.

Meanwhile, State Controller Kenneth Cory said Friday he had asked that legislation be prepared giving a 90-day grace period to people who had used the currently worthless Universal money orders to meet tax and other state obligations.

Lawrence E. Gercovich, the controller's administrative adviser, said state agencies might be required by statute to assess fines and penalties on persons delinquent in payments, even in a situation where the person has acted in good faith.

"Clearly," Gercovich said, "This is an appropriate situation for the waiving of such fines and penalties, but agencies might have their hands tied statutorily."

Cory said he had asked Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-Upland, and the legislative counsel's office to prepare a bill extending the due date of payments met with the Universal Money Order drafts and waiving any penalty or interest required by existing laws.

"I HAVE NO idea how many individual payments or how many dollars due the state have been covered by Universal Money Orders," Cory said, "but under the circumstances I think the state should give every consideration to its citizens innocently caught in a situation over which they have no control."

Egeland, who said she had been asked to inquire into the matter by San Jose City Councilman Al Garza, said the money order firm had filed a petition in New York courts seeking protection from debtor lawsuits until it can work out its problems.

$415 stolen in house burglary

Long Beach police reported Friday that burglars who entered through a bathroom window took $416 in cash from the home of John Matheny, 425 Daisy Ave.

Share-the-bath

Water rations cut in N. Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A two-year drought is beginning to cause drastic changes in life-style for millions of Northern Californians in metropolitan areas.

Restaurants in San Francisco and other cities no longer automatically serve water with meals. On the table is a printed offer to furnish water on request, accompanied by a stern reminder that it takes an additional three glasses of water to wash the glass.

BEGINNING Tuesday, residents of Marin County, just north of the Golden Gate Bridge, will have to live with a tough water-rationing law that will cut back use by more than 50 per cent.

Some residents have already started the Spartan life.

"It's working out great," she said.

The drought has parched the state's farmlands for months and caused an estimated $1 billion in agricultural losses.

Gov. Brown, setting an example himself, said he would reduce the spray in his shower and limit the flushing of his toilet. He also ordered Friday that the massive water fountain on the Capitol grounds in Sacramento be shut off.

Brown said water rationing was urgently needed in at least 29 counties. He called on the counties to draw up tough water conservation ordinances and enforce them.

In response to what one official called the "drought crisis of unprecedented proportions," San Francisco has declared a water emergency, Alameda County officials sought sanction to impose restrictions on water use and Marin County adopted water rationing.

The Pardee reservoir, principal source of water for Oakland and other East Bay cities, is almost two-thirds empty. Reservoirs serving Marin County are less than one-fourth full, and San Francisco's reservoirs now hold about 35 billion gallons of water compared to a normal 56 billion gallons.

State Democrats open convention

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — California's Democratic Party activists begin a two-day convention today to choose a new state chairman and to begin planning the 1978 defense of the party's huge advantage in the Legislature and congressional delegation.

Speeches by Gov. Brown and Sen. Alan Cranston will highlight today's schedule, with Brown slated to speak at lunch and Cranston at dinner.

More than 1,500 participants are expected at the State Central Committee convention, called primarily to select a successor to outgoing Chairman Charles Manatt of Los Angeles. Under the law, chairperson for the next two years must be a Northern Californian.

The candidates are Fred Furth of San Francisco and Bert Coffey of Richmond, with Coffey believed to have the edge.

Both candidates are expected to appear before a meeting of the 33-member Long Beach delegation this morning. The meeting was arranged by Assemblymen Mike Cullen and Fred Chel, both of Long Beach.

Congressmen Glenn Anderson and Mark Hannaford of Long Beach and Long Beach City Councilwoman Renee Simon are among the delegates expected to attend this morning's meeting.

Voting on the statewide officers will take place Sunday morning, but sectional elections will be held today. Among the candidates is Richard O'Neill of Santa Ana, seeking re-election as southern chairman against a spirited campaign by Bruce Corwin of Los Angeles. Ann Ramirez of San Pedro is running for southern vice-chairperson.

HAHN URGES DOUSING GASLIGHTS FOR SHOW

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn urged restaurants and other commercial establishments Friday to follow a county ordinance banning the use of natural gas for decorative purposes.

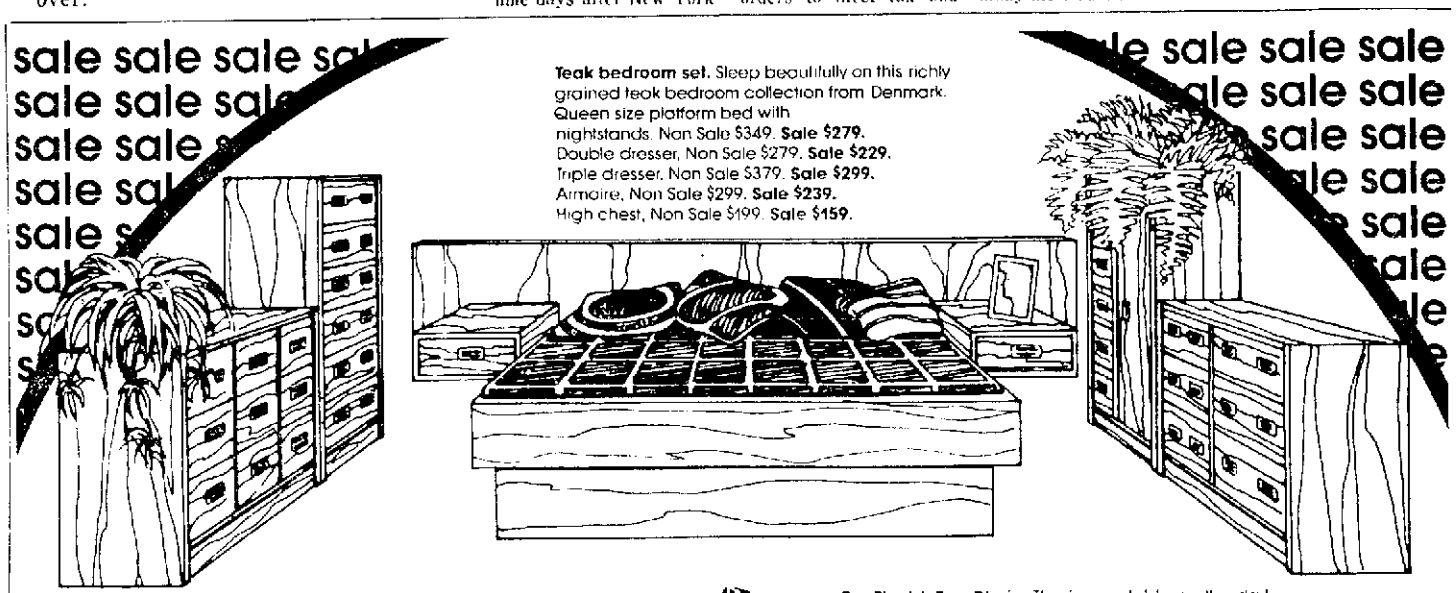

Hahn said he also will urge President Carter to call for a similar ban as national policy.

"With schools and factories being closed in the East, it is wrong for natural gas to be used anywhere in the United States for decorating and advertising purposes," he said.

The county ban, applying in unincorporated territory, went into effect in 1974 at the height of the energy crisis. The ordinance bans the use of natural gas for decorative purposes and requires the county engineer to deny building permits for their installation in new buildings.

WITH A WAVE OF his hand, left, Leonard Grimes, state general services director, has the Capitol fountain shut off in Sacramento Thursday as a symbolic gesture, calling attention to the need to conserve water. But first workers had to turn on the fountain, which had been closed for maintenance. Also, the fountain recycles the water by pump, so there isn't much water savings anyway. Grimes says it will stay off until California's drought is over. —AP Wirephoto

Cal. officials at N.Y. talks on money order firm's troubles

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Representatives from California's State Banking Department are meeting this weekend in New York with representatives from the fiscally troubled Universal Money Order Co. and with New York state banking and court officials, and some sort of development is expected Monday, a department spokesman said Friday.

Assemblywoman Leona Egeland, D-San Jose, said she had learned of the scheduled meeting after calls to state officials inquiring about the status of an estimated 200,000 money orders, purchased by Californians, which presently are worthless.

THE STATE Department of Banks has seized Universal Money Order's California assets Jan. 20, nine days after New York State officials had acted to prevent the firm and its affiliate, USN Co., from further money order sales after the company's collecting bank began returning money orders because USN did not have covering funds on deposit.

Banking Department spokesman John Stuart said "I don't think we're going to have any comment on what's going on in New York until possibly Monday."

But, he said, there should be a development.

State Banking Supt. Carl J. Schmitt and the department's attorney are attending the New York meetings, Stuart said.

Meanwhile, State Controller Kenneth Cory said Friday he had asked that legislation be prepared giving a 90-day grace period to people who had used the currently worthless Universal money orders to meet tax and other state obligations.

Lawrence E. Gercovich, the controller's administrative adviser, said state agencies might be required by statute to assess fines and penalties on persons delinquent in payments, even in a situation where the person has acted in good faith.

"Clearly," Gercovich said, "This is an appropriate situation for the waiving of such fines and penalties, but agencies might have their hands tied statutorily."

Cory said he had asked Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-Upland, and the legislative counsel's office to prepare a bill extending the due date of payments met with the Universal Money Order drafts and waiving any penalty or interest required by existing laws.

"I HAVE NO idea how many individual payments or how many dollars due the state have been covered by Universal Money Orders," Cory said, "but under the circumstances I think the state should give every consideration to its citizens innocently caught in a situation over which they have no control."

Egeland, who said she had been asked to inquire into the matter by San Jose City Councilman Al Garza, said the money order firm had filed a petition in New York courts seeking protection from debtor lawsuits until it can work out its problems.

$415 stolen in house burglary

Long Beach police reported Friday that burglars who entered through a bathroom window took $416 in cash from the home of John Matheny, 425 Daisy Ave.

Water rations cut in N. Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A two-year drought is beginning to cause drastic changes in life-style for millions of Northern Californians in metropolitan areas.

Restaurants in San Francisco and other cities no longer automatically serve water with meals. On the table is a printed offer to furnish water on request, accompanied by a stern reminder that it takes an additional three glasses of water to wash the glass.

BEGINNING Tuesday, residents of Marin County, just north of the Golden Gate Bridge, will have to live with a tough water-rationing law that will cut back use by more than 50 per cent.

Some residents have already started the Spartan life.

"It's working out great," she said.

The drought has parched the state's farmlands for months and caused an estimated $1 billion in agricultural losses.

Gov. Brown, setting an example himself, said he would reduce the spray in his shower and limit the flushing of his toilet. He also ordered Friday that the massive water fountain on the Capitol grounds in Sacramento be shut off.

Brown said water rationing was urgently needed in at least 29 counties. He called on the counties to draw up tough water conservation ordinances and enforce them.

In response to what one official called the "drought crisis of unprecedented proportions," San Francisco has declared a water emergency, Alameda County officials sought sanction to impose restrictions on water use and Marin County adopted water rationing.

The Pardee reservoir, principal source of water for Oakland and other East Bay cities, is almost two thirds empty. Reservoirs serving Marin County are less than one-fourth full, and San Francisco's reservoirs now hold about 35 billion gallons of water compared to a normal 56 billion gallons.

State Democrats open convention

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — California's Democratic Party activists begin a two-day convention today to choose a new state chairman and to begin planning the 1978 defense of the party's huge advantage in the Legislature and congressional delegation.

Speeches by Gov. Brown and Sen. Alan Cranston will highlight today's schedule, with Brown slated to speak at lunch and Cranston at dinner.

More than 1,500 participants are expected at the State Central Committee convention, called primarily to select a successor to outgoing Chairman Charles Manatt of Los Angeles. Under the law, chairperson for the next two years must be a Northern Californian.

The candidates are Fred Furth of San Francisco and Bert Coffey of Richmond, with Coffey believed to have the edge.

Both candidates are expected to appear before a meeting of the 33-member Long Beach delegation this morning. The meeting was arranged by Assemblymen Mike Cullen and Fred Chel, both of Long Beach.

Congressmen Glenn Anderson and Mark Hannaford of Long Beach and Long Beach City Councilwoman Renee Simon are among the delegates expected to attend this morning's meeting.

Voting on the statewide officers will take place Sunday morning, but sectional elections will be held today. Among the candidates is Richard O'Neill of Santa Ana, seeking re-election as southern chairman against a spirited campaign by Bruce Corwin of Los Angeles. Ann Ramirez of San Pedro is running for southern vice-chairperson.

HAHN URGES DOUSING GASLIGHTS FOR SHOW

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn urged restaurants and other commercial establishments Friday to follow a county ordinance banning the use of natural gas for decorative purposes.

Hahn said he also will urge President Carter to call for a similar ban as national policy.

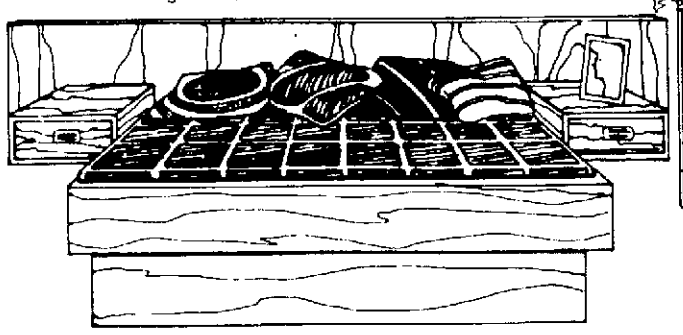

"With schools and factories being closed in the East, it is wrong for natural gas to be used anywhere in the United States for decorating and advertising purposes," he said.

The county ban, applying in unincorporated territory, went into effect in 1974 at the height of the energy crisis. The ordinance bans the use of natural gas for decorative purposes and requires the county engineer to deny building permits for their installation in new buildings.

Inmate role as drug guinea pigs hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In a hearing of sharply differing testimony, author Jessica Mitford Friday branded biomedical experimentation on California prison inmates as brutal and degrading and demanded a law to abolish it.

Most of the major witnesses agreed that the biggest incentive for inmates to volunteer for experiments is the extra money they receive, far beyond what they earn at other prison activities.

MRS. MITFORD, author of "The American Way of Death" and the prison study "Kind and Usual Punishment," told the Assembly Select Committee on Corrections that the pharmaceutical houses are the real beneficiaries of prison experiments.

The committee, according to chairman Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, will issue findings and recommendations to the Legislature later. Whether further hearings will be held has not been decided.

It should be the stockholders of the drug firms who undergo experiments, rather than California prison inmates, Mrs. Mitford hotly told the committee hearing.

By using inmates, she said, "it's a marvelously cheap way to get the testing done. They save millions of dollars . . . these drug experiments can be conducted in total secrecy without danger of discovery if a patient should become seriously ill, or should die, as a result."

One of the witnesses who disagreed with Mrs. Mitford was San Francisco State University sociology Prof. John Irwin, who began his testimony by telling the crowded hearing room that he was an ex-convict.

Irwin, who told a reporter he was convicted of armed robbery in Los Angeles in 1951 and served five years at Soledad, argued for continued prison experimentation "under altered circumstances."

He called for an "accreditation process" in which prison experimentation programs are controlled by doctors involved in the research, and by citizen and prisoner representatives.

"THE constant argument delivered through the Prisoners Union and elsewhere is that the convicts do not want this program taken away, for obvious reasons," he said. "The money."

But beyond payment, he said, "these programs involve a prison routine which is less punitive and has some privileges to it. Prisoners feel they are involved in something meaningful."

Irwin said participation in drug research brings inmates in contact "with outside people who broaden their life experience."

Dr. Laurens White, chairman of the California Medical Association's committee on Evolving Trends in Life, denounced the prison program and branded medical standards at most California prisons "shockingly, appallingly bad."

"The best of the bunch" was Vacaville Medical Facility, he said, adding that conditions even there were "not very good."

"No prison had any approved standards for any medical facility," he declared.

An observer at the hearing, Phil Guthrie, spokesman for the State Department of Corrections, told a reporter that consideration has been given to discontinuing the experiments, "but the inmates want it."

The experimentation was characterized as largely benign and well controlled by existing safeguards in testimony from Walter L. Barkdull, legislative liaison for the corrections department. He said:

"We not only have no direct interest in conducting medical experimentation, it is an administrative burden. We have cooperated with reputable researchers in the conduct of carefully selected, low-risk experiments because we believe it is beneficial to both inmates and the general public."

He said all participants are volunteers, no flesh incisions of any kind are permitted, "inmates are fairly paid," and there is "no coercion to participate."

More disciplining at state hospitals asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A continuing state investigation of deaths in mental hospitals, including several at Metropolitan in Norwalk, has resulted in recommendations for disciplinary action against 36 employes but no new criminal charges, officials said Friday.

Ray Procunier, deputy state health director in charge of the investigation, said conditions at the hospitals were not as bad as they had been portrayed.

As of Friday, Procunier said, the state has checked into 158 of the 167 deaths at the hospitals that were listed as questionable in a preliminary screening.

The investigation has not covered Camarillo State Hospital, where the state is deferring its investigation until local authorities finish work on criminal charges against several employes.

At the other 10 hospitals, Procunier said, the department has referred 130 cases to local prosecutors and is getting ready to refer 28 more.

Of those, district attorneys have cleared 26 and are still considering the rest, including one at Sonoma State Hospital and several at Metropolitan, where criminal charges are being seriously considered, Procunier said.

Possible criminal cases include one at Metropolitan in which an employe allegedly tried to intimidate another into not talking to investigators, said chief investigator Don Hauptman.

In addition, Procunier said, state investigators have recommended disciplinary action in 36 cases and changes in hospital operations in at least 44 cases. He didn't detail the disciplinary cases or say what penalties might be imposed.

As examples of cases that might warrant disciplinary action but not prosecution, Associate Health Director Thomas Keating cited:

—A patient listed as receiving medication at one hospital five days after being transferred to another.

—A death from stomach cancer in which "we think there was negligence in getting proper care, but there's no evidence that it would have prevented death."

He also said earlier reports of a drug ring at Metropolitan turned out to be some doctors who were selling vitamins and medicines to friends wholesale or giving them away.

New missile cut to aid U.S.-Russ talks mulled

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, in a move to renew negotiations with the Soviet Union on strategic arms limitations, will consider suspending the advanced development of the controversial cruise missile, at least temporarily.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said Friday that President Carter "will in fact consider a request" by 11 Democrats for a thorough review of the weapon's impact on arms control talks.

THE cruise study is one of several elements in a National Security Council review ordered by Carter in preparation for Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's planned trip to Moscow in late March.

Vance, meanwhile, named a leading expert on Soviet affairs, Marshall D. Shulman, as his principal adviser in dealing with the Kremlin. Shulman, 60, is director of the Russian Institute at Columbia University and will have the title of special consultant. He once served as a special assistant to Dean Acheson, the late secretary of state.

In another development, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin telephoned Vance late Thursday to inform him that the State Department's public statement supporting embattled Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov was not helpful to U.S.-Soviet relations.

IN THE statement, the State Department said Thursday that if the Soviets try to silence the dissident physicist and Nobel peace prize winner, it would be in conflict "with accepted international standards of human rights."

A specialist in Soviet affairs said privately that Moscow appeared to be nearing a decision on Sakharov, with a view to possibly exiling him. In Moscow, meanwhile, four dissident writers in a public statement addressed to world leaders, including Carter, warned that Sakharov was in "mortal danger."

The congressional appeal to Carter, organized by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., seeks to reverse a decision in the closing days of the Ford administration to authorize development of Navy and the Air Force cruise missiles.

Earlier, Defense Secretary Harold Brown proposed increased emphasis on developing the Army's version of a ground-launched, comparatively short-range cruise missile. That missile would be used inside Europe rather than against the Soviet Union itself.

POWELL made no specific reference to such missiles, but instead limited his comments to plans by the Air Force and Navy to develop advanced versions of the cruise missile.

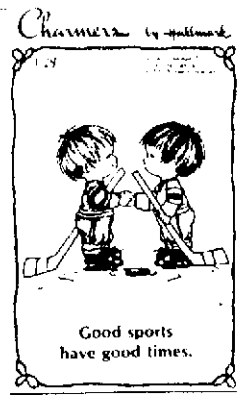

U.S.-Soviet negotiations have been snagged for more than a year principally over Soviet demands that the cruise be included in the proposed ceiling on U.S. weapons. U.S. negotiators in turn are demanding that the Russians count their supersonic Backfire bomber in the parallel Soviet limitations.

Powell said, "We would of course prefer not to spend anything we don't need." However, he went on, what the administration finally decides to do about weapons depends on the Soviet attitude.

The National Security Council study is to be directed by Joseph S. Nye Jr., an arms control expert who has been named deputy under-secretary of state.

Carter has said he intends to move from "fairly rapid ratification" of a new treaty toward "a much more substantive reduction in atomic weapons as the first step to complete elimination in the future."

Carter tightens nuclear curbs

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has ordered stricter controls on the sale of all nuclear technology and supplies, meaning a continued delay in an overdue shipment of uranium ore to India will result, U.S. officials said Friday.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter denied that he had issued any new order to further delay the shipment to India, which has been held up for study for several months.

In a statement, Powell said an earlier report by The Associated Press that the President had ordered a stop to the uranium shipment was incorrect and "the sources at the State Department who reportedly made such a statement are clearly misinformed."

Powell also quoted Secretary of State Cyrus D. Vance as denying he had promised the Indians that the matter would get high priority. Indian sources had reported receiving such an assurance.

The directive on stricter control of nuclear material is pending a review of over-all U.S. policy to check the spread of nuclear arms.

It came in the face of informal Indian warnings that the Tarapur nuclear power plant has less than one month's fuel left. A shutdown, the Carter administration has informally been advised, would disrupt the civil, industrial and agricultural life of Bombay and its surroundings with immeasurable human and economic consequences.

There was some evidence, meantime, that administration officials differed over the issue of fulfilling the American commitment to supply Tarapur with its needs for non-weapons-grade uranium.

"Some of us assume that India, in the event of an American cutoff of fuel, will turn elsewhere for its needs, probably to the Soviet Union," one official said. "The Soviets have been cooperative in seeking to stop the proliferation of nuclear weapons, but Tarapur is a civil power plant and Moscow would find it hard to turn the Indians down."

Other U.S. officials said the Tarapur station was built with American help, under American supervision and with the understanding that all its fuel would be American.

"It would be a breakdown, the first of its kind, if the Indians were to turn elsewhere for fuel sources," another U.S. official remarked. "But we here are facing the fact that India, by test-firing a nuclear device in Rajastan in 1974, lost some of its credibility as a loyal observer of an international agreement."

U.S. rejects Korea plea for Mondale stop in Seoul

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON—The Carter administration has turned down a plea from the South Korean government that Vice President Walter Mondale visit Seoul during his current tour.

The Korean Embassy here put the request to the vice president's office before Mondale left, sources said, suggesting that President Park Chung Hee would feel slighted if the vice president went to Asia without stopping in Korea. Many Koreans consider their nation to be the U.S.' major ally in Asia.

U.S. officials suggested that it would have been "inconsistent" with President Carter's view on human rights for him to send a special envoy to Korea at this time in light of Park's suppression of those rights there.

Moreover, they indicated that it would not be politically wise for the new administration to show special consideration to the Koreans now, given the recent allegations of questionable Korean lobbying and alleged bribery of U.S. congressmen.

Mondale is scheduled to arrive in Tokyo, only a two-hour flight from Seoul, on Sunday on the last stop of his journey to Western Europe and Japan.

The sources indicated that Park's government was anxious to obtain a reaffirmation of the U.S. security commitment to South Korea and to receive a sign that the Carter administration backs the Park government.

More immediate, the Koreans were said to have wanted a Mondale visit to repair the damage to the Korean relationship with the U.S. caused by the lobbying controversy.

The Korean government was also reported to want a first-hand indication of how insistent the new administration intends to be on having Park restore human rights that he has suppressed. Korean diplomats here have taken careful note of the President's statements on human rights in his inaugural address and the State Department statement on human rights in Czechoslovakia.

The Koreans were also said to be anxious to know how determined and how fast Carter intends to withdraw U.S. troops from South Korea. About 40,000 remain there.

Sakharov asks Carter to 'raise your voice' against persecution in Russia

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Andrei D. Sakharov, the Soviet political dissident, sent a personal letter to President Carter through the State Department Friday urging him "to raise your voice" on behalf of persecuted political and religious activists in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

"Here we have a hard, almost unbearable situation, not only in the USSR but also in all the countries of Eastern Europe," the Nobel Prize-winning physicist wrote. He said that despite the Helsinki accords of 1975, "the authorities do not wish to make any concessions to the most vital human rights."

The letter was delivered Friday morning to Philip C. Habib, under-secretary of state for political affairs, by Martin Garbus, a New York civil liberties lawyer, who met with Sakharov, his wife and other dissidents in Moscow last week. Garbus, who made the letter available to The New York Times, said he was representing Sakharov in discussions with the U.S. government.

Delivery came by coincidence one day after the State Department had cautioned the Russians officially against trying to silence the physicist. That statement, in turn, provoked Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin to complain over the telephone Thursday to Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Ironically, although the department Friday stood by its defense of Sakharov, Vance had not been shown the statement and was unprepared for Dobrynin's phone call. He later rebuked subordinates for issuing the statement without clearing it with him.

In Friday's letter, Sakharov said that it was "our and your duty" to defend "those who suffer because of their nonviolent struggle for openness, for justice, for destroyed rights of other people."

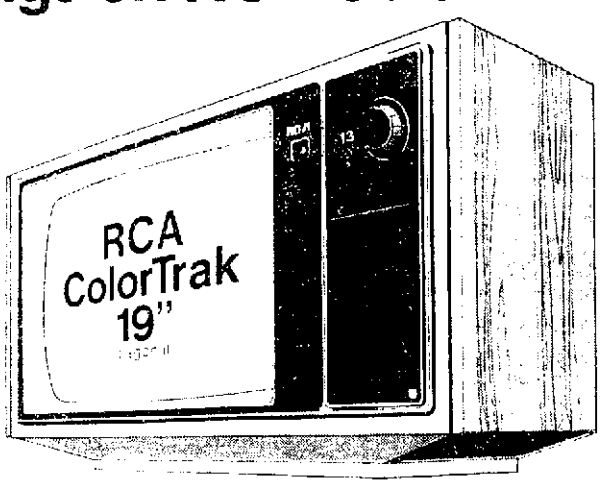

He repeated one of his themes that there can only be "international security" if the peoples of both countries are permitted their human rights.

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, in a move to renew negotiations with the Soviet Union on strategic arms limitations, will consider suspending the advanced development of the controversial cruise missile, at least temporarily.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said Friday that President Carter "will in fact consider a request" by 11 Democrats for a thorough review of the weapon's impact on arms control talks.

THE cruise study is one of several elements in a National Security Council review ordered by Carter in preparation for Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's planned trip to Moscow in late March.

Vance, meanwhile, named a leading expert on Soviet affairs, Marshall D. Shulman, as his principal adviser in dealing with the Kremlin. Shulman, 60, is director of the Russian Institute at Columbia University and will have the title of special consultant. He once served as a special assistant to Dean Acheson, the late secretary of state.

In another development, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin telephoned Vance late Thursday to inform him that the State Department's public statement supporting embattled Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov was not helpful to U.S.-Soviet relations.

IN THE statement, the State Department said Thursday that if the Soviets try to silence the dissident physicist and Nobel peace prize winner, it would be in conflict "with accepted international standards of human rights."

A specialist in Soviet affairs said privately that Moscow appeared to be nearing a decision on Sakharov, with a view to possibly exiling him. In Moscow, meanwhile, four dissident writers in a public statement addressed to world leaders, including Carter, warned that Sakharov was in "mortal danger."

The congressional appeal to Carter, organized by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., seeks to reverse a decision in the closing days of the Ford administration to authorize development of Navy and the Air Force cruise missiles.

Earlier, Defense Secretary Harold Brown proposed increased emphasis on developing the Army's version of a ground-launched, comparatively short-range cruise missile. That missile would be used inside Europe rather than against the Soviet Union itself.

POWELL made no specific reference to such missiles, but instead limited his comments to plans by the Air Force and Navy to develop advanced versions of the cruise missile.

U.S.-Soviet negotiations have been snagged for more than a year principally over Soviet demands that the cruise be included in the proposed ceiling on U.S. weapons. U.S. negotiators in turn are demanding that the Russians count their supersonic Backfire bomber in the parallel Soviet limitations.

Powell said, "We would of course prefer not to spend anything we don't need." However, he went on, what the administration finally decides to do about weapons depends on the Soviet attitude.

The National Security Council study is to be directed by Joseph S. Nye Jr., an arms control expert who has been named deputy under-secretary of state.

Carter has said he intends to move from "fairly rapid ratification" of a new treaty toward "a much more substantive reduction in atomic weapons as the first step to complete elimination in the future."

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has ordered stricter controls on the sale of all nuclear technology and supplies, meaning a continued delay in an overdue shipment of uranium ore to India will result, U.S. officials said Friday.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter denied that he had issued any new order to further delay the shipment to India, which has been held up for study for several months.

In a statement, Powell said an earlier report by The Associated Press that the President had ordered a stop to the uranium shipment was incorrect and "the sources at the State Department who reportedly made such a statement are clearly misinformed."

Powell also quoted Secretary of State Cyrus D. Vance as denying he had promised the Indians that the matter would get high priority. Indian sources had reported receiving such an assurance.

The directive on stricter control of nuclear material is pending a review of over-all U.S. policy to check the spread of nuclear arms.

It came in the face of informal Indian warnings that the Tarapur nuclear power plant has less than one month's fuel left. A shutdown, the Carter administration has informally been advised, would disrupt the civil, industrial and agricultural life of Bombay and its surroundings with immeasurable human and economic consequences.

There was some evidence, meantime, that administration officials differed over the issue of fulfilling the American commitment to supply Tarapur with its needs for non-weapons-grade uranium.

"Some of us assume that India, in the event of an American cutoff of fuel, will turn elsewhere for its needs, probably to the Soviet Union," one official said. "The Soviets have been cooperative in seeking to stop the proliferation of nuclear weapons, but Tarapur is a civil power plant and Moscow would find it hard to turn the Indians down."

Other U.S. officials said the Tarapur station was built with American help, under American supervision and with the understanding that all its fuel would be American.

"It would be a breakdown, the first of its kind, if the Indians were to turn elsewhere for fuel sources," another U.S. official remarked. "But we here are facing the fact that India, by test-firing a nuclear device in Rajastan in 1974, lost some of its credibility as a loyal observer of an international agreement."

U.S. rejects Korea plea for Mondale stop in Seoul

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON—The Carter administration has turned down a plea from the South Korean government that Vice President Walter Mondale visit Seoul during his current tour.

The Korean Embassy here put the request to the vice president's office before Mondale left, sources said, suggesting that President Park Chung Hee would feel slighted if the vice president went to Asia without stopping in Korea. Many Koreans consider their nation to be the U.S.' major ally in Asia.

U.S. officials suggested that it would have been "inconsistent" with President Carter's view on human rights for him to send a special envoy to Korea at this time in light of Park's suppression of those rights there.

Moreover, they indicated that it would not be politically wise for the new administration to show special consideration to the Koreans now, given the recent allegations of questionable Korean lobbying and alleged bribery of U.S. congressmen.

School arrests mounting

'Roots' sinks deep into U.S.

Associated Press

A school official blamed the television series "Roots" for fights at Hot Springs High School in Arkansas Friday. The school was closed early and 18 students were arrested.

The historical drama of troubled race relations has had that kind of impact across the country this week. "Roots" is causing a phenomenal reaction and, with two episodes to go, is already the most-watched television series of all time.

It's Super Bowl every night. People are bringing TV sets to work, watching in airports and bars, leaving meetings early and emptying movie theaters and restaurants to get home in time for the nightly episodes. At least 250 colleges are offering credits for watching the series and reading the book by Alex Haley.

At Hot Springs, fighting broke out in the school parking lot before classes began, and during the lunch period in the cafeteria, Supt. Bruce Meeks said.

City and state police were called to end the disturbance.

Dr. Meeks said about one-quarter of the school's 1,250 students are black.

Meeks said tension had been building in the school since the week-long ABC series began Sunday evening. The book traces the life history of a black slave brought to America.

Police said the students were arrested on a variety of charges, such as disturbing the peace and disobeying an officer. The 18 were turned over to juvenile authorities, they said.

"'Roots' is pretty heavy for teen-agers; some of them — blacks and whites — can't handle it," Meeks said. "Feelings have been building up since the show began. We began feeling the vibrations as early as Tuesday. Kids were calling each other names, and teachers were reporting problems."

Erma Hendrix, president of the Arkansas NAACP, said she was "appalled" that Meeks was blaming "Roots." She said more programs like "Roots" are needed to reveal the truth about blacks in America.

Meeks said the high school will reopen Monday with police on duty on the school grounds.

Based on Haley's fictionalized history of his family, from freedom in Africa to slavery in America to freedom again, "Roots" opened Sunday with an audience of 75 million, according to ABC, and has got bigger every night.

The 12-hour, eight-part series is already the most-watched TV series, and ABC hopes that its Sunday-night conclusion will become the highest-rated single show. The Tuesday night Neilsen ratings — 44.8 and 68 per cent of the audience — are exceeded only by the two-part showing of the film classic "Gone With the Wind" as the highest-rated TV presentation of all time.

The TV version of "Roots" has shown a realistic portrayal of slavery in which blacks are casually and deliberately dehumanized and brutalized by whites.

Although widely praised by civil rights leaders, the series has been controversial. Viewers in some cities complained, and it was blamed for racial incidents at schools in Harrisburg, Pa., and Detroit. David Duke, head of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, called it "highly inaccurate."

Despite nudity, violence and a strongly emotional theme, many schools are encouraging students to watch. Los Angeles schools have distributed hundreds of copies of the book for a study course beginning next week.

In Inkster, Mich., Supt. of Schools Cleveland Hammonds said he found no objection to the nudity, most of which occurred during scenes showing life in Africa. "I think the series handled those scenes appropriately," he said.

Leaking gas mask blamed for GI's erratic behavior

DUGWAY PROVING GROUND, Utah (AP) — A soldier who inhaled a nonlethal dose of nerve gas that sent him into hallucinations may have been the victim of a faulty gas mask, officials said Friday.

Army Spec. 5 Ronald Mutchko, 23, was reported in serious condition Friday at the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake City. Doctors said he would live, but his hallucinations could continue for four days and he may be hospitalized for seven days.

Mutchko has a rapid heart rate, doesn't know where he is and cannot communicate most of the time, they said.

Although the nerve gas is classified by the Army as nonlethal, doctors said it could cause heart failure if taken in large enough amounts.

Doctors said Mutchko was suffering auditory and visual hallucinations much like a person who has taken LSD.

Staff Sgt. Richard Mahan, 28, who was with Mutchko when the accident occurred Thursday, was released Friday after he showed no symptoms.

Dugway officials said the Mutchko was contaminated while dismantling a cluster bomb containing a nerve agent the Army calls BZ. It is a crystalline powder which turns to gas on exposure to air.

The device was about the size of a coffee can and held about 40 BZ containers the size of flashlight batteries.

The obsolete device was to be destroyed as part of a massive program begun in 1975 to dispose of chemical warfare agents.

The men were ordered to dismantle the device for tests to determine how the agent should be neutralized. X-rays determined the agent was a powder, instead of a liquid, indicating it was nonlethal.

President and pollster 'talk out' America's mood

By CHARLES MOHR
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter and his 26-year-old campaign adviser on public opinion polling, Patrick H. Caddell, have continued their running seminar on the mood of the American people, and their conclusions will probably do much to shape the Carter administration.

If there is a deliberate, careful tempo in the President's early performance, it will be in part because of a consensus reached by the politician and the pollster that Carter can only overcome national cynicism and suspicion about government by slow and incremental progress toward achievable goals.

Caddell, a cherubic whiz kid who measured public opinion for Carter during the political campaign, remains part of an unofficial but highly influential circle of advisers who hold no official jobs or titles and which also includes Atlanta lawyer Charles Kirbo and advertising executive Jerald Rafshoon. Caddell has seen Carter at length at least eight times since the election.

Significantly, when he assembled his cabinet appointees for their first meeting at St. Simons Island, Ga., after Christmas, the first thing Carter wanted his team to hear was a presentation from Caddell on the public mood and expectations.

Caddell is both a political and commercial taker of public opinion surveys. Although he is not on the public payroll, there may be criticism that his continuing role as a Carter adviser conflicts with his role in marketing an "in depth" quarterly survey of national attitudes on economic and other questions to more than 20 major American corporations and the Saudi Arabian government. The fact that he and Rafshoon will share new commercial office space for branches of their separate concerns near the White House next month, is also likely to invite closer attention.

The main offices of Caddell's two firms, Cambridge Survey Research Inc., which polls for Democratic political candidates, and the commercial Cambridge Reports, will remain in Cambridge, Mass., and the Washington branch office is to help handle planned polling activity for Democratic congressional candidates in the 1978 elections.

Caddell will not be taking polls for Carter and the government directly. He is presently finishing a massive post-election analysis of the presidential election which will be paid for by the Democratic National Committee, and he will continue to do surveys for that organization.

One reason the relationship is close personally is that it is so close intellectually. Although the President is just five months short of being twice Caddell's age, they are synergistic and compatible thinkers.

It is, therefore, particularly interesting to hear the young Cambridge pollster speak, as he did this week in an interview.

The President may have as much, or more, ego as any successful politician, but it is tempered by a less-than-egotistical reading of public opinion.

"There is an internal contradiction in the American public," said Caddell. "They like Jimmy Carter, but he still seems risky to them. He's new and they are not sure about him. He knows it."

That perception is closely linked to and complements another idea shared by the two men. This is, as Caddell told the cabinet appointees at St. Simons Island, that the public mood is one of "high hopes but low expectations."

In this view, Carter is taking office in an atmosphere still partially poisoned by the Vietnam era credibility gap, the Watergate scandal, the "failure" of Great Society social programs and decades of what Carter sees as over-promising by politicians.

456-1414 is hottest Washington number

By RICHARD E. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Try calling 456-1414 in Washington. It's the White House, and the hottest number in town. Jimmy Carter and his staff are getting calls by the thousands — so many the White House exchange rings busy for hours at a time.

If an operator does answer and you ask for the President, the odds are slim you'll get him.

"I'm sorry, but he's not available by phone," the operator is likely to say. Then she'll ask your name and number and whatever message you have.

IF YOU'VE GOT a complaint or a suggestion, you're likely to be asked to put it in writing so it won't get lost, the spokesman says.

Should you want a particular member of the staff, the extension in the staff member's office might not answer right away.

Carter is making cuts and the White House isn't as full of secretaries and clerks as it used to be.

In fact, newness is a reason for the flood of calls.

"People are phoning to find out where the new people are and what happened to the old ones," the operator said.

There are other reasons, too:

—Some people are responding to Carter's People Program, which is taking suggestions for government from plain folks.

—Others are worried about the natural gas shortage.

—Still others are criticizing or complimenting Carter's pardon of Vietnam-era draft dodgers. There has been no precise breakdown on these calls.

Chief operator Mary Burns, who has answered phones at the White House for years, says its 17 operators took 81,000 calls on pardon day, Jan. 21 — which also was the day after Carter was inaugurated.

That makes it the day with the most calls since just before President Nixon resigned 2½ years ago. On one day then, the number of calls climbed to 102,000.

On a normal day, callers number about 40,000.

Unless they all come at once, the White House switchboard, with its 25 lines, can handle that without any trouble. But when the number doubles, all the lines get busy.

"WE'RE HOPING to sustain interest in the administration," a White House spokesman said. But he counted 56 call slips from his secretary, added another 20 or 30 calls he took himself and said a little ruefully, "We're just getting started."

A staff member in the office of special assistant Hugh Carter Jr., in charge of cutbacks, said, "We definitely don't plan to put on any more people" to handle the calls.

Hugh Carter is the son of one of the President's cousins.

"There've been some volunteers come in to help," the staff member said. "I assume this will cease in a week. But for right now, we're just going to have to struggle.

"That's what we're doing, I'll tell you."

Knight News Service

WASHINGTON — New York Rep. Shirley Chisholm, the secretary of the House Democratic Caucus, has been excluded from President Carter's meetings with congressional leaders, and black lawmakers will meet Tuesday to discuss what some regard as a snub.

Although the White House did not choose those invited to Carter's regular breakfast powwows, failure to include the first black and first woman holding a congressional leadership position poses a potentially embarrassing political problem for the President.

Her Senate counterpart, Democratic conference secretary Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, participates in the White House meetings.

Black Caucus Chairman Parren Mitchell, D-Md., said, "it would make sense," to include the fiery congresswoman and former presidential candidate.

Frank Moore, director of congressional liaison for the White House, said House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd "had definitely not been limited" on the number of colleagues they could bring to the Tuesday morning meetings with Carter.

But O'Neill said the White House had asked for five names to invite, that five were given, and that he had no knowledge of whom the Senate would designate.

IF THE matter is not resolved in the House, Carter could be confronted with it. He has drawn criticism in recent weeks from blacks and women, who have been unhappy over what they see as his failure to keep promises to bring more of them into the top levels of his administration.

The Black Caucus of 17 House members also has criticized Carter's economic package as "insufficient."

"I'm surprised anyone would bring this up," O'Neill said through a spokesman. "I think the world of Shirley Chisholm. I appointed her to the Rules Committee."

Rehnquist casts cloud on high court 'sunshine' idea

Washington Star

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court won't be the same place, and may not even work as well, if there is too much "sunshine" on its deliberations, Justice William H. Rehnquist believes.

In a speech Thursday in Kansas, Rehnquist argued in particular against permitting publicity about the justices' closed-door conferences to discuss and vote on pending cases.

Apparently reacting to the spread of "sunshine" laws, forcing open more deliberations of government agencies in general, he said the court's conference needs to be private because it "is a somewhat fragile institution."

If the press were allowed to watch those sessions, Rehnquist contended, the justices would then feel inhibited in what they said to each other, would feel obliged to have their law clerks at their sides and would no longer feel compelled to prepare themselves as fully, since they could rely on whispered help from their clerks.

"In the long run, the public would be the loser," he said. The harmony that exists despite disagreements would be hurt, and the justices would react to pressures rather than trying simply to "persuade and consult with one another."

Conceding that news coverage of the conference would help the public know more about "the human side" of the court's work, Rehnquist argued that deep conflicts of views among the justices might become conflicts of personality if put on public display.

Rehnquist spoke at Washburn University Law School in Topeka.

President and pollster 'talk out' America's mood

By CHARLES MOHR
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter and his 26-year-old campaign adviser on public opinion polling, Patrick H. Caddell, have continued their running seminar on the mood of the American people, and their conclusions will probably do much to shape the Carter administration.

If there is a deliberate, careful tempo in the President's early performance, it will be in part because of a consensus reached by the politician and the pollster that Carter can only overcome national cynicism and suspicion about government by slow and incremental progress toward achievable goals.

Caddell, a cherubic whiz kid who measured public opinion for Carter during the political campaign, remains part of an unofficial but highly influential circle of advisers who hold no official jobs or titles and which also includes Atlanta lawyer Charles Kirbo and advertising executive Jerald Rafshoon. Caddell has seen Carter at length at least eight times since the election.

Significantly, when he assembled his cabinet appointees for their first meeting at St. Simons Island, Ga., after Christmas, the first thing Carter wanted his team to hear was a presentation from Caddell on the public mood and expectations.

Caddell is both a political and commercial taker of public opinion surveys. Although he is not on the public payroll, there may be criticism that his continuing role as a Carter adviser conflicts with his role in marketing an "in depth" quarterly survey of national attitudes on economic and other questions to more than 20 major American corporations and the Saudi Arabian government. The fact that he and Rafshoon will share new commercial office space for branches of their separate concerns near the White House next month, is also likely to invite closer attention.

The main offices of Caddell's two firms, Cambridge Survey Research Inc., which polls for Democratic political candidates, and the commercial Cambridge Reports, will remain in Cambridge, Mass., and the Washington branch office is to help handle planned polling activity for Democratic congressional candidates in the 1978 elections.

Caddell will not be taking polls for Carter and the government directly. He is presently finishing a massive post-election analysis of the presidential election which will be paid for by the Democratic National Committee, and he will continue to do surveys for that organization.

Blumenthal eyes smoother global trade

By G. DAVID WALLACE

WASHINGTON (AP)— Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal says that as part of the administration's anti-inflation policy the United States will push this year to make international trade substantially easier.

Meanwhile, he said in an interview, the U.S. should impose import protection measures of its own only as a last resort.

The progress in easing international trade, if it comes, would be at the sputtering "Tokyo Round" of multilateral trade negotiations. They have been either in the planning or negotiation stage for three years. Some major U.S. trading partners have already expressed a desire to reach some significant agreements this year.

BUT Blumenthal's position on domestic protectionist policies, while not rejecting outright the possibility of quotas or tariffs in some cases, could risk further alienating Congress and organized labor if applied broadly.

Several unions have stepped up pressure for increased import protection as a means to protect the jobs of U.S. workers. Labor and some top Democrats have already taken issue with President Carter's job proposals, criticizing them as too anemic.

Blumenthal's interview included comment on these subjects:

—Wage-price guidelines. The administration is in the process of drafting some broad yardsticks which could be used in assessing the merit of wage or price increases, although it's by no means settled whether the administration will decide to resort to guidelines at all. "I think there's a strong disposition on the part of everybody to do this in the most informal way possible."

—Inflation. Price increases have attained a stubborn momentum which would make it difficult to trim back substantially in the next year or so the current 5 per cent to 6 per cent rate of increase. "I think you can only do it very gradually. You can do it by convincing people you're not going to be irresponsible."

HE SAID a key tool in the administration's inflation strategy should be international trade policy, so that any pressures for higher prices on domestic goods could be counterbalanced by unrestricted access of consumers to any cheaper imported goods.

"If we were to become rather closed in our approach, then as the economy operates closer to capacity, if imports can't flow, then you have more internal inflation," he said.

Blumenthal said there always would be particular cases where the impact of imports on a domestic industry would necessitate quotas, tariffs or other protection. But he said he would always first consider softening the impact through special loans or other adjustment assistance or would seek to negotiate some sort of voluntary restrictions with the countries involved.

"I would always counsel that you leave unilateral restrictions as a last resort," Blumenthal said.

Before the end of March, Blumenthal will have to advise Carter on whether to go along with a recommendation by the U.S. International Trade Commission to impose a combined tariff-quota on imported shoes. The commission has estimated the move would save 10,000 jobs at a cost to shoe buyers of $170 million a year.

Carter economic package opens anti-recession era

By PAUL LEWIS
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Carter on Thursday presented the Congress and the nation with a modest package of stimulatory economic measures, whose size and composition have been influenced by a combination of conservative instincts and political calculations.

The package, which in its final form will be worth $15.5 billion during the current year, is clearly at the bottom of the range of possible measures that had been discussed over the past few weeks by those many economists, politicians and businessmen who believe some additional stimulus is needed.

BUT THE package has still been widely welcomed at home and abroad, not so much because it is likely to influence the economy's performance much in the year ahead, but for two rather different reasons. First, an even smaller package, or no package at all, might have had a disastrous effect on confidence and heralded another recession.

More important is the belief, widely encouraged by members of the new administration and their political allies, that the package represents a commitment to avoid another recession with all its unforeseeable consequences, and that more action will be taken as needed.

"This is the first stab to deal with a particular problem," Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal told the House Budget Committee Thursday as he outlined the measure. "It is the beginning of a continuum."

In drawing up the package, the new President has put to one side a host of advice favoring a much larger and differently designed stimulatory dose, for reasons that reflect both economic considerations and political ones.

ANALYSIS
N.Y. TIMES SERVICE

A STRANGE alliance of organized labor, in the form of the AFL-CIO, together with such conservative economists as Dr. Paul W. McCracken, the chairman of former President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors, favored a stimulus in the $25 billion to $30 billion range.

But while labor wanted it all in the form of additional government spending to create new jobs immediately, McCracken would prefer a permanent cut in direct taxation.

President Carter opted for a smaller total stimulus, his aides say, largely because he feared re-igniting an inflation rate that is still historically high for the amount of slack in the economy, and also because he feared a bigger package would undermine business confidence and damage the recovery.

But the contents of his package — with its relatively small permanent tax cut and emphasis on growing public works programs — clearly reflected a political choice.

The public works programs are intended over time to alleviate chronic pockets of unemployment without refueling inflation.

And by leaving the federal government's tax-raising ability largely intact, the new President has made a conscious decision to pile up surplus revenue in the years ahead when the economy is stronger, which most observers believe he and the Congress are more likely to devote to social aims than return to citizens in the form of tax cuts.

"THE CONTENTS of the Carter package strongly suggest it has been designed to please Congress, which likes to tax and to spend," remarked Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and vice president at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Says Dr. George L. Perry of the Brookings Institution: "The package is consistent with the Carter administration's long-term goals.

"It should sustain a reasonable rate of economic recovery, with the nation's total output of goods and services growing by 5 to 6 per cent in the coming year."

But at the same time, Perry believes its public spending programs offer a chance to ease hardcore unemployment and get it eventually "below the 5 per cent level that now seems the minimum."

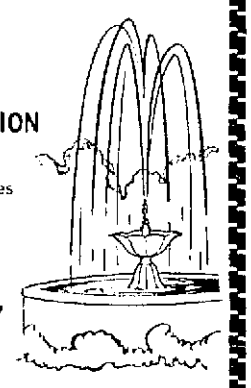

FINALLY, by leaving tax rates largely unchanged the administration may have a budget surplus of some $70 billion a year by the end of its first term, which it could devote to new social programs or use to finance tax cuts for the poor.

Firms adjusting pay to reflect performance

Knight News Service

Companies across the nation, concerned over declining white-collar productivity, are revamping their pay policies to make salaries and bonuses more clearly reflect performance, according to a study by the Conference Board.

More than half the 493 companies surveyed said they have overhauled their employe evaluation programs in the last few years.

A national trend toward social and economic equality has spurred the corporate rethinking, as the pay gap narrows among white-collar, skilled craft and unskilled production workers, the study noted.

The study found that many companies temporarily abandoned merit pay programs with the lifting of wage controls in early 1974 and gave one-shot, across-the-board pay increases to protect employes from the ravages of inflation.

The action touched off competitive pay battles among leading firms, with annual raises averaging between 7½ and 11 per cent in 1974 and 1975.

The lingering effects of inflation, salary controls and the recession have injected "a new dose of reality" into compensation planning, said David Weeks, author of the study and director of compensation and labor search at the board, a nonprofit New York business research organization.

Some firms are seriously considering dropping merit-pay plans in favor of longevity increases for clerical workers, while others are considering compensation devices such as stabilizing salaries to reflect all jobs in the company, but awarding yearly bonuses, based on individual performance, to most managerial employes.

Firms also are seeking better ways to determine which individuals should be demoted, transferred or denied merit raises.

The trend toward "egalitarianism," however, is being felt more acutely by executives and professionals with annual incomes of $50,000, the study found.

Recent government actions, including laws requiring stiffer income taxes from this group, congressional moves to transfer the Social Security burden from all workers to higher-paid employes, and efforts to limit executive pensions, have made it increasingly difficult to set up an incentive and reward system that can help motivate top-level executives.

To remedy this, companies are considering granting greater-than-usual salary hikes to managers and professionals with full responsibility for business performance and cutting back on salaries and bonuses to lower-level managers.

They are also considering providing increased benefits to top executives, such as reimbursing various taxes paid by this group, and subsidizing deluxe medical care and schools abroad for their children, to "assure them social distance from others," the report said.

$50 rebate seen 'welfare payment'

Knight News Service

WASHINGTON — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., one of the most influential tax-writers on Capitol Hill, wants to revise President Carter's plan to give every American a $50 tax rebate or cash payment. He also believes Carter's $2.7 billion business tax proposal should be beamed more toward direct job creation.

"I don't feel strongly about it, but I think the rebate plan should relate a little more to income taxes paid, instead of being a welfare payment," said Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, after a White House meeting Friday with the President.

As for Carter's proposals to give business a 12 per cent investment tax creditor a 4 per cent credit on Social Security payments, Ullman said it was his "strong feeling" that these options be replaced by a new job credit that would grant a tax break to companies for each new employe added to their payrolls.

With these two exceptions, Ullman voiced general satisfaction with the size and distribution of the Carter package and predicted it would pass Congress without substantial change in its size. He added that he would try to get the bill through the House by the end of February.

THE Oregon Democrat said that he would like to see this year's rebate scheme patterned after the 1975 rebate, which provided $100 to $200 to taxpayers with incomes up to $30,000, and special $50 payments to Social Security retirees.

Committee staff experts already are working on an employment tax credit for business that "looks very viable," Ullman said. He disclosed that Carter expressed interest in the idea and promised to have his own staff look at it.

"We are not going to rubber-stamp everything that President Carter sends up, obviously," Ullman said. "He's indicated some flexibility, but I think the general size and distribution of the package will stay pretty much the same."

U.S. professor stirs furor on Nazi slaughter 'myth'

By STEIN S. KING
New York Times Service

EVANSTON, Ill. — A book by a Northwestern University professor that says the Nazi extermination of European Jews was nothing more than a Zionist-inspired myth, has caused a storm of campus and community protest and has embarrassed university administrators.

The book, "The Fabrication Of A Hoax," was written by Arthur R. Butz, an associate professor or electrical engineering and was published last May in Britain.

THE BOOK'S existence was disclosed two weeks ago by The Daily Northwestern, the student newspaper, which learned of it through an article in The Jerusalem Post.

In the book, Butz argues that there was no German policy of Jewish extermination, and that millions of European Jews were not deliberately slain in Nazi concentration camps.

Instead, he contends, many of them died of disease and starvation or were "deported to the East."

Assertions of a Jewish holocaust, he writes, were contrived by Zionist leaders to promote sympathy for a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

The Daily Northwestern's story on the book has brought a flood of letters from students and faculty members, most of them denouncing Butz and deploring the book.

Petitions were circulated this week and signed by many faculty members and students. Their petitions warned that the book only added "academic legitimacy to anti-Semitic propaganda."

The petitions also criticze the Northwestern administration for failing to express any personal outrage over the book's allegations.

ROBERT H. STROTZ, university president, said last week he was aware of the book but that, as a tenured professor and a private citizen, Butz had the right to publish whatever he chose.

Provost Raymond W. Mack, speaking for the university, issued a statement that he agreed with his faculty colleagues and students who believed that a distortion of well-documented historical facts constituted "a contemptible insult to the dead and the bereaved."

"No informed persons could take seriously the allegation that Northwestern University is supportive of anti-Semitism," he said, adding that "I feel compassion for the many people of my generation to whom a discussion of the ugly horrors of the Nazi regime is a reopening of an old wound."

Butz said Thursday he was surprised by the furor the book had touched off, adding, "The reaction was certainly stronger than I thought."

Asked why he was surprised when he had written a book that argued that such a terrifying period in Jewish history was all a hoax, he replied: "Either these things happened or they didn't. There shouldn't be a question of raising values when I presented facts based on painstaking research. I am surprised that people would be demanding to have me fired."

BUTZ, WHO noted he was not related to Earl L. Butz, former secretary of agriculture, said he had become interested in the Jewish extermination question after reading a number of books on it and studying the records of the Nuremburg Trials. He began his research in the summer of 1972, he said, and completed the manuscript last spring.

"I had trouble finding a publisher for it and finally went to Britain — to the Historical Review Press in Richmond — after I found out they had published a pamphlet entitled 'Did Six Million Really Die?'" he said.

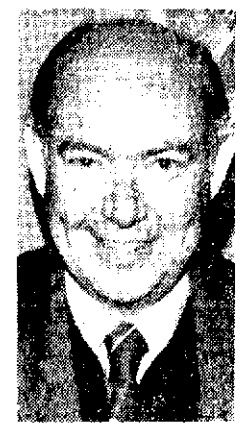

Council to honor church leaders

Dr. Randall C. Phillips, pastor of the Wilshire United Methodist Church for 17 years, will be the speaker at the 24th annual meeting of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches Friday, 6:30 p.m., at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Eighth Street and Linden Avenue.

Special recognition will be given to ecumenical leaders of Long Beach. E. John Hanna will be master of ceremonies. Five persons will receive the Spotlight Awards.

Dr. Edward E. Ray, host pastor, will lead the worship service. The Lord's Joyful, a youth choir from Christ Lutheran Church, will provide the music.

Officers will be installed by Dr. Jack Lindquist, San Diego Ecumenical Conference leader.

Dr. William J. McIlhenny will conclude his 14-year pastorate at Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave., on Sunday. There will be a farewell service honoring the pastor and his wife Lilly, on Sunday, 6:30 p.m.

A prominent member described the pastorate as "14 years of love." Under Dr. McIlhenny's leadership the church grew to more than 1,500 members.

DR. McILHENNY

He conducted an extensive building program.

He will become assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canoga Park.

He is a graduate of Haverford College, a Quaker school; the Reformed Episcopal Seminary, and did further work at the Eastern Baptist Seminary. He served as a chaplain with the First Infantry Division for three years, an experience of which he is proud. He was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Portland, Maine, for 11 years before coming to Long Beach.

The church tramp

Visit to a 'high church'

By MARK CLUTTER

Even a "low" Baptist should vary his theological diet once in a while by visiting a "high" Episcopal church. There is something about the quiet dignity of the liturgy that promotes peace of spirit.

Last Sunday I attended All Saints Church at Termino Avenue and Colorado Street. The sung Eucharist was excellent.

All Saints is beautiful in an almost understated way. It is cruciform. Above the altar with a circular rail is a large, magnificent Cross of Christ the King. It was made by a sculptor in Italy.

I used to be a member of All Saints. I was happily surprised in the change in the congregation. When I was there it was a bit stodgy. So many of the people were middle-aging or retired. There were senior military officers, professional and business persons, intellectuals. Wonderful people to know, but the future of the church seemed bleak.

Times have changed. On Sunday the church was jammed with worshipers — and so many of them were young! The older people are still there — but now they have heirs. It is surprising to see so many young and youngish people deeply reverent at a traditional service.

The Rev. William A Thompson, the young rector, said that the characteristics of southeast Long Beach are changing. More young people are finding homes there. True. Youths have almost taken over Belmont Shore.

But it may run deeper than that. There are all kinds of churches all over town. Observers of the religion trends throughout the nation report that young people are beginning to seek the security of tradition. The exotic cults of the 1960s seem to be losing their appeal.

Bigamy: Some never outgrow the urge to lead a double life

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer

There's a bit of the bigamist in all of us as infants, but some people never grow out of it and are driven to lead a double life with two mates, says a psychology expert who has researched the subject.

Bigamy really is just one manifestation of a kind of personality split that can lead to radically different kinds of behavior, said Ralph Slovenko, professor of law and psychiatry at Wayne State University in Detroit.

"IT'S NOT any different from Congressman (Wayne) Hayes, who led one life at home and another with his secretary," said Slovenko. "So often we say a secretary is a like a second wife."

Twice last year, there were news stories about men who died and were found to have had more than one married life. A South Dakota official had a wife and five children in Sioux Falls, a wife and four children in Pierre. The death of a Midwest traveling salesman revealed a 32-year history of bigamy with a series of wives.

Not all bigamists are people divided against themselves. Slovenko said some are "con men" who marry more than once to acquire property from the women.

In recent years, with bigamy rarely prosecuted criminally, "the more frequent type is someone who just ignores the documents (of a previous marriage), moves on, and marries again," said Slovenko.

Ed Peacock, a counselor for the American Institute of Family Relations in the Los Angeles area, said he has counseled four or five bigamists in 10 years of practice.

IN HIS view, these clients, all men, were "immature personality types who had difficulty in keeping commitments and who had unrealistic ideas about keeping two families at once."

Usually, the second wife discovered the other marriage accidentally, Peacock said. "Generally speaking the man was emotionally tied to the first wife; but here he was trying to work out a new commitment without having closed off the first relationship."

Slovenko, who studied bigamists and sex offenders in Louisiana while in a psychiatric residency program at Tulane University, explained the childhood version of bigamy in a book on sexual behavior and the law.

Children, at an early stage, do not understand that the changing moods of the mother are contained in the same person, he wrote.

"THE GRATIFYING side of mother (for example) and the frustrating side of mother are split into two people," wrote Slovenko. "The moment a mother frustrates her child by not giving what is wanted, she stops being mother."

Some individuals don't learn that the good and bad moods are different aspects of the same person, and "maintain the split through all their lives," said Slovenko.

As a result the individual may not be able to deal with the aspects of a person that are at odds with each other, and thus turns to bigamy as a solution.

"Each wife may provide a part of the requirements for a relationship," wrote Slovenko.

AN EXTREME version of this splitting is multiple personalities, such as the woman whose case became known as "The Three Faces of Eve." But another form of the same problem, Slovenko said, is the man who is impotent with his wife and sexually active with prostitutes.

"He may associate his wife with the clean, the pure; he considers sex as dirty and he can only have sex with someone he feels is cheap, who does not fit the image of his mother."

Bigamy requires strong nerves and great energy, or special circumstances, as in the movie, "The Captain's Paradise," in which a captain (played by Alec Guinness) has a wife at each end of his steamship line.

THE POLYGAMY still practiced by some Mormons is a much different matter, said Carlfred Broderick of the University of Southern California Department of Sociology.

Broderick, a Mormon, said that those who practice it now despite a church ban consider themselves intensely religious, a kind of elite who insist on continuing the tradition of times past.

Broderick also cautioned against taking psychological profiles too seriously, particularly since any study of bigamists includes only a few cases. Conclusions based on a handful of bigamists is "the sheerest parlor psychology," in Broderick's opinion.

Acropolis may be kept under glass

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A $40 million air-conditioned glass dome designed by space age know-how was proposed Friday to cover Athen's 2,500-year-old Acropolis and save the antiquities there from further decay.

Former Athens Mayor George Plytas said it was a better and more permanent solution than one recently agreed upon between the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and the Greek government. That plan provides for many of the antiquities to be removed to museums and replaced on the hill by copies.

The proposed bubble, a model of which was shown reporters, would cover the hill's nearly one-acre surface.

Plytas, who was mayor before the 1967 military coup and is running for the office again, said he had talked to Swiss design experts in Geneva about such a dome and had transmitted the proposal to the Athens government.

"If this plan goes through," Plytas said, "the Acropolis antiquities will be preserved and protected exactly as they are, in their natural environment, avoiding the painful process of having to take them down and substitute them with dummies."

U.S. professor stirs furor on Nazi slaughter 'myth'

By STEIN S. KING
New York Times Service

EVANSTON, Ill. — A book by a Northwestern University professor that says the Nazi extermination of European Jews was nothing more than a Zionist-inspired myth, has caused a storm of campus and community protest and has embarrassed university administrators.

The book, "The Fabrication Of A Hoax," was written by Arthur R. Butz, an associate professor or electrical engineering and was published last May in Dritain.

THE BOOK'S existence was disclosed two weeks ago by The Daily Northwestern, the student newspaper, which learned of it through an article in The Jerusalem Post.

In the book, Butz argues that there was no German policy of Jewish extermination, and that millions of European Jews were not deliberately slain in Nazi concentration camps.

Instead, he contends, many of them died of disease and starvation or were "deported to the East."

Assertions of a Jewish holocaust, he writes, were contrived by Zionist leaders to promote sympathy for a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

The Daily Northwestern's story on the book has brought a flood of letters from students and faculty members, most of them denouncing Butz and deploring the book.

Petitions were circulated this week and signed by many faculty members and students. Their petitions warned that the book only added "academic legitimacy to anti-Semitic propaganda."

The petitions also criticze the Northwestern administration for failing to express any personal outrage over the book's allegations.

ROBERT H. STROTZ, university president, said last week he was aware of the book but that, as a tenured professor and a private citizen, Butz had the right to publish whatever he chose.

Provost Raymond W. Mack, speaking for the university, issued a statement that he agreed with his faculty colleagues and students who believed that a distortion of well-documented historical facts constituted "a contemptible insult to the dead and the bereaved."

"No informed persons could take seriously the allegation that Northwestern University is supportive of anti-Semitism," he said, adding that "I feel compassion for the many people of my generation to whom a discussion of the ugly horrors of the Nazi regime is a reopening of an old wound."

Butz said Thursday he was surprised by the furor the book had touched off, adding, "The reaction was certainly stronger than I thought."

Asked why he was surprised when he had written a book that argued that such a terrifying period in Jewish history was all a hoax, he replied: "Either these things happened or they didn't. There shouldn't be a question of raising values when I presented facts based on painstaking research. I am surprised that people would be demanding to have me fired."

BUTZ, WHO noted he was not related to Earl L. Butz, former secretary of agriculture, said he had become interested in the Jewish extermination question after reading a number of books on it and studying the records of the Nuremburg Trials. He began his research in the summer of 1972, he said, and completed the manuscript last spring.

"I had trouble finding a publisher for it and finally went to Britain — to the Historical Review Press in Richmond — after I found out they had published a pamphlet entitled 'Did Six Million Really Die?'" he said.

Council to honor church leaders

Dr. Randall C. Phillips, pastor of the Wilshire United Methodist Church for 17 years, will be the speaker at the 24th annual meeting of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches Friday, 6:30 p.m., at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Eighth Street and Linden Avenue.

Special recognition will be given to ecumenical leaders of Long Beach. E. John Hanna will be master of ceremonies. Five persons will receive the Spotlight Awards.

Dr. Edward E. Ray, host pastor, will lead the worship service. The Lord's Joyful, a youth choir from Christ Lutheran Church, will provide the music.

Officers will be installed by Dr. Jack Lindquist, San Diego Ecumenical Conference leader.

Long Beach Rescue Mission

Open house at Youth Center

Everyone interested in the welfare of children and in Christian work should drop into the open house of the Long Beach Rescue Mission's Youth Center, 1400 Pacific Ave., between 2 and 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Wayne A. Teuerle, director of the Rescue Mission, and his wife, Janet, realized when they opened the mission in 1972 that something should be done for the children of the central city. They opened a Sunday School at the main mission at 540 W. Broadway, but quickly realized that that wasn't enough. Many of the children were allergic to Sunday School.

So they started planning, hoping and begging. Finally they acquired an abandoned dental and medical clinic. Twenty-seven walls were removed and the place was remodeled into clubrooms for boys and girls.

The idea is that kids will be off the streets, safe and not likely to get into trouble if they have a pleasant place to play games and find friends. Of course, the real purpose is to introduce them to the Christian way of life, but that is soft-sell. Many of the children are from broken homes with no place to go, nowhere to play.

The police say that such centers are of great value in reducing delinquency and youthful crime.

The center, which opened Dec. 15, is far from complete. More games and equipment are needed. The center wants only good equipment because that improves the morale of the kids. The center also wants qualified volunteer help.

More people should get acquainted with the Long Beach Rescue Mission. Visitors are welcome at 540 W. Broadway. The mission also runs Lydia Lodge, a house for women and children who have problems.

Revision

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Study groups of clergy and lay experts charged with revising the present 2,414 canons (laws) of the Roman Catholic Code of Canon Law have completed their work, and the results now are being sent to the world's bishops for their evaluation. That process is expected to take another year, before work on a final draft begins.

Officers

The Long Beach Council of Church Women United held their annual meeting last week at East Side Christian Church and elected officers. They are Mrs. Helen Higgins, president; Mrs. Jean Magnuson, vice president; Mrs. Lillie Grigsby, secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Williams, treasurer.

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. Mark 10:25.

Our church wishes to thank you for printing the picture of our sanctuary tower in last Saturday's issue. We believe the architecture is quite striking, and I feel your photographer caught it at a very good angle.

'Superstition'

Mark Clutter, in his column of January 22, has quite thoroughly, though unintentionally, summed up in a few paragraphs the mentality which in the Twentieth Century still keeps most of humanity firmly in the grip of Dark Ages superstition.

He begins by saying he read the book "In Search of Noah's Ark" and it is still a fairy tale. He alludes to the logical inconsistencies which argue against taking the Noah legend literally, and specifically refers to the reality of building and maintaining such a vessel, which would obviously make the gathering of two of all the world's living creatures onto a boat practically impossible.

But just when he is beginning to sound like a man who almost has a grip on rational thought he lays the disclaimer on us that we are not to misunderstand him, he still believes in Noah, because he wants to believe, and he finishes by saying that "the story of Noah is greater than the piffle of science and history."

There it is, the mind of the True Believer, in all its priestly brilliance. His mind is made up, he KNOWS what he believes is true, and if the facts suggest otherwise then damn the facts! I submit that anyone who reduces science and history to "piffle" should either be placed in a home for the terminally stupid or given a job as Religion Editor for a great metropolitan newspaper. — John M. Pratt Jr., Lakewood

Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him is it sin. James :17.

Torture

WASHINGTON (AP) — A booklet issued by the Office of International Justice and Peace of the U.S. Catholic Conference cites documented evidence of institutionalized systems of torture used in 64 countries. "Our tax money buys military aid for some of these 'Torture States' and supports trade programs with others," the booklet says.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Be Cheerful

Just reading the title of this column did a lot for one New Yorker. For some months he had been in an increasingly gloomy frame of mind about this country, the world situation and, most important, himself. These gloomy thoughts saturating his mind began to affect him emotionally and physically.

He was always on edge, he couldn't sleep, he snapped at his wife and children and, in general, was bad company. He complained to his friends that he "felt rotten" most of the time. And that's not surprising, being filled with gloom poisoning as he was.

His wife, fortunately, was a more normal and wholesome person than he. She had read an article by a physician which stated that joy is curative, that it relaxes the body and causes it to function more efficiently. It also pointed out that long held pessimism actually lowers vitality and acts as a general depressant. So she kept telling her husband, "Be cheerful and you will feel better." But this wifely preachment only seemed to nettle him more. She got on his nerves.

Then, one day on his way to his office, his taxi stopped by chance directly in front of my church on Fifth Avenue. To his astonishment, the words on the bulletin board announcing the sermon topic for the following Sunday were "Be Cheerful and Feel Better." His first thought was that his wife and I were conspiring against him. Then, of course, he realized that couldn't be. But the coincidence impressed him so much that he brought his wife to church to hear the sermon. He was a friend of mine actually and often told me how badly he felt.

Some weeks later, he told me that he had been practicing the techniques of cheerfulness which I outlined in that talk at the church. Now he reports that he is "100% better in every way." What's even more impressive is that his wife says it's so.

You may be interested to know that my talk that day was that line in Proverbs: "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones." The Bible is an up-to-the-minute book teaching the psychosomatic truth that the way you think affects profoundly the way you feel. It tells us that gloomy feeling "drieth the bones" — in other words, takes the life out of you. That is one reason the Bible is always telling us to "rejoice," that is, to be cheerful.

Dr. John Schindler, in an article in the Reader's Digest, says that of 500 people admitted to one clinic, 77% were suffering emotionally from what he calls the "C.D.T.'s." This trouble isn't caused by a bacteria or a virus or a growth, but by the circumstances of living — the Cares, Difficulties and Troubles of life. These form so thick and impenetrable a crust that people cannot rise into a state of joy.

And Dr. E. Stanley Jones quoted a psychiatrist: "I have never seen a case of psychosis where an individual has a serene faith in God, keeps active and is cheerful."

So even the doctors tell us that to feel better, you must be cheerful. But how? Well, here are a few suggestions:

1. List everything about which you can be cheerful. The fact that you can sit up and push a pencil across the paper is one thing. Some people can't, you know. Too many people count their blessings inefficiently, but they can count their troubles with the speed of an adding machine. They practice gloom adding. You turn it around and practice joy adding.

2. Take several moments each day, when riding, walking or just sitting, to let a few happy thought pass through your mind. They can be thoughts about such simple things as the good dinner you had last night or the nice thing somebody said to you. Recall the most pleasant moments of your life.

3. Use a device Dale Carnegie once gave me — imagine all that is of value to you as taken away. Then imagine it all returned. Wouldn't you be happy? Well, then be happy. You have it all now.

4. Try praying a different way. Don't ask for anything. Instead, give thanks for everything. Use prayers of Thanksgiving, filling them with words of appreciation instead of requests and complaints.

Do these four things and I guarantee that in a week's time you'll be more cheerful and you'll feel better. Write to me in care of this paper and let me know how it works for you. I have tried it myself more than once and I feel sure that if it can make an old gloom artist such as I can be sometimes more cheerful it can do wonders for you also.

OUR BEAUTIFUL CHURCHES

St. Hedwig Roman Catholic Church, 11502 Los Alamitos Blvd., Los Alamitos, has a calm, classic dignity. It is a busy church which serves more than 3,000 families. There are six Masses on Sunday and many during the week. St. Hedwig, portrayed in the statue, was Queen of Poland in the 11th century. When her husband died she gave up wealth and power to spend the rest of her life in austere holiness in a convent.

Torture

WASHINGTON (AP) — A booklet issued by the Office of International Justice and Peace of the U.S. Catholic Conference cites documented evidence of institutionalized systems of torture used in 64 countries."Our tax money buys military aid for some of these 'Torture States' and supports trade programs with others," the booklet says.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Be Cheerful

Just reading the title of this column did a lot for one New Yorker. For some months he had been in an increasingly gloomy frame of mind about this country, the world situation and, most important, himself. These gloomy thoughts saturating his mind began to affect him emotionally and physically.

He was always on edge, he couldn't sleep, he snapped at his wife and children and, in general, was bad company. He complained to his friends that he "felt rotten" most of the time. And that's not surprising, being filled with gloom poisoning as he was.

His wife, fortunately, was a more normal and wholesome person than he. She had read an article by a physician which stated that joy is curative, that it relaxes the body and causes it to function more efficiently. It also pointed out that long held pessimism actually lowers vitality and acts as a general depressant. So she kept telling her husband, "Be cheerful and you will feel better." But this wifely preachment only seemed to nettle him more. She got on his nerves.

Then, one day on his way to his office, his taxi stopped by chance directly in front of my church on Fifth Avenue. To his astonishment, the words on the bulletin board announcing the sermon topic for the following Sunday were "Be Cheerful and Feel Better." His first thought was that his wife and I were conspiring against him. Then, of course, he realized that couldn't be. But the coincidence impressed him so much that he brought his wife to church to hear the sermon. He was a friend of mine actually and often told me how badly he felt.

Some weeks later, he told me that he had been practicing the techniques of cheerfulness which I outlined in that talk at the church. Now he reports that he is "100% better in every way." What's even more impressive is that his wife says it's so.

You may be interested to know that my talk that day was that line in Proverbs: "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones." The Bible is an up-to-the-minute book teaching the psychosomatic truth that the way you think affects profoundly the way you feel. It tells us that gloomy feeling "drieth the bones" — in other words, takes the life out of you. That is one reason the Bible is always telling us to "rejoice," that is, to be cheerful.

Dr. John Schindler, in an article in the Reader's Digest, says that of 500 people admitted to one clinic, 77% were suffering emotionally from what he calls the "C.D.T.'s." This trouble isn't caused by a bacteria or a virus or a growth, but by the circumstances of living — the Cares, Difficulties and Troubles of life. These form so thick and impenetrable a crust that people cannot rise into a state of joy.

And Dr. E. Stanley Jones quoted a psychiatrist: "I have never seen a case of psychosis where an individual has a serene faith in God, keeps active and is cheerful."

So even the doctors tell us that to feel better, you must be cheerful. But how? Well, here are a few suggestions:

1. List everything about which you can be cheerful. The fact that you can sit up and push a pencil across the paper is one thing. Some people can't, you know. Too many people count their blessings inefficiently, but they can count their troubles with the speed of an adding machine. They practice gloom adding. You turn it around and practice joy adding.

2. Take several moments each day, when riding, walking or just sitting, to let a few happy thought pass through your mind. They can be thoughts about such simple things as the good dinner you had last night or the nice thing somebody said to you. Recall the most pleasant moments of your life.

3. Use a device Dale Carnegie once gave me — imagine all that is of value to you as taken away. Then imagine it all returned. Wouldn't you be happy? Well, then be happy. You have it all now.

4. Try praying a different way. Don't ask for anything. Instead, give thanks for everything. Use prayers of Thanksgiving, filling them with words of appreciation instead of requests and complaints.

Do these four things and I guarantee that in a week's time you'll be more cheerful and you'll feel better. Write to me in care of this paper and let me know how it works for you. I have tried it myself more than once and I feel sure that if it can make an old gloom artist such as I can be sometimes more cheerful it can do wonders for you also.

Troubadour became a legend after death

By LINDA DEUTSCH

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Woody Guthrie, the song-writing troubadour who skirted the edge of fame and fortune in his lifetime and became a legend after death, may be the hottest recording property of the current season.

With Guthrie's film biography, "Bound for Glory," now in national release, no fewer than eight separate record albums of his music are ready for distribution.

"We go in cycles," says Marjorie Guthrie, the musician's widow. "Every few years, it's time for going back to our roots. I guess people are finally realizing that Woody represents those roots."

SOME OF his songs — "This Land is Your Land," "So Long (It's Been Good to Know Yuh)," "(This Train Is) Bound for Glory" — have become American musical history. They are only part of an incredible output of more than 1,000 songs. Some never went beyond the small union halls where Guthrie performed.

"Without his untimely death, Woody Guthrie would have been a great star today," says Al Bennett, president of Cream Records, which has released the first of the new Guthrie albums, "We Ain't Down Yet."

"What Woody Guthrie had to say and write is probably more meaningful today than when he wrote it," says Bennett.

Critics support that view. The revival of Guthrie songs, writes Los Angeles Times critic Robert Hilburn, is "far more than simply nostalgic. ... Against the backdrop of renewed socio-economic unrest, they carry a timely message of compassion and hope."

MANY OF the upcoming albums are reissues of previous releases which gathered dust on record shelves years ago. But the Cream Records album has something new — Guthrie's non-musical writings spoken in a gravelly voice by recording artist Jess Pearson.

The writings, left behind in piles of notebooks, have become the property of Pearson and producer Don Gallese who conceived a Guthrie project seven years ago and began researching the folk hero's work.

"The man must have written during every waking hour," says Gallese of the mountain of notebooks he found. "We plan a state-to-state tour for Pearson which will take Guthrie's words to college campuses in special concerts.

"The depth of the man is not in his actions but in his writing," says Gallese. "And we have the treasure."

MARJORIE Guthrie, the troubadour's second wife and mother of three Guthrie children, including singer Arlo Guthrie, helped with the project from its inception, making Guthrie's notebooks available.

"I guess my role as to encourage it," she says. "My role was one of inspiration."

Mrs. Guthrie spoke in a phone interview from her New York office at the Woody Guthrie Foundation. From there, she oversees the operation of the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, the ailment that killed Guthrie in 1967 at the age of 55.

The revival of interest in Guthrie doesn't surprise her.

"THE PUBLIC can call it a revival," she says, "but in my heart it's not. There has been an ongoing love of Woody's music by young people who have kept him alive."

"It's the young people who wrote to Woody at the hospital and who are still writing to me," she says.

She answers 20-25 letters a month, many seeking material for college research papers. She has also supervised a new printing of Guthrie's autobiography, "Bound for Glory," and a second book, "Seeds of Man."

"I know he would be very pleased," she says. "He always said he didn't write his songs to sit in somebody's drawer. He'd also be very pleased to see that people are reading what he wrote."

A FEW weeks ago, Guthrie's daughter, Nora, 27, was married in a ceremony that featured readings from her father's writings.

Mrs. Guthrie, buoyed by the renewed interest in her late husband, tries to dwell on the happy times — not the years when illness and poverty forced her and Guthrie to divorce each other in order to pay hospital bills. A legal technicality made the divorce necessary.

"But we lived together and had seven very good years," she says now. "I stuck with him to the end, and even when he was in the hospital, he would come home and there would be happy times."

SHE HOPES the popularity of the new recordings will aid her battle of Huntington's Disease.

"Because of Woody's name being known, I have been able to walk in so many doors and be well received," says Mrs. Guthrie.

"I always used to call up first and say, 'How old are you? If you're under 30, I'm Arlo's mother. If you're over 30, I'm Woody Guthrie's wife."

Now, she says, the latter explanation will suffice.

Troubadour became a legend after death

The classy bums loved Toots

NEW YORK — In his own words of which he had thousands, the late saloon-keeper Toots Shor, was a "classy bum" and catered to other classy bums who would go the whole way for a pal and did.

They went all the way for him and he did for them. If Toots didn't invent the gospel, "I don't want to be a millionaire, I just want to live like one," then he was its first apostle. He shouted "crumbum" at the big spenders, the lavish tippers, guys like Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and Frank Sinatra, who could and would "whip it out" for a friend in trouble. Toots raided Sinatra's pockets once and spread the contents around as tips, joking that he kept a little for himself.

In their remarkable love for Toots, something unique in the world I know, these friends actually lent or gave him thousands and even hundreds of thousands of dollars.

They also responded in other ways. Once when his "store," as he called it, on East 54th St., was tottering, he gave himself a birthday party charging guests $100. That was a little nervy. The classy bums overflowed the place.

Toots loved the classy bums back. He ran happy saloons. His good night was "I love yuh." His phone sign-off was "I love you." Loud, he was. Bob Considine once wrote, "Overheard in Toots Shor's — Toots Shor." Another visitor wrote, "The joint is quieter — without the proprietor."

But he couldn't tolerate loudness — in others. On the night before his 54th St. saloon was to be padlocked for back taxes, I saw him order out a boisterous patron. Toots had his pride. He was barring a customer from a place that would never reopen!

All he would want me to say was that he had class.

Music Review

Russian cellist debuts in Pasadena

By JUDITH MUSAFIA

A controversial recital is a rarity indeed, but the West Coast debut of Russian cellist Daniel Shafran at Pasadena's Ambassador Auditorium Thursday night elicited public reactions that ranged from utter distaste to unalloyed delight. It was clearly a clash of musical worlds.

While most of today's concert artists tend to build their modes of expression within a narrow path of literalness, otherwise known as respect for (or slavishness to) the printed score, this has not always been the case. In previous times, before the phonograph, when the creativity of the performer made him a co-composer, he had far more leeway in deciding how the music should sound. Today such practices are often viewed as a distortion of the composer's intent.

Shafran plays in a way unlike any other cellist on the concert stage. Anyone who expected to hear him draw out fat, juicy tones, one after another, and to offer them up to the audience like musical bonbons, was disappointed. For in this performance Shafran honored the principle that all aspects of technique are tools for the ultimate goal of musical expression; no superficialities are allowed. Shafran's expression is built not upon Holy Writ but upon ecstasy; it is highly personalized and at times so intimate that the listener feels like an intruder.

The most striking aspect of his playing is his selective use of vibrato. While most musicians pour it on every note like syrup from a bottle, Shafran tends to delay its use on long tones, and he often dismisses it on ofthers. Vibrato becomes, then, only one of the numerous ways in which he makes a note a meaningful part of the larger phrase.

The program consisted of the Sonata No. 1 by Brahms, the Sonata in A Minor by Schubert and the Shostakovich Sonata in C Major, opus 147. Shafran established his terms of communication at the outset, squeezing the ultimate in poignancy from the Brahms. Here, as well as in the rest of the program, the playing of accompanying pianist Anton Ginzberg was sensitive and immaculate.

The Schubert Sonata was originally written for a short-lived but nimble instrument called the arpeggione. The music is amply melodic, but often fiendishly difficult for the cello, especially in the highest register, where one must play with the thumb as well as four fingers on the finger-board. Shafran accomplished this with the ease of a virtuoso violinist.

Shostakovich's Sonata for Viola was finished only a week before the composer's death, and is a plaintive, symbolic confrontation with imminent death. Shafran has transcribed it for the cello.

The music reveals a fourth style in the composer's development, the third having evolved after his brush with death in 1966. The second movement shows a rhythmic and sonoric ferocity surpassing other Shostakovich works. The third movement appears to be a farewell to Beethoven. In it, one can hear fragments of the "Moonlight" Sonata, with its rhythm reminiscent of a funeral march.

'Supercops' filming begun

Uris is writing his own screenplay, the first he has done since "Gunfight at OK Corral" in 1957. Fred Brogger will produce the film, which will be shot in Ireland. "Trinity" concerns the tragedies and hardships of the Irish people over the decades through the revolution.

Ex-teacher cast

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former schoolteacher Margaret Avery has been cast to play the wife of Richard Pryor in Universal Pictures' comedy, "Which Way Is Up?"

Michael Schults ("Car Wash") will direct the film, which is based on the movie, "The Seduction of Mimi." Miss Avery was encouraged by Sidney Poitier to give up teaching for an acting career. She has appeared in "Hell Up in Harlem" and "Magnum Force."

The classy bums loved Toots

NEW YORK — In his own words of which he had thousands, the late saloon-keeper Toots Shor, was a "classy bum" and catered to other classy bums who would go the whole way for a pal and did.

They went all the way for him and he did for them. If Toots didn't invent the gospel, "I don't want to be a millionaire, I just want to live like one," then he was its first apostle. He shouted "crumbum" at the big spenders, the lavish tippers, guys like Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and Frank Sinatra, who could and would "whip it out" for a friend in trouble. Toots raided Sinatra's pockets once and spread the contents around as tips, joking that he kept a little for himself.

In their remarkable love for Toots, something unique in the world I know, these friends actually lent or gave him thousands and even hundreds of thousands of dollars.

They also responded in other ways. Once when his "store," as he called it, on East 54th St., was tottering, he gave himself a birthday party charging guests $100. That was a little nervy. The classy bums overflowed the place.

Toots loved the classy bums back. He ran happy saloons. His good night was "I love yuh." His phone sign-off was "I love you." Loud, he was. Bob Considine once wrote, "Overheard in Toots Shor's — Toots Shor." Another visitor wrote, "The joint is quieter — without the proprietor."

But he couldn't tolerate loudness — in others. On the night before his 54th St. saloon was to be padlocked for back taxes, I saw him order out a boisterous patron. Toots had his pride. He was barring a customer from a place that would never reopen!

All he would want me to say was that he had class.

Today's Best Laugh: The second-rate burlesque stripper: "She had a terrible figure. The only thing the audience wanted her to take off was weight."

Wish I'd Said That: The price of coffee is going so high that pretty soon they'll be selling it at gas stations.

"A bore," Henry Ford once said, "is a fellow who opens his mouth and puts his feats in it."

It's foolish to be superstitious. Besides, it's probably bad luck ... Newspaper ad: "Wanted by lion tamer — tamer lion" ... We hear that a famous cafe went bankrupt so suddenly that the help got locked in.

Music Review

By JUDITH MUSAFIA

A controversial recital is a rarity indeed, but the West Coast debut of Russian cellist Daniel Shafran at Pasadena's Ambassador Auditorium Thursday night elicited public reactions that ranged from utter distaste to unalloyed delight. It was clearly a clash of musical worlds.

While most of today's concert artists tend to build their modes of expression within a narrow path of literalness, otherwise known as respect for (or slavishness to) the printed score, this has not always been the case. In previous times, before the phonograph, when the creativity of the performer made him a co-composer, he had far more leeway in deciding how the music should sound. Today such practices are often viewed as a distortion of the composer's intent.

Shafran plays in a way unlike any other cellist on the concert stage. Anyone who expected to hear him draw out fat, juicy tones, one after another, and to offer them up to the audience like musical bonbons, was disappointed. For in this performance Shafran honored the principle that all aspects of technique are tools for the ultimate goal of musical expression; no superficialities are allowed. Shafran's expression is built not upon Holy Writ but upon ecstasy; it is highly personalized and at times so intimate that the listener feels like an intruder.

The most striking aspect of his playing is his selective use of vibrato. While most musicians pour it on every note like syrup from a bottle, Shafran tends to delay its use on long tones, and he often dismisses it on ofthers. Vibrato becomes, then, only one of the numerous ways in which he makes a note a meaningful part of the larger phrase.

The program consisted of the Sonata No. 1 by Brahms, the Sonata in A Minor by Schubert and the Shostakovich Sonata in C Major, opus 147. Shafran established his terms of communication at the outset, squeezing the ultimate in poignancy from the Brahms. Here, as well as in the rest of the program, the playing of accompanying pianist Anton Ginzberg was sensitive and immaculate.

The Schubert Sonata was originally written for a short-lived but nimble instrument called the arpeggione. The music is amply melodic, but often fiendishly difficult for the cello, especially in the highest register, where one must play with the thumb as well as four fingers on the finger-board. Shafran accomplished this with the ease of a virtuoso violinist.

Shostakovich's Sonata for Viola was finished only a week before the composer's death, and is a plaintive, symbolic confrontation with imminent death. Shafran has transcribed it for the cello.

The music reveals a fourth style in the composer's development, the third having evolved after his brush with death in 1966. The second movement shows a rhythmic and sonoric ferocity surpassing other Shostakovich works. The third movement appears to be a farewell to Beethoven. In it, one can hear fragments of the "Moonlight" Sonata, with its rhythm reminiscent of a funeral march.

'Supercops' filming begun

Uris is writing his own screenplay, the first he has done since "Gunfight at OK Corral" in 1957. Fred Brogger will produce the film, which will be shot in Ireland. "Trinity" concerns the tragedies and hardships of the Irish people over the decades through the revolution.

Ex-teacher cast

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former schoolteacher Margaret Avery has been cast to play the wife of Richard Pryor in Universal Pictures' comedy, "Which Way Is Up?"

Michael Schultz ("Car Wash") will direct the film, which is based on the movie, "The Seduction of Mimi." Miss Avery was encouraged by Sidney Poitier to give up teaching for an acting career. She has appeared in "Hell Up in Harlem" and "Magnum Force."

Fleeing bank robbers hold hostage, shoot cop, fireman

Three men kidnaped a carpenter in Downey Friday and held him hostage while they cleaned out a Bell Gardens bank of more than $9,000, then exchanged shots with pursuing police, wounding an officer and a fireman.

Three suspects were later apprehended.

Shortly before noon, the gunmen approached Charles Urban, about 23, while he was doing repair work at the Rubyat Restaurant, 7324 E. Florence Ave., Downey.

They drove the van to the Golden State Bank, 5716 E. Florence Ave., leaving Urban inside.

The bandits took over the bank, ordering customers and employes to stand still while they passed out bags for the tellers to fill with money.

Bell Gardens police, responding to a silent alarm, spotted the suspects driving the van south in an alley west of the bank. Officers pursued the van through nearby residential streets.

The van stopped and the suspects fled on foot. Officer Donald Lassig, 22, was shot in the hip as the suspects fled.

The suspects fired several more shots as they scattered and hid in nearby yards.

About 20 police from the cities of Bell Gardens, Downey and Bell, sheriff's deputies and Highway Patrol officers combed the area and, at about 1:30 p.m., three suspects were captured.

One, Paul Manriguez, 31, of South El Monte, was shot in the face by police with a shotgun before being apprehended.

He was reported in stable condition at the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center.

The other two suspects, captured unharmed, were held at the Bell Gardens Police Station.

They were identified as John Baneges, 29, address unknown, and Genaro Rodriguez, age unknown, of Bell Gardens.

All three were booked for suspected robbery and assault with attempt to commit murder.

Officer Lassig was taken to Downey Community Hospital where he was reported in good condition.

Fireman Lloyd Stahling was taken to St. Francis Hospital of Lynwood, where he also was reported in good condition. Urban, the hostage, was discovered in the van unharmed.

The stolen money was recovered from the van. Two of the suspects were carrying weapons when they were taken into custody.

ermen in the state to urge an end to travel and outdoor activity because of the potential of frostbite.

MINNESOTA, New York, New Jersey, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Ohio continued to operate under energy emergencies, which gave state officials authority to supervise allocation of scarce fuel supplies.

But state officials were forced to turn some of their attention to transportation problems.

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesmen feared that added ice on the Ohio River would make it more difficult for barges to get upstream with needed products, like heating oil, even if emergency measures succeed in freeing ice-clogged dams. The Mississippi River remained blocked by ice for nearly 200 miles north of Cairo, Ill.

Airports in Indianapolis, Cleveland and other cities were closed by the blowing snow, stranding businessmen and travelers.

AMTRAK cancelled 28 trains in the midwestern, northwestern and northern Plains areas because cold and snow paralyzed its switching yards and made sections of track impassable. The rail passenger corporation said heavy snow prevented operation of many trains that operate west of Buffalo, N.Y. Several trains radiating out of Chicago also were halted.

The greatest problem was for persons dependent on automobiles. Thousands could not make their way from downtown office buildings to suburban homes, and emergency vehicles couldn't make progress.

National Guard troops were put on alert or called out from Minnesota to Ohio to assist motorists and stranded residents.

Civil Defense authorities in New Jersey said they were preparing to evacuate residents in Cape May County, where a utility's natural gas supplies were nearly gone.

SOUTHERN states, missed by the blizzard but plagued by continuing cold, were also retrenching.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew said he received assurances from President Carter that his plea for more than $30 million in federal disaster aid will receive immediate attention. Funds will go for unemployment checks for at least 50,000 migrant workers now out of jobs, and for emergency loans to growers.

Last week's freeze did an estimated $358-million damage to the state's agriculture industry. It wiped out 35 per cent of the citrus crop, 95 per cent of the vegetable crop, 50 to 75 per cent of the commercial flower industry and 50 per cent of sugar cane, Askew said.

In Georgia, temperatures as low as 10 degrees and snow flurries were forecast for northern counties.

Jerry Knolton, a marine biologist at the Georgia Department of Natural Resources said the prolonged cold weather is having a disastrous effect on shrimping. Knolton said that 80 to 90 per cent of the shrimp taken in samplings have been dead.

"WE'RE JUST finding a lot of dead animals that the sudden cold weather has killed," he said.

The Edison Electric Institute reported that electric output for the week ended Jan. 22 was 45.6 billion kilowatt-hours, the highest weekly total ever achieved. It represented an increase of nearly 12 per cent over the comparable week in 1976, the institute said. The previous record was set last week.

Canada was not spared either. Southwestern Ontario was pounded for the second day by high winds and blowing snow. Students were sent home early in some cities and most rural areas, and factories closed.

Each state offered its own list of woes.

ILLINOIS: The state Department of Transportation said that all interstate routes in the northern two-thirds of the state were closed at various locations. State police barricaded some highway entrances to keep motorists off. In Decatur, sheriff's deputies kept motorists from leaving town. All Chicago public schools were closed after winds up to 50 miles per hour accompanied early-morning temperature drops of 30 degrees.

OHIO: The National Guard was put on stand-by alert Friday because of water problems in Hanover, suburban Dayton, Greenville and South Vienna. In Cincinnati, the fire department enlisted the help of residents to clear ice-blocked hydrants. The Ohio Turnpike was shutdown west of Toledo. "We can't get enough wreckers to pull out cars that are stranded," a spokesman for the Ohio Highway Patrol said. "It's the worst ever."

PENNSYLVANIA: Traffic all but stopped on northwestern highways. "You're lucky if you can see one car-length ahead of you," said one state trooper. Pittsburgh offices closed at mid-day.

MINNESOTA: National Guard members were called out to help search for stranded motorists, and state police, angry with motorists continuing to ignore travel warnings, closed parts of interstate highways.

INDIANA: The blizzard moved in shortly before dawn, closing most roads and forcing school closings, including the state's two largest school systems in Indianapolis and Fort Wayne. "There isn't a thing flying," said an air traffic controller at the Indianapolis Airport.

MICHIGAN: Blizzard warnings were issued for the southern half of the Lower Peninsula, and a foot of new snow fell in western counties. Eight counties — Allegan, Muskegon, Newaygo, Oceana, Cass, Barry, Kent and Ottawa — declared snow emergencies and formally closed all roads. Multivehicle accidents were reported on several highways, one involving at least five cars and five tractor-trailer trucks.

WEST VIRGINIA: Gas companies, already short of supplies, ordered all commercial customers to close Friday to conserve fuel for weekend home-heating use. Most state office buildings and schools closed. Traffic jams were reported in Huntington and Wheeling, where visibility dropped to near zero as thousands tried to make their way home.

WISCONSIN: High winds in Grant and Iowa counties blew some autos off slippery roadways. Many students were sent home after arriving for school in central and southern parts of the state.

IOWA: Thousands of school children were told to stay home because of dangerous roads and temperatures to 20 below zero. A major western Iowa highway, U.S. 71, was down to a single lane in many areas.

Governors pleaded with Congress for immediate action to relieve the crisis. Some 25 federal and state officials, gas-producer and pipeline representatives, industry spokesmen, and consumer advocates appeared before the House Commerce Committee's energy subcommittee during a day-long hearing on emergency natural gas legislation.

The key question raised at the hearing — reminiscent of similar congressional inquiries during the gasoline shortage three years ago — was whether the present natural gas shortages are real or rigged.

Consumer advocates warned that the Carter administration's emergency bill could lead to permanent removal of federal gas price controls.

And finally the National Weather Service said Friday that the below-normal temperatures gripping most of the nation are expected to continue for the next 30 days.

THE WEATHER service said in its outlook for February that prospects are "for temperatures to average below seasonal normals" east of the Continental Divide except for near-normal in western portions of the northern Great Plains.

"Below-normal averages are also indicated for much of the northern intermountain region," which covers eastern Washington and Oregon and most of Idaho.

The weather service also forecasts below-normal precipitation for the northern half of the nation, except for much of New England and the northern Rockies. Precipitation above normal for this time of the year was predicted for the deep South, the southwest and Southern California.

'MORMON WILL' HEARING

reporters and to attorneys for Hughes' relatives who took his deposition last month. But he did not make a plea for anyone to believe his latest version.

He simply claims it's the truth, whether anyone believes it or not.

Not many in the packed courtroom during the hearing believed the story Dummar unfolded, but he stuck with it to the end.

If a probate trial is necessary to determine the authenticity of the purported will, Hayes will likely preside.

At one point in the hearing, Hayes stopped attorneys and looked directly at Dummar.

Hayes, also a Mormon, told Dummar he did not believe the story and told him to tell the truth.

Addressing Dummar by the familiar Mormon "brother," Hayes said he would have a piece of Dummar's "hide," if he found that he was lying.

Dummar adhered to his story.

LOS ANGELES attorneys Harold Rhoden and Paul Freese appealed to Dummar's self respect and offered to go to bat for him in the courts if he would recant his latest tale and tell the real truth.

Dummar repeatedly rejected their offers.

James Dilworth, representing Hughes' maternal relatives, took a different tact Friday as he questioned Dummar.

"I don't expect you to change your story," said Dilworth, claiming Dummar had lied to him many times before.

"Can you think of a reason why I should believe anything you say," Dilworth said.

"I don't really know," Dummar replied.

BEFORE THE hearing ended, Gino Marchetti, chief of the criminal division of the Nevada attorney general's office got his chance to probe Dummar for possible leaks in his story. But only after Dummar's attorney, Roger Dutson, objected on ground that the hearing was being transformed from civil proceeding into a criminal investigation.

Hayes overruled the objection, and Marchetti began a tedious review of testimony Dummar gave earlier in the week. With a few insignificant inconsistencies, Dummar held to his earlier testimony.

Before the session ended, Hayes reminded Dummar that he was under orders to appear as a witness if and when the authenticity of the purported will goes to trial.

Woman denied shelter from blizzard 3 times

ESTHERVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Becky Tryon, hospitalized with frostbite after she was turned away at three farm homes in Friday's bitter cold, says she owes her life to a bus driver.

"I don't even know who he was," Miss Tryon said. "I sure wish I did so I could thank him. If it hadn't been for him, I'm sure I'd be dead."

Miss Tryon, 26, was treated at Holy Family Hospital for frostbite to the neck, ears and face.

Her ear was blown off the road east of Estherville about midnight Friday.

A WINTER STORM with winds of up to 55 miles per hour and two to three inches of snow engulfed the state.

"I just got out of the car and started walking," she said.

The temperature was 20 degrees below zero.

Miss Tryon, wearing only a waist-length ski jacket and no hat, said she saw a house with lights a short distance away and headed for it.

"I knocked on the door and a man answered. He said 'go away.' He just yelled through the door and said he didn't want to get involved," Miss Tryon said.

"I guess he thought I wanted to rob him or something. I just wanted to come in and get warm."

She went to a second farmhouse and she got the same response.

"I started crying. It was snowing and blowing so cold, I just thought that I was going to die."

At the third house, a woman came to the door. Like the others, she refused to "get involved."

"THEY NEVER even opened the doors. They just yelled through," Miss Tryon said.

She headed back to the road and along came a Greyhound bus. Miss Tryon said it nearly ran over her. The driver and two male passengers wrapped her in coats. The bus, on its way to Gruver, turned back to Estherville and took her to the police station there.

Police took her to the hospital. They later asked her the names of those who turned her away.

"I don't know who it was," she said. "But I'm going to look around (and) ask them how come they did that to me."

"I wonder what those people would have felt like if I had died out there."

The greatest problem was for persons dependent on automobiles. Thousands could not make their way from downtown office buildings to suburban homes, and emergency vehicles couldn't make progress.

National Guard troops were put on alert or called out from Minnesota to Ohio to assist motorists and stranded residents.

Civil Defense authorities in New Jersey said they were preparing to evacuate residents in Cape May County, where a utility's natural gas supplies were nearly gone.

SOUTHERN states, missed by the blizzard but plagued by continuing cold, were also retrenching.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew said he received assurances from President Carter that his plea for more than $30 million in federal disaster aid will receive immediate attention. Funds will go for unemployment checks for at least 50,000 migrant workers now out of jobs, and for emergency loans to growers.

Last week's freeze did an estimated $358-million damage to the state's agriculture industry. It wiped out 35 per cent of the citrus crop, 95 per cent of the vegetable crop, 50 to 75 per cent of the commercial flower industry and 50 per cent of sugar cane, Askew said.

In Georgia, temperatures as low as 10 degrees and snow flurries were forecast for northern counties.

Jerry Knolton, a marine biologist at the Georgia Department of Natural Resources said the prolonged cold weather is having a disastrous effect on shrimping. Knolton said that 80 to 90 per cent of the shrimp taken in samplings have been dead.

"WE'RE JUST finding a lot of dead animals that the sudden cold weather has killed," he said.

The Edison Electric Institute reported that electric output for the week ended Jan. 22 was 45.6 billion kilowatt-hours, the highest weekly total ever achieved. It represented an increase of nearly 12 per cent over the comparable week in 1976, the institute said. The previous record was set last week.

Canada was not spared either. Southwestern Ontario was pounded for the second day by high winds and blowing snow. Students were sent home early in some cities and most rural areas, and factories closed.

Each state offered its own list of woes:

ILLINOIS: The state Department of Transportation said that all interstate routes in the northern two-thirds of the state were closed at various locations. State police barricaded some highway entrances to keep motorists off. In Decatur, sheriff's deputies kept motorists from leaving town. All Chicago public schools were closed after winds up to 50 miles per hour accompanied early-morning temperature drops of 30 degrees.

OHIO: The National Guard was put on stand-by alert Friday because of water problems in Hanover, suburban Dayton, Greenville and South Vienna. In Cincinnati, the fire department enlisted the help of residents to clear ice-blocked hydrants. The Ohio Turnpike was shutdown west of Toledo. "We can't get enough wreckers to pull out cars that are stranded," a spokesman for the Ohio Highway Patrol said. "It's the worst ever."

PENNSYLVANIA: Traffic all but stopped on northwestern highways. "You're lucky if you can see one car-length ahead of you," said one state trooper. Pittsburgh offices closed at mid-day.

MINNESOTA: National Guard members were called out to help search for stranded motorists, and state police, angry with motorists continuing to ignore travel warnings, closed parts of interstate highways.

INDIANA: The blizzard moved in shortly before dawn, closing most roads and forcing school closings, including the state's two largest school systems in Indianapolis and Fort Wayne. "There isn't a thing flying," said an air traffic controller at the Indianapolis Airport.

MICHIGAN: Blizzard warnings were issued for the southern half of the Lower Peninsula, and a foot of new snow fell in western counties. Eight counties — Allegan, Muskegon, Newaygo, Oceana, Cass, Barry, Kent and Ottawa — declared snow emergencies and formally closed all roads. Multivehicle accidents were reported on several highways, one involving at least five cars and five tractor-trailer trucks.

WEST VIRGINIA: Gas companies, already short of supplies, ordered all commercial customers to close Friday to conserve fuel for weekend home-heating use. Most state office buildings and schools closed. Traffic jams were reported in Huntington and Wheeling, where visibility dropped to near zero as thousands tried to make their way home.

WISCONSIN: High winds in Grant and Iowa counties blew some autos off slippery roadways. Many students were sent home after arriving for school in central and southern parts of the state.

IOWA: Thousands of school children were told to stay home because of dangerous roads and temperatures to 20 below zero. A major western Iowa highway, U.S. 71, was down to a single lane in many areas.

Governors pleaded with Congress for immediate action to relieve the crisis. Some 25 federal and state officials, gas-producer and pipeline representatives, industry spokesmen, and consumer advocates appeared before the House Commerce Committee's energy subcommittee during a day-long hearing on emergency natural gas legislation.

The key question raised at the hearing — reminiscent of similar congressional inquiries during the gasoline shortage three years ago — was whether the present natural gas shortages are real or rigged.

Consumer advocates warned that the Carter administration's emergency bill could lead to permanent removal of federal gas price controls.

And finally the National Weather Service said Friday that the below-normal temperatures gripping most of the nation are expected to continue for the next 30 days.

THE WEATHER service said in its outlook for February that prospects are "for temperatures to average below seasonal normals" east of the Continental Divide except for near-normal in western portions of the northern Great Plains.

"Below-normal averages are also indicated for much of the northern intermountain region," which covers eastern Washington and Oregon and most of Idaho.

The weather service also forecasts below-normal precipitation for the northern half of the nation, except for much of New England and the northern Rockies. Precipitation above normal for this time of the year was predicted for the deep South, the southwest and Southern California.

'MORMON WILL' HEARING

reporters and to attorneys for Hughes' relatives who took his deposition last month. But he did not make a plea for anyone to believe his latest version.

He simply claims it's the truth, whether anyone believes it or not.

Not many in the packed courtroom during the hearing believed the story Dummar unfolded, but he stuck with it to the end.

If a probate trial is necessary to determine the authenticity of the purported will, Hayes will likely preside.

At one point in the hearing, Hayes stopped attorneys and looked directly at Dummar.

Hayes, also a Mormon, told Dummar he did not believe the story and told him to tell the truth.

Addressing Dummar by the familiar Mormon "brother," Hayes said he would have a piece of Dummar's "hide," if he found that he was lying.

Dummar adhered to his story.

LOS ANGELES attorneys Harold Rhoden and Paul Freese appealed to Dummar's self respect and offered to go to bat for him in the courts if he would recant his latest tale and tell the real truth.

Dummar repeatedly rejected their offers.

James Dilworth, representing Hughes' maternal relatives, took a different tact Friday as he questioned Dummar.

"I don't expect you to change your story," said Dilworth, claiming Dummar had lied to him many times before.

"Can you think of a reason why I should believe anything you say," Dilworth said.

"I don't really know," Dummar replied.

BEFORE THE hearing ended, Gino Marchetti, chief of the criminal division of the Nevada attorney general's office got his chance to probe Dummar for possible leaks in his story. But only after Dummar's attorney, Roger Dutson, objected on ground that the hearing was being transformed from civil proceeding into a criminal investigation.

Hayes overruled the objection, and Marchetti began a tedious review of testimony Dummar gave earlier in the week. With a few insignificant inconsistencies, Dummar held to his earlier testimony.

Before the session ended, Hayes reminded Dummar that he was under orders to appear as a witness if and when the authenticity of the purported will goes to trial.

Woman denied shelter from blizzard 3 times

ESTHERVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Becky Tryon, hospitalized with frostbite after she was turned away at three farm homes in Friday's bitter cold, says she owes her life to a bus driver.

"I don't even know who he was," Miss Tryon said. "I sure wish I did so I could thank him. If it hadn't been for him, I'm sure I'd be dead."

Miss Tryon, 26, was treated at Holy Family Hospital for frostbite to the neck, ears and face.

Her car was blown off the road east of Estherville about midnight Friday.

A WINTER STORM with winds of up to 55 miles per hour and two to three inches of snow engulfed the state.

"I just got out of the car and started walking," she said.

The temperature was 20 degrees below zero.

Miss Tryon, wearing only a waist-length ski jacket and no hat, said she saw a house with lights a short distance away and headed for it.

"I knocked on the door and a man answered. He said 'go away.' He just yelled through the door and said he didn't want to get involved," Miss Tryon said.

"I guess he thought I wanted to rob him or something. I just wanted to come in and get warm."

She went to a second farmhouse and she got the same response.

"I started crying. It was snowing and blowing so cold, I just thought that I was going to die."

At the third house, a woman came to the door. Like the others, she refused to "get involved."

"THEY NEVER even opened the doors. They just yelled through," Miss Tryon said.

She headed back to the road and along came a Greyhound bus. Miss Tryon said it nearly ran over her. The driver and two male passengers wrapped her in coats. The bus, on its way to Gruver, turned back to Estherville and took her to the police station there.

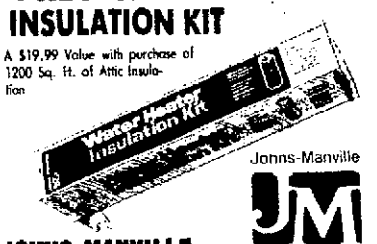

Police took her to the hospital. They later asked her the names of those who turned her away.

"I don't know who it was," she said. "But I'm going to look around (and) ask them how come they did that to me."

"I wonder what those people would have felt like if I had died out there."

Shoreline rezoning problem put off again

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

For the second time in a month, Long Beach's planning commissioners have deferred action on the vexing question of how to rezone the shoreline strip opposite Bluff Park on Ocean Boulevard.

The Planning Department staff had recently recommended that the strip — now zoned for high-rise construction — be converted into an R-2 low-density residential zone. But a divided public opinion — and what appears to be a nagging suspicion that there may be a better alternative than R-2 — has prompted the commission to take a new look at the issue.

Rather than vote on the question at its meeting Thursday, the panel accepted the suggestion that it put off any action until the city's new planning director, Robert Paternoster, has had a chance to meet with residents of the area in an effort to develop a new zoning alternative.

The suggestion was made by Paternoster himself.

The planning director told the panel that R-2 would accomplish neither of two important objectives: it would encourage neither single-family housing nor high-quality development.

Paternoster said R-2 is essentially a duplex zone. It doesn't generate enough income to get quality development, he said, and it really doesn't protect the single-family character of an area.

Right now, the strip — a narrow parcel of land that runs from Kennebec Avenue to Redondo Avenue and extends 200 feet inland from Ocean Boulevard — is zoned R-5.

The R-5 designation was installed 15 years ago as a spur to high-rise development. And although there's some high rise in the area, the strip is made up largely of single-family homes.

In the past two or three years, moreover, the zoning has been invalidated in practice by the state and regional coastal commissions, which have withheld permits for proposed high-rise buildings in the area.

In any case, said Paternoster, "we are not supporting high rise."

The planning chief indicated that it might be possible — given the support of the area's residents — to establish a new zone that would preserve the character of the area while remaining compatible with the residential development just north of the strip on First Street.

The new zone, he indicated, would call for a higher density than duplex housing, yet its design features would make it fit in with the large residences along the street.

Paternoster, incidentally, did not rule out R-2 as a possibility, though.

He said the commission might wish to go to R-2, or even a mixture of R-1 (single-family homes) and R-2. He said its options are open.

The planning chief said the first neighborhood meeting on the issue will be held Feb. 14. The commission is scheduled to take it up again April 7.

'Hit-and-run art'

'Death sketches' on stairs

The concrete staircase between Junipero beach and Ocean Boulevard wasn't anything very special—covered with graffiti and littered with trash. Now it has received two paint stencils of human bodies.

This could give an ordinary staircase some notoriety, but as of late Friday, no one much had noticed.

"YOU MEAN there's red paint trickling from each head?" gasped an employe at the nearby Long Beach Museum of Art. Nobody there had anything to do with the "cop art" silhouettes, she said.

And no, confirmed a Long Beach police homicide detective, the drawings were not chalked by police around double murder victims.

It appears the "victims" were created by a mysterious artist who had a quantity of indelible paint and a macabre sense of humor.

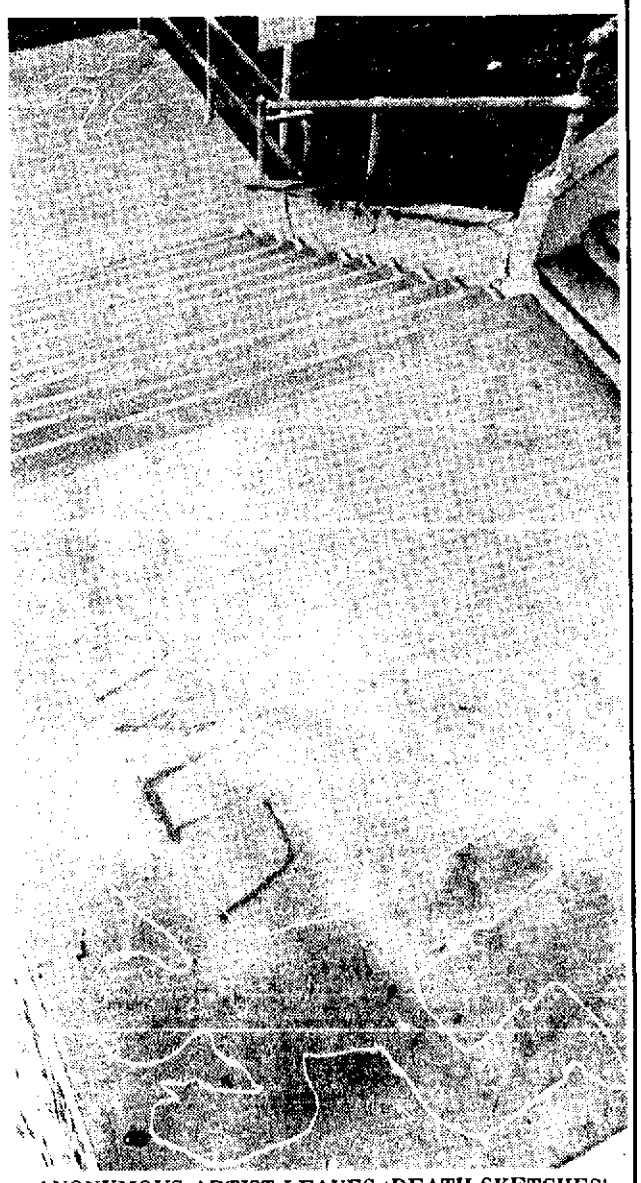

"Sick, isn't it? — if it's a hoax," commented a jogger.

"It's hit and run art," said Los Angeles artist David Ros who said he has heard that death sketches of similar design are showing up on sidewalks in Seattle and Vancouver, British Columbia. "I suspect it's a message from a young artist who feels the established art institutions are not fulfilling his needs."

The phantom artist is described as "5-foot-11, 150 pounds, hair brown, eyes open, chest developing and legs hairy."

Councilman rips delay in Carmelitos impact study

By JOANNE NORRIS
Staff Writer

Irked over delay in an environmental impact study necessary before the Carmelitos reconstruction project can proceed, a city councilman Friday threatened safety and health citations in the housing development if the federal government doesn't speed up the study.

"I don't know what else to do. They (the federal government) are screwing us around," said Councilman Wes Carroll, in whose district the project lies.

Carroll explained that a federal environmental impact study, due originally Jan. 15 and promised by Thursday, did not materialize. Instead, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) said the study would be delayed at least 30 days, holding up ground-breaking on the reconstruction project.

Carroll said a draft of the environmental report was due Jan. 15 with the final printed study promised for March 15. On Thursday, HUD told the city it would be April 15 before the final version is ready, Carroll said.

"We were looking to break ground in June," he added. "Now it won't be possible before August."

Carroll, who first talked of possible condemnations at Carmelitos, said later he would seek citations instead.

Presumably, the Los Angeles County Housing Authority, which owns the project, would be cited for unsafe and hazardous conditions in the project, caused by vacant buildings, fires and vandalism.

In a telegram, sent Friday to new HUD Secretary Patricia Harris, Carroll expressed concern over the delay in the environmental study and asked Mrs. Harris' assistance in expediting the matter.

In a statement, he said, "I am sincerely concerned for the hazardous conditions that face the residents who presently live in Carmelitos. I also have concern for neighboring residents of Carmelitos who are exposed to the vandalism and fires caused by this despicable situation.

"If the (environmental impact study) slips further, I am going to ask the city manager to instruct the building, safety and health departments to immediately inspect (Carmelitos) and have them proceed with citations, where necessary.

"The residents of Carmelitos have waited long enough and have been promised for the past 10 years that their standard of living will be upgraded and I mean to see that they don't wait any longer in achieving this goal."

Reconstruction of the project, discussed now for several years, has been bathed in controversy.

Judge who'd work free will get paid

By AL MURRELL

George Francis, the Long Beach Superior Court judge who told his superiors that if they had to dismiss him to save money he would be willing to work for nothing, will remain on the bench at full salary.

Los Angeles County Superior Court Presiding Judge William P. Hogoboom told the Independent, Press-Telegram Friday afternoon Francis will be allowed to continue to work "at full pay" at least until his current assignment ends March 31. After that, the situation will be up in the air, Hogoboom said.

The 75-year-old judge, who retired in 1967, has remained on the bench on assignment by the California Judicial Council.

Hogoboom, who was appointed Friday to serve a two-year term on the judicial council, named Francis as one of eight judicial officers in the county who would be dismissed by the Superior Court because of an economic cutback.

After learning of his dismissal Thursday, Francis volunteered to work for nothing "to help out for awhile." He has been presiding over settlement conferences for 18 of his 25 years on the Long Beach bench and his efforts have saved the taxpayers more than $30 million in court costs.

Francis said Friday, "Well I guess we're back in business . . . for awhile at least."

"We feel the parks—Coolidge, Houghton, Cherry, Scherer—are bad because they are not safe," four of the students specified. "But they are well-kept, clean," they added.

THERE ARE OTHER well-kept, clean, right things about North Long Beach.

Mrs. Earl Gillum was particularly thankful for the development of DeForest Park, parallel to DeForest Avenue.

"Not so long ago there was nothing there except a 'Little Sahara,' an obnoxious dust bowl where motorcycle nuts and hot rodders made life miserable for us living nearby with their racket, dust clouds and reckless speeding and racing," she wrote.

"Now, looking across one's yard to that almost unbelievable carpet of lovely green grass just about makes one's day."

From Virginia Brown Zunich:

"We love North Long Beach and have lived here for 15 years. It is close to freeways, has that lovely on-shore breeze, rarely has fog, has good choice of schools, churches, libraries, shopping centers and—not least—friendly neighbors."

In one of the few references alluding to integration, she was complimentary about the "neat and clean blacks and Chicanos" she observed at Houghton Park.

Patrick N. Moorehead also likes his neighbors. He wrote:

"Across the street lives a Jewish family, next to a black family, next to a Japanese family. There are Italians, East Indians and German families.

"Everyone waves and smiles to everyone else as they pass by. Although I don't believe there is much socialization among neighbors, it is quite evident that we are not isolationists."

(Lest the integration situation be painted all rosy, it should be noted there was one complaint about noisy illegal aliens in an apartment house and there was the use of the word "ghetto" in several other letters.)

IF THERE IS A PROBLEM singular to North Long Beach, particularly the older northwest section, it is trees.

A dozen respondents complained about lack of trimming, roots breaking up sidewalks and branches brushing electric wires.

If there is a problem that North Long Beach—all of it—has in common with other communities, it is dogs.

A total of 31 North Long Beach residents complained about loose dogs and the defecation they left to soil their lawns.

There were seven letters about the 64-acre Carmelitos Housing Project north of Del Amo Boulevard between Orange and Atlantic avenues. The word most frequently applied was "eyesore."

Wrote Jay C. Webster:

"It is to our sorrow that the powers that be did not act on Carmelitos when money was available and that eyesore could have been made into something we could have been proud of.

"Should they get another chance, I sure hope they take advantage of it."

(On Jan. 19, this newspaper carried a story about the preparation of an environmental impact statement for the project. It should be ready about Feb. 15 and clear the way for reconstruction, according to Randall J. Verrue, executive assistant to the city manager.)

TRUCKS CAME IN FOR THEIR share of acrimony because they obstruct the view when they park on Long Beach Boulevard, and they remain overnight on Market Street between Long Beach Boulevard and Atlantic Avenue.

Graffiti were another major source of complaint, with one person suggesting that parents of the "artists" be made to pay for repainting the defaced buildings.

"Pornography" shops on Atlantic Avenue were targeted by eight letter writers, although another complimented the proprietors on keeping the sidewalks clean.

There was a complaint about noise from an oil company, five letters about poorly maintained rentals, four about excessive taxes and nine about alleys that needed to be swept, drained improperly or needed repaving.

Nine married couples and eight other persons living near the flood control channel signed a letter saying:

"There is a horse trail and right below that there is a dirt slope.

"The daily afternoon wind blows dust, dirt and trash down our streets. Other people on the surrounding blocks use this area as a dumping site.

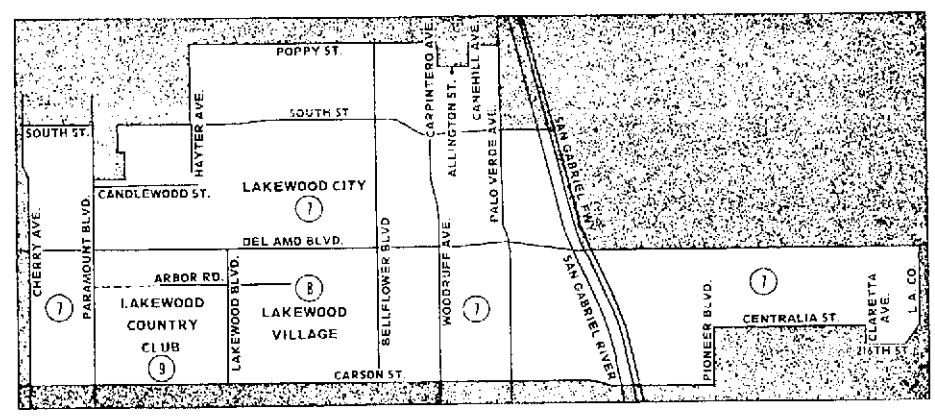

"Why can't this area be landscaped to keep the dirt and dust down?"

The letter signers, who said they were aware they were not submitting a petition, live at the west ends of 51st and 52nd Streets and Zane Avenue.

There were four complaints about householders using their homes for auto-repair businesses. A half-dozen made references to being ignored by City Hall—the orphans of the city, the forgotten ones who are left out of Long Beach politics.

There were nine correspondents who complimented the newspaper for the opportunity "My Town" gave them to express their opinions.

Views on N. Long Beach

"We feel the parks—Coolidge, Houghton, Cherry, Scherer—are bad because they are not safe," four of the students specified. "But they are well-kept, clean," they added..

THERE ARE OTHER well-kept, clean, right things about North Long Beach.

Mrs. Earl Gillum was particularly thankful for the development of DeForest Park, parallel to DeForest Avenue.

"Not so long ago there was nothing there except a 'Little Sahara,' an obnoxious dust bowl where motorcycle nuts and hot rodders made life miserable for us living nearby with their racket, dust clouds and reckless speeding and racing," she wrote.

"Now, looking across one's yard to that almost unbelievable carpet of lovely green grass just about makes one's day."

From Virginia Brown Zunich:

"We love North Long Beach and have lived here for 15 years. It is close to freeways, has that lovely on-shore breeze, rarely has fog, has good choice of schools, churches, libraries, shopping centers and—not least—friendly neighbors."

In one of the few references alluding to integration, she was complimentary about the "neat and clean blacks and Chicanos" she observed at Houghton Park.

Patrick N. Moorehead also likes his neighbors. He wrote:

"Across the street lives a Jewish family, next to a black family, next to a Japanese family. There are Italians, East Indians and German families.

"Everyone waves and smiles to everyone else as they pass by. Although I don't believe there is much socialization among neighbors, it is quite evident that we are not isolationists."

(Lest the integration situation be painted all rosy, it should be noted there was one complaint about noisy illegal aliens in an apartment house and there was the use of the word "ghetto" in several other letters.)

IF THERE IS A PROBLEM singular to North Long Beach, particularly the older northwest section, it is trees.

A dozen respondents complained about lack of trimming, roots breaking up sidewalks and branches brushing electric wires.

If there is a problem that North Long Beach—all of it—has in common with other communities, it is dogs.

There were seven letters about the 64-acre Carmelitos Housing Project north of Del Amo Boulevard between Orange and Atlantic avenues. The word most frequently applied was "eyesore."

Wrote Jay C. Webster:

"It is to our sorrow that the powers that be did not act on Carmelitos when money was available and that eyesore could have been made into something we could have been proud of.

"Should they get another chance, I sure hope they take advantage of it."

(On Jan. 19, this newspaper carried a story about the preparation of an environmental impact statement for the project. It should be ready about Feb. 15 and clear the way for reconstruction, according to Randall J. Verrue, executive assistant to the city manager.)

TRUCKS CAME IN FOR THEIR share of acrimony because they obstruct the view when they park on Long Beach Boulevard, and they remain overnight on Market Street between Long Beach Boulevard and Atlantic Avenue.

Graffiti were another major source of complaint, with one person suggesting that parents of the "artists" be made to pay for repainting the defaced buildings.

"Pornography" shops on Atlantic Avenue were targeted by eight letter writers, although another complimented the proprietors on keeping the sidewalks clean.

There was a complaint about noise from an oil company, five letters about poorly maintained rentals, four about excessive taxes and nine about alleys that needed to be swept, drained improperly or needed repaving.

Nine married couples and eight other persons living near the flood control channel signed a letter saying:

"There is a horse trail and right below that there is a dirt slope.

"The daily afternoon wind blows dust, dirt and trash down our streets. Other people on the surrounding blocks use this area as a dumping site.

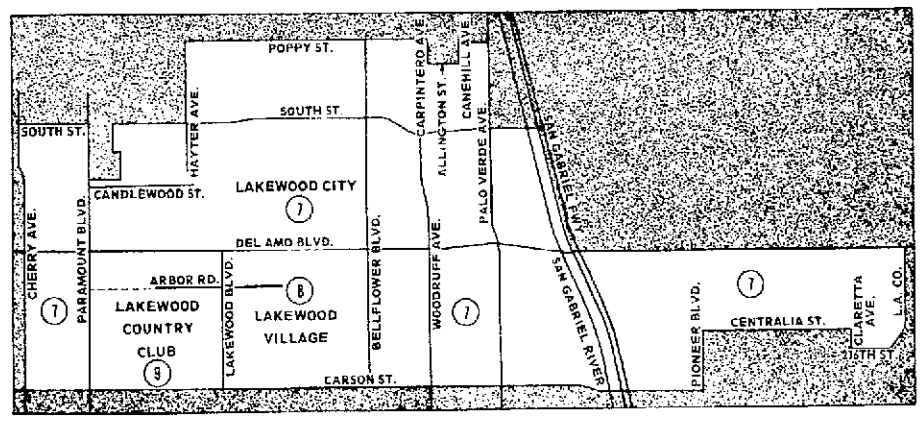

"Why can't this area be landscaped to keep the dirt and dust down?"

The letter signers, who said they were aware they were not submitting a petition, live at the west ends of 51st and 52nd Streets and Zane Avenue.

There were four complaints about householders using their homes for auto-repair businesses. A half-dozen made references to being ignored by City Hall—the orphans of the city, the forgotten ones who are left out of Long Beach politics.

There were nine correspondents who complimented the newspaper for the opportunity "My Town" gave them to express their opinions.

There were several who were critical of the way this newspaper has previously covered their area.

Said one: "We have lived here 25 years and will stay if everything about North Long Beach is maintained properly and the Independent, Press-Telegram can print better articles about North Long Beach."

Another, who postscripted a "Sorry, Mr. Editor," wrote:

"Until the local news media starts telling things as they are, our city will continue to deteriorate."

From four Jordan High School students:

"The Independent, Press-Telegram runs down Jordan H. S. and North Long Beach and makes us look like a bunch of cut-throats."

There were varied suggestions for improving North Long Beach:

—Start more after-school recreational programs for elementary and junior high school students and make sure there's enough staff helpers.

—Have neighbors look after each other's homes to cut down on crime.

—Start a campaign to clean yards and to paint homes.

—Have a general cleanup of walls, vacant lots, alleys and commercial buildings.

—Finish landscaping South Street.

—Lower property taxes for homeowners in redlined depressed areas.

—Improve the drain system so that corners won't become flooded when it rains.

—Provide more jobs for North Long Beach youths.

—Have more three-way signals at busy intersections.

—Improve Cherry Avenue.

—Put dates on garage-sale signs, then fine people if the signs aren't removed within two days.

—Keep rock throwers off the Union Pacific railroad tracks.

The broadest improvement suggestion—and one virtually guaranteed to work—came from Kathryn Bogie. She wrote:

"There is nothing like pride, concern and consideration of others to improve a neighborhood."

NEXT SATURDAY: "My Town" visits the Westside, Wrigley and Poly High districts.

Wave of the future

Spectators wait Friday in a harbor haze on Terminal Island for the launching of the H.S. Victoria, a $3.5 million, 75-passenger hydrofoil which its owners consider a prototype of intra-harbor commuter craft in the future. Plagued by financial woes that delayed her repair following an accident in Puget Sound, the Victoria was rescued by investors and began another uncertain future Friday in Los Angeles Harbor.

County asks dog control boost

From Our L.A. Bureau

Los Angeles County's chief administrative officer urged supervisors Friday to adopt a new plan under which various contract cities would have to pay more money for animal control services provided by the county.

The recommendation was made despite a plea from the League of California Cities to continue the present program until an animal control service district can be formed.

Chief Administrative Officer Harry Hufford noted in a report that the county now provides animal control services for about 33 cities and collects revenues from license fees in the cities.

He said this has resulted in the county's paying out $651,000 more a year than it collects in license fee revenues. To wipe out this deficit, Hufford recommended a new plan starting July 1 under which cities will pay the full cost for a specified level of service.

Hufford said county staff has negotiated with city representatives and reached general agreement on proposed legislation to set up a special taxing district for providing animal control services.

However, he said, before any special district can be formed and a property tax levied, voters in the area must first approve the maximum tax rate and formation of the district at an election.

Because of this, Hufford estimated that a special district could not become operative until 1979 or 1980.

In the interim, without a full cost recovery type of agreement, the Department of Animal Control will continue to incur a deficit, Hufford said.

Long Beach area cities which contract with the county for animal control services include Bellflower, Carson, Compton, Hawaiian Gardens, Lomita, Paramount, Rolling Hills, Rolling Hills Estates, Rancho Palos Verdes and Signal Hill.

From Our L.A. Bureau

Los Angeles County's chief administrative officer urged supervisors Friday to adopt a new plan under which various contract cities would have to pay more money for animal control services provided by the county.

The recommendation was made despite a plea from the League of California Cities to continue the present program until an animal control service district can be formed.

He said this has resulted in the county's paying out $651,000 more a year than it collects in license fee revenues. To wipe out this deficit, Hufford recommended a new plan starting July 1 under which cities will pay the full cost for a specified level of service.

Because of this, Hufford estimated that a special district could not become operative until 1979 or 1980.

Suit claims state anti-boycott law costing billions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An opponent of California's new anti-Arab boycott law claimed in federal court Friday that failure to grant an injunction against it could mean the loss of $40 billion in business contracts from Arab sources in the state.

A suit filed by attorney Donald Warden on behalf of himself and other California businessmen and professionals who do business or have the chance to do business with Arab countries claims the law is unconstitutional.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti took both the request for an injunction and a state motion to dismiss the suit under submission.

"The boycott is not based on religion," said Warden. "It has nothing to do with anti-Semitism but the press will characterize it as such."

"The press is not fair or balanced when it comes to the Middle East," added Warden, who said that of the $40 billion in contracts $22 billion were with Bechtel Corp., which he described as the largest employer in San Francisco.

He claimed contracts taken away from California would be eagerly awaited by European countries.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Peter Shack told Judge Conti the "statute is so clearly constitutional on its face it (the suit) should be dismissed.

Property owners fight terminal at blast site

A group representing more than 200 San Pedro property owners filed suit Friday to overturn the Los Angeles Harbor Commission's approval of a new oil terminal at the site of last month's devastating explosion of the oil tanker Sansinena.

The San Pedro Planning Alliance sought a writ of mandate in Los Angeles Superior Court to reverse the city commission's approval of the new terminal. The petition said the commission failed to secure environmental impact reports (EIR) for the project.

Union and Mobil oil companies won commission approval to restore oil unloading services at two berths and construct a 600-foot pipeline. Commissioners also approved a permit for a marine oil terminal to replace the one destroyed in the Dec. 17 blast aboard the Liberian tanker in which seven persons were killed and one is still missing.

Harbor commissioners said an EIR was unnecessary because the construction is emergency repair to a public facility.

The property owners said they doubt if an emergency exists and that without an EIR another explosion is likely. No date for a hearing was set.

Manson cultist, friend get 10 years in escape

Charles Manson cultist Susan Murphy and her escape companion Diane Ellis were sentenced to 10-year prison terms Friday for beating unconscious a female Terminal Island Federal Prison guard.

Miss Murphy, 34, and Miss Ellis, 33, pleaded guilty last November to charges of assault on a federal officer at the medium-security facility on Terminal Island.

At the same time, a Los Angeles judge granted a two-month delay in the retrial of another Manson follower, Leslie Van Houten.

Maxwell Keith, the lawyer representing Miss Van Houten on murder charges, agreed to a new trial date of March 28 after asking for additional time to read the voluminous transcript of the 1971 Manson trial in which Miss Van Houten was convicted.

U.S. District Court Judge Malcolm Lucas, who sentenced the two women accused of assault, called the attack on 25-year-old guard Melinda Eisenhart "severe and brutal." He ordered their new sentences to be served after completing their present terms for other crimes.

Miss Murphy, a fringe member of the Manson family, was sentenced in 1976 to a five-year term for conspiring with fellow Manson cultist Sandra Good to write threatening letters to various business leaders they accused of creating pollution.

Miss Ellis, described by the judge as the "mastermind" of the escape plot, had been convicted of a 1968 bank robbery and violated her parole nine days before her scheduled release in 1973.

During the escape last August, Miss Eisenhart was struck 30 to 50 times by two pipes taped together. The escapees took the guard's car, which they abandoned several hours later in North Long Beach.

They used the guard's charge cards for airline tickets to Northern California where they rented an auto and dropped from sight. Both women were arrested a month later in Portland, Ore.

U.S. Public Defender James Dunn said Miss Murphy "exhibited great remorse" over the incident. Miss Ellis' attorney, Ronald Bain, said his client had "self-destructive tendencies."

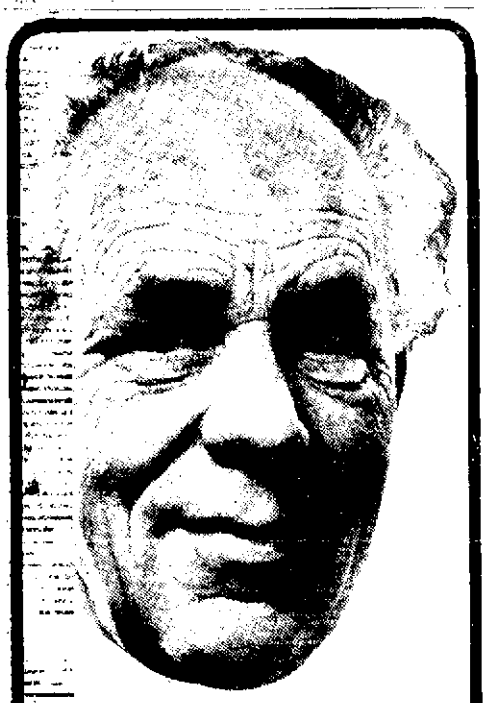

The 27-year-old Miss Van Houten won the postponement Friday in a hearing before Superior Court Judge Edward A. Hinz Jr. Her new trial had been scheduled for Friday. Her conviction in the murders of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca was overturned last summer.

The judge also issued bench warrants ordering the appearance of two key witnesses on the new trial date. The witnesses are former Manson follower Linda Kasabian and music producer Greg Jacobson.

Mrs. Kasabian, who was granted immunity from prosecution in the seven Sharon Tate murders, was the chief witness against Manson, Miss Van Houten and two other women during the first trial.

Miss Van Houten, the youngest of the defendants, was convicted only in the LaBianca killings. The others were convicted of all seven slayings.

The appeals court which overturned Miss Van Houten's case ruled that she should have received a mistrial when her attorney, Ronald Hughes, died.

Minicomputer speeds up loan preparation

The majority of people who deal with banks, savings and loan associations or mortgage brokerage firms aren't aware of the job minicomputers are doing in processing loan applications. But financial institutions are.

Take for example Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association, with 24 branches in California (including one in East Long Beach), and three regional loan offices, including one located at 525 E. Ocean Blvd. in downtown Long Beach.

A year ago Fidelity was processing various types of loans manually. It would take a loan processor about eight hours to process two or three loans.

"One operator using our ECO minicomputer system can process between 15 and 20 loans in a single work day," observes Elaine G. Sheppard, administrative supervisor of Fidelity's escrow department and minicomputer operation.

The ECO Methods, Inc. system, operating at Fidelity's Glendale regional office and servicing the firm's downtown Long Beach regional office, was created by a former mortgage broker named Jeffrey A. Strickland.

Several years ago Strickland, proprietor of a small mortgage banking firm in Manhattan Beach, Ca., was experiencing his share of operational headaches.

"The secretaries were required to type documents with robot accuracy," recalls Strickland. "Because of human errors, it was not unusual to have a document retyped several times. Then there were calculations that had to be made requiring auditing, which took additional time and energy.

"In those days the consumer had to have the patience of Job and enough compassion to survive through repeated mistakes."

So Strickland purchased a minicomputer and began experimenting with the concept of using minicomputerization to process loan documents. Three years ago he left mortgage banking and formed ECO Methods, Inc. now headquartered at 1112 Ocean Drive, Manhattan Beach. ECO, the first company in Western United States to design a minicomputer system especially for loan document preparation using a randomly accessible date base, specializes in providing complete systems to large and small financial institutions.

The computer is another plus for the consumer, according to Miss Sheppard, because "documents presented to our customers are not only prepared faster, but are neat and easier to read. They are more accurate and concise."

Marjorie Bolton, loan processor for Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Assn. displays loans processed in a single work day using ECO Methods minicomputer system.

New look for bank card

Some 33.6 million Americans soon will carry a bank card called Visa. A prototype is shown as the BankAmericard system launched its name change to Visa. The Visa wordmark will establish a single name worldwide. Banks may place their name and other proprietary service marks in the blue bank above Visa. Cardholders will switch as their bank offers the new card, meantime continuing to use the present one.

FINANCIALLY TROUBLED

"Rumors of a major management shakeup" persist at Westinghouse Electric Corp. as the financially troubled company slips further behind its competitor General Electric Co., Business Week magazine reported today.

Even though Westinghouse has "struggled valiantly" during the past two years to get its finances in order, its possible $2-billion liability from its sour uranium contracts dwarf what may be a record $220-million in earnings for 1976.

While GE is "growing rapidly as a result of its strong financial controls and marketing strategies, Business Week said, "Westinghouse, with huge potential losses hanging over it, is lagging further and further behind." The magazine said that Westinghouse "has been bled by the high costs of a hodge-podge of ill-conceived programs and acquisitions."

Moreover, with GE's just completed purchase of Utah International Inc., a major coal producer, it has added $1-billion a year to revenues which last year came to $14.5 billion—already more than double Westinghouse's estimated $6.2-billion.

The fortunes of the competitors were traced back to different management styles. GE's corporate plans, while not always successful, "begin at the top with a team of economic, financial, technological, and marketing experts" who assist top management in picking out growth areas. By contrast, "Pervading the whole corporation (Westinghouse) was the fuzzy philosophy of achieving rapid growth by entering whatever field appeared to be promising at the moment and gaining volume without regard to risk," Business Week said.

The most realistic solution to Westinghouse's uranium contract liability is held to be a court settlement with the utility companies that experts say would probably cost the company $500-million to $1-billion in cash, spread out over the next 10 years. Even so, such a plan would still drain up to $100-million annually from pretax earnings for a decade.

"It sold its Italian air-conditioner manufacturer for about $2.5-million, although it was very profitable. Now it is seeking to reduce to 20 per cent its 68 per cent interest in its largest European subsidiary, ACEC, which cost Westinghouse $28.5-million in 1969," the magazine added.

Even without its uranium crisis, Westinghouse is traditionally outperformed by GE in nearly every measure. Westinghouse's net income per share grew by only a sluggish two per cent during the 10 years from 1965 to 1975, compared with seven per cent for GE. In 1975, a GE employee produced an average of $2,532 in pretax income, compared with $1,856 at Westinghouse. And for each dollar of capital invested in 1975, GE generated 22 cents of pretax income compared to just 12 cents at Westinghouse. And after-tax return on invested capital was 13.7 per cent for GE, compared with 8.1 per cent for Westinghouse.

The news of Westinghouse's solid profit picture last year may, curiously, cause its utility clients to stiffen their demands. Westinghouse owes them $2-billion by contracting to supply them with 65-million of uranium through the 1990s. It wrote the contracts when uranium was selling for $9.50 a pound — a price that has since jumped to $41 a pound and Westinghouse has lined up only a small supply of the ore to cover its huge contracts. The result: a rash of legal suits brought by the utilities.

Faced by this grim prospect, Westinghouse has reduced short-term debt from $236.1-million in 1974 to $106.6-million as of last September. And its cash and marketable securities have soared from $137.8-million to $608.8-million in the same time. In addition, one analyst says Westinghouse has squirreled away another $85-million through a loan to its credit subsidiary.

While Westinghouse seeks to shut down unprofitable operations and sell marginal ones, GE is embarked on a major international expansion. "A growing disparity will soon show up in the two company's overseas sales. In 1975 Westinghouse got 29 per cent of its sales abroad, but that will almost certainly shrink this year because of the company's sharp retreat from foreign operations. In contrast, GE did 24 per cent of its business abroad in 1975, and this year, with the addition of Utah International's big coal mining operations in Australia, it expects to push that up to 40 per cent," Business Week said.

Ironically, it continued, "while Westinghouse still views GE as its major competitor, GE no longer sees Westinghouse in that light. One top GE executive calls West Germany's Siemens his company's major competitor today."

Two major failures, the magazine said—an absence of strategic planning and a dearth of financial controls—have humbled Westinghouse. Lack of controls allowed Westinghouse to push the ill-fated Urban Systems Development Corp., the low-cost multifamily housing effort, and which soaked up $61.5-million in pretax losses in 1974-75 alone. Worse, before it was shut down, Westinghouse had to pay off 185-million in short-term debt.

Quality control has also plagued Westinghouse in a key area—turbine manufacture—and this lack has given rise to heavy assaults from its competition. The company voluntarily replaced or repaired parts for 50 large steam turbines and 85 generators in a two-year, $35-million retrofit program completed last year. It only placed on line last year an $8-million test facility of which Samuel L. Quick, engineering boss of the company's turbine division, said, "If we'd had the facility 10 years ago, we would have avoided many of the problems in turbines that we've had."

Another competitor, Emerson Electric Co., which competes in motors and some electrical equipment with Westinghouse, is out to buy a major manufacturer of electrical and electronic connectors for utilities. Says Emerson Chairman Charles F. Knight, "Between our internal growth and our borrowing power, there is no practical limitation to what we can acquire."

"Within the past two years, Westinghouse has shut down a heating producer in Britain, and last month announced it will wind up its nuclear plant construction company in Sweden. It has already sold its elevator business in France and Belgium. In 1975 it sold its 45 per cent interest in France's Framatome, a nuclear construction company, for $25-million, which it turned over to the French Atomic Energy Commission for a preferential price on 3-million lbs. of uranium," Business Week said.

The news of Westinghouse's solid profit picture last year may, curiously, cause its utility clients to stiffen their demands. Westinghouse owes them $2-billion by contracting to supply them with 65-million of uranium through the 1990s. It wrote the contracts when uranium was selling for $9.50 a pound — a price that has since jumped to $41 a pound and Westinghouse has lined up only a small supply of the ore to cover its huge contracts. The result: a rash of legal suits brought by the utilities.

Faced by this grim prospect, Westinghouse has reduced short-term debt from $236.1-million in 1974 to $106.6-million as of last September. And its cash and marketable securities have soared from $137.8-million to $608.8-million in the same time. In addition, one analyst says Westinghouse has squirreled away another $83-million through a loan to its credit subsidiary.

While Westinghouse seeks to shut down unprofitable operations and sell marginal ones, GE is embarked on a major international expansion. "A growing disparity will soon show up in the two company's overseas sales. In 1975 Westinghouse got 29 per cent of its sales abroad, but that will almost certainly shrink this year because of the company's sharp retreat from foreign operations. In contrast, GE did 24 per cent of its business abroad in 1975, and this year, with the addition of Utah International's big coal mining operations in Australia, it expects to push that up to 40 per cent," Business Week said.

Ironically, it continued, "while Westinghouse still views GE as its major competitor, GE no longer sees Westinghouse in that light. One top GE executive calls West Germany's Siemens his company's major competitor today."

Two major failures, the magazine said—an absence of strategic planning and a dearth of financial controls—have humbled Westinghouse. Lack of controls allowed Westinghouse to push the ill-fated Urban Systems Development Corp., the low-cost multifamily housing effort, and which soaked up $61.5-million in pretax losses in 1974-75 alone. Worse, before it was shut down, Westinghouse had to pay off 185-million in short-term debt.

Quality control has also plagued Westinghouse in a key area—turbine manufacture—and this lack has given rise to heavy assaults from its competition. The company voluntarily replaced or repaired parts for 50 large steam turbines and 85 generators in a two-year, $35-million retrofit program completed last year. It only placed on line last year an $8-million test facility of which Samuel L. Quick, engineering boss of the company's turbine division, said, "If we'd had the facility 10 years ago, we would have avoided many of the problems in turbines that we've had."

Another competitor, Emerson Electric Co., which competes in motors and some electrical equipment with Westinghouse, is out to buy a major manufacturer of electrical and electronic connectors for utilities. Says Emerson Chairman Charles F. Knight, "Between our internal growth and our borrowing power, there is no practical limitation to what we can acquire."

"Within the past two years, Westinghouse has shut down a heating producer in Britain, and last month announced it will wind up its nuclear plant construction company in Sweden. It has already sold its elevator business in France and Belgium. In 1975 it sold its 45 per cent interest in France's Framatome, a nuclear construction company, for $25-million, which it turned over to the French Atomic Energy Commission for a preferential price on 3-million lbs. of uranium," Business Week said.

Dow rises, but bank stocks slip

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Bank stocks sank in price Friday after a leading brokerage house downgraded the group, citing "uncertain earnings prospects" for the industry. The Dow Jones industrial average, meanwhile, rose 2.99 points to 957.53 in a session of brisk trading.

The report on bank stocks, issued by Merrill Lynch, essentially reduced the firm's recommendation for a number of banking issues over the next 12 months to "neutral" from the former "buy" or "OK to buy."

ODDLY, some bank stocks that already had a "neutral" rating and were not changed posted the largest losses Friday. This was the case for Chemical New York, down 2¾ to 42¼, and Bankers Trust, down 1⅝ to 37¾.

"If the market averages rise, we believe most bank shares will rise less rapidly," Merrill Lynch observed. "If the over-all market declines, we expect bank stocks to be weak."

The glamor group, which encountered heavy selling earlier in the week, continued to give ground Friday in some instances. Among stocks sinking to new 1976-77 lows were Merck, down 2⅛ to 57, and National Semiconductor, down 1⅛ to 22½.

Heublein, the day's second most active issue, slipped a point to 29⅛ and also traded at its lowest price in more than a year. Heublein has been under pressure since early last week when management said that the diversified food and beverage company expected to report a 13 per cent earnings drop for the final 1976 quarter.

Southern, the volume leader, eased ⅛ to 16¾. Elsewhere on the active list, there were fractional declines in such stocks as General Motors, Bank America and Public Service Electric and Gas.

MEANWHILE, on the American Stock Exchange, Kewanee Industries climbed 4 points to 37 after a 2-point advance on Thursday. The company, which has oil-and-gas interests, has been mentioned repeatedly on Wall Street as a possible takeover candidate.

On the New York Stock Exchange declining issues outpaced the gainers by a 7-6 ratio. Volume dipped to 22.7 million shares from the previous day's 24.36 million shares.

Pay increases eased in '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wage settlements negotiated in 1976 were smaller than in 1975, but still nearly twice the inflation rate last year, the Labor Department reported Friday.

First-year increases negotiated in major contract settlements covering 1,000 or more workers averaged 8.3 per cent, down from 10.2 per cent in 1975, the department said. Over the life of a contract, increases averaged 6.4 per cent in the 1976 settlements compared with 7.8 per cent in 1975.

The increases excluded fringe benefits and possible gains under cost-of-living escalator clauses that provide for further gains to protect workers against inflation.

Settlements containing escalator provisions covered 57 per cent of the workers under major settlements negotiated last year and provided for annual wage-rate increases of 5.7 per cent over the life of the contract. Contracts without these clauses provided increases averaging 7.3 per cent.

Although the settlements exceeded the 1976 inflation rate of 4.8 per cent, economists regard the moderating trend in the over-the-year level as encouraging.

Contract settlements covered about four million workers in major bargaining units last year, mostly in the automobile, construction, trucking, apparel, electrical equipment and rubber industries.

In manufacturing, first-year wage hikes negotiated in 1976 averaged 9 per cent, down from 9.8 per cent in 1975, the Labor Department said. In nonmanufacturing industries, increases averaged 7.6 per cent last year, compared with 10.4 per cent the previous year.

Dow rises, but bank stocks slip

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Bank stocks sank in price Friday after a leading brokerage house downgraded the group, citing "uncertain earnings prospects" for the industry. The Dow Jones industrial average, meanwhile, rose 2.99 points to 957.53 in a session of brisk trading.

The report on bank stocks, issued by Merrill Lynch, essentially reduced the firm's recommendation for a number of banking issues over the next 12 months to "neutral" from the former "buy" or "OK to buy."

ODDLY, some bank stocks that already had a "neutral" rating and were not changed posted the largest losses Friday. This was the case for Chemical New York, down 2¾ to 42¼, and Bankers Trust, down 1⅝ to 37¾.

"If the market averages rise, we believe most bank shares will rise less rapidly," Merrill Lynch observed. "If the over-all market declines, we expect bank stocks to be weak."

The glamor group, which encountered heavy selling earlier in the week, continued to give ground Friday in some instances. Among stocks sinking to new 1976-77 lows were Merck, down 2⅛ to 57, and National Semiconductor, down 1⅛ to 22½.

Heublein, the day's second most active issue, slipped a point to 29⅛ and also traded at its lowest price in more than a year. Heublein has been under pressure since early last week when management said that the diversified food and beverage company expected to report a 13 per cent earnings drop for the final 1976 quarter.

Southern, the volume leader, eased ⅛ to 16¾. Elsewhere on the active list, there were fractional declines in such stocks as General Motors, BankAmerica and Public Service Electric and Gas.

MEANWHILE, on the American Stock Exchange, Kewanee Industries climbed 4 points to 37 after a 2-point advance on Thursday. The company, which has oil-and-gas interests, has been mentioned repeatedly on Wall Street as a possible takeover candidate.

On the New York Stock Exchange declining issues outpaced the gainers by a 7-6 ratio. Volume dipped to 22.7 million shares from the previous day's 24.36 million shares.

Pay increases eased in '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wage settlements negotiated in 1976 were smaller than in 1975, but still nearly twice the inflation rate last year, the Labor Department reported Friday.

First-year increases negotiated in major contract settlements covering 1,000 or more workers averaged 8.3 per cent, down from 10.2 per cent in 1975, the department said. Over the life of a contract, increases averaged 6.4 per cent in the 1976 settlements compared with 7.8 per cent in 1975.

The increases excluded fringe benefits and possible gains under cost-of-living escalator clauses that provide for further gains to protect workers against inflation.

Settlements containing escalator provisions covered 57 per cent of the workers under major settlements negotiated last year and provided for annual wage-rate increases of 5.7 per cent over the life of the contract. Contracts without these clauses provided increases averaging 7.3 per cent.

Although the settlements exceeded the 1976 inflation rate of 4.8 per cent, economists regard the moderating trend in the over-the-year level as encouraging.

Contract settlements covered about four million workers in major bargaining units last year, mostly in the automobile, construction, trucking, apparel, electrical equipment and rubber industries.

In manufacturing, first-year wage hikes negotiated in 1976 averaged 9 per cent, down from 9.8 per cent in 1975, the Labor Department said. In nonmanufacturing industries, increases averaged 7.6 per cent last year, compared with 10.4 per cent the previous year.

'Red Light Bandit' subject of TV movie

By RICHARD BENKE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Caryl Chessman, the convicted "Red Light Bandit" who won 12 years of reprieves before dying in California's gas chamber, faces a new trial on the movie screen — but his old prosecutor maintains he's as guilty as ever.

Chessman, a prison author and jailhouse lawyer whose own legal motions kept him alive until 1960 when all appeals had been exhausted, is the subject of a film, "Kill Me If You Can," being shot by Columbia Pictures for NBC.

BUT J. Miller Levy, the man who prosecuted Chessman in 1948 and thereafter, says the movie is just an attempt to glorify Chessman, convicted of more than a dozen counts of kidnap for the purpose of robbery — with bodily harm — as well as robbery and various sex crimes.

Chessman died on May 2, 1960 — "Law Day," Levy recalled in an interview.

He said he has read the script that the Columbia production began with and concluded: "All they're trying to do is glorify Chessman. It's not a true account."

LEVY complains that film director Buzz Kulik contacted him and asked Levy to give his side of the Chessman story.

"I said, 'Sure, I'll be happy to. Just tell me when.' But then they never called back," said Levy, 71, who retired from the district attorney's office Jan. 1, 1974, after 41 years.

Levy says he won't sign the release allowing Columbia to use his name.

"I'm asking their legal department not to use my name," he said.

Columbia spokesman Doug Duitsman said the studio has received no such request.

Duitsman added the script was written from transcripts of court sessions over the years and from help provided by Rosalie Asher, Chessman's legal adviser during the death row years.

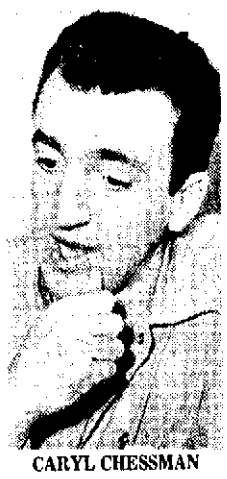

ALAN Alda, a comic actor best known for his role as Hawkeye in the "M-A-S-H" television series, will play the straight role of Chessman.

Talia Shire, an Oscar nominee for her supporting role in "Godfather II," will portray Miss Asher.

"All we're trying to do is tell the true story of the Chessman case," Duitsman said, adding, "We're really just taking the 12 years from Death Row."

Chessman, though he denied it to the end, was accused of stealing a car that had a spotlight which he covered with red cellophane, so it looked like a police car at night.

Using that ploy, the Red Light Bandit stopped cars and robbed the people inside. In one of the cars was a 17-year-old girl who was forced to commit oral sex acts. As a result of the trauma, she spent years at Camarillo State Hospital as a mental patient.

CARYL CHESSMAN

ROLE FOR VICTOR JORY

Victory Jory will play a wealthy industrialist who pays a lethal price for rejuvenation treatments in "The Mask of Adonis," an hour-long suspense drama for the upcoming NBC anthology series, Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected. Previously set for the segment were Robert Foxworth and Marlyn Mason.

'Red Light Bandit' subject of TV movie

By RICHARD BENKE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Caryl Chessman, the convicted "Red Light Bandit" who won 12 years of reprieves before dying in California's gas chamber, faces a new trial on the movie screen — but his old prosecutor maintains he's as guilty as ever.

Chessman, a prison author and jailhouse lawyer whose own legal motions kept him alive until 1960 when all appeals had been exhausted, is the subject of a film, "Kill Me If You Can," being shot by Columbia Pictures for NBC.

BUT J. Miller Levy, the man who prosecuted Chessman in 1948 and thereafter, says the movie is just an attempt to glorify Chessman, convicted of more than a dozen counts of kidnap for the purpose of robbery — with bodily harm — as well as robbery and various sex crimes.

Chessman died on May 2, 1960 — "Law Day," Levy recalled in an interview.

He said he has read the script that the Columbia production began with and concluded: "All they're trying to do is glorify Chessman. It's not a true account."

LEVY complains that film director Buzz Kulik contacted him and asked Levy to give his side of the Chessman story.

"I said, 'Sure, I'll be happy to. Just tell me when.' But then they never called back," said Levy, 71, who retired from the district attorney's office Jan. 1, 1974, after 41 years.

Levy says he won't sign the release allowing Columbia to use his name.

"I'm asking their legal department not to use my name," he said.

Columbia spokesman Doug Duitsman said the studio has received no such request.

Duitsman added the script was written from transcripts of court sessions over the years and from help provided by Rosalie Asher, Chessman's legal adviser during the death row years.

ALAN Alda, a comic actor best known for his role as Hawkeye in the "M-A-S-H" television series, will play the straight role of Chessman.

Talia Shire, an Oscar nominee for her supporting role in "Godfather II," will portray Miss Asher.

"All we're trying to do is tell the true story of the Chessman case," Duitsman said, adding, "We're really just taking the 12 years from Death Row."

Chessman, though he denied it to the end, was accused of stealing a car that had a spotlight which he covered with red cellophane, so it looked like a police car at night.

Using that ploy, the Red Light Bandit stopped cars and robbed the people inside. In one of the cars was a 17-year-old girl who was forced to commit oral sex acts. As a result of the trauma, she spent years at Camarillo State Hospital as a mental patient.

ROLE FOR VICTOR JORY

Victory Jory will play a wealthy industrialist who pays a lethal price for rejuvenation treatments in "The Mask of Adonis," an hour-long suspense drama for the upcoming NBC anthology series, Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected. Previously set for the segment were Robert Foxworth and Marlyn Mason.

Jabbar gives Dr. J the medicine

BY DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

The fans came to see Dr. J and Big George and stayed to cheer Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and rookie Earl Tatum.

A sellout crowd of 17,505 watched Abdul-Jabbar score 28 points in the second half and Tatum 19 in the fourth period Friday night as the Lakers rallied to whip the Philadelphia 76ers, 117-104, at the Forum.

The victory extended the Lakers' home winning streak to 18 games, the longest in the club's history, and reversed a 23-point shellacking at the hands of the 'Sixers in Philadelphia two weeks ago.

Now a half-game out of first place in the Pacific Division, the Lakers are the first of 22 National Basketball Association teams to beat every other club in the league.

They won this one with four reserves and Abdul-Jabbar outscoring the 76ers 40-20 in the final period, with Kareem and Tatum netting 30 of those points.

Tatum put on a show that the fans expected from Philadelphia's Julius Erving or George McGinnis. He scored eight points in a row at one stretch when the Lakers finally overtook the 76ers after trailing most of the game.

Bo Lamar, Kermit Washington and Tom Abernethy were the other subs in the lineup in the final stanza—and they also were outstanding, especially Lamar, who contributed six assists.

Philadelphia went more than seven minutes without scoring a basket in the fourth period as the Laker defense blocked four shots and made seven steals, three by Tatum.

Abdul-Jabbar wound up with 39 points, hitting 11 of 13 shots in the second half after a poor 5 for 14 first half in which he once missed seven in a row. Tatum totalled 23 points.

Erving led Philadelphia with 22 points, four on slam dunks—two of the acrobatic variety—and guard Lloyd Free netted 21.

McGinnis did little except rebound. He scored 14 points but missed 8 of 12 shots.

With Abdul-Jabbar scoring 11 points, the Lakers took a 32-29 first-period lead. But Jabbar was scoreless in the second stanza and subs Steve Mix, Jim Barnett and Caldwell Jones lifted the Sixers to a 56-46 lead.

When Philadelphia moved out 72-60 midway in the third quarter, Laker coach Jerry West went to his bench and stayed with at least four subs on the court the rest of the way.

The Lakers finally caught the Sixers with 8:21 left on Abdul-Jabbar's basket, and then Tatum went on an eight-point scoring spree in the next three minutes to open an eight-point lead.

Mostly a one-on-one team, the Sixers were disorganized in that final stanza as the swarming Lakers' defense forced them into one mistake after another.

Tatum, called "Dr. Earl" by Don Chaney, took his praise calmly.

"I just wanted to play good defense," he said, passing over one of the finest one-quarter offensive performances in Lakers' history.

"This was Earl's fifth strong game in a row," said West, who doesn't like to call his subs second-stringers.

Abdul-Jabbar was in a talkative mood for a change.

"I stunk up the joint in the first half," he admitted. "But we all played better in the second half. It was a good win for us considering how badly they beat us before."

UCLA hands USC worst licking yet

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

The scoreboard above midcourt showed five minutes, 22 seconds remaining when Marques Johnson took an alley-oop pass from Brad Holland, contorted his muscular 6-7 frame to avoid a USC defender and in the same motion dropped the basketball through the hoop.

At that point Friday night, the Trojans trailed UCLA by 21 points. Eleven seconds later, USC coach Bob Boyd called timeout and made three personnel changes that gave him an all-freshman lineup.

Boyd was waving a white flag. He was conceding defeat — his 22nd in 24 battles with the Bruins. UCLA's victory was 18 points, 77-59. It could have easily been 58.

Few Pauley Pavilion patrons in the announced crowd of 12,397 really believed the Trojans were as pathetic as their 4-12 record indicated. They were worse.

USC committed 23 turnovers, shot only 35 per cent from the field and was outrebounded, 57-40. It was the Trojans' worst defeat of the season.

Not everyone was writing off the losers, however.

"I think USC is going to beat some people in the Pacific-8 Conference," Bruin coach Gene Bartow told a shocked group of writers. "Now I'm sure most of you don't think so, but that team is capable."

The rest of Bartow's comments were more believable.

"We feel we played as well tonight as we have all season. We played end line to end line and made the transitions from offense to defense and defense to offense as well or better than ever before."

The Bruins were near perfect in every department. Individually, the leaders were Johnson and senior guard Jimmy Spillane.

Johnson converted 12 of 18 field goal attempts — including a Pavilion record five slam dunks — led all rebounders with 15 and scorers with 26 points.

The 5-11 Spillane, besides contributing 11 points at the offensive end, was spectacular — or as Bartow termed it, "phenomenal" — in defensing Marv Safford.

USC's senior guard scored 12 points on five of 12 shots and two free throws. While Spillane was glued on his hip in the first half, he managed to get off only one shot and Jimmy blocked that one out of bounds.

"My job was to deny him the ball and I guess I did a pretty good job," Spillane said. "After awhile, I told him to quit running so much because he was tiring me out."

While the Trojans trailed by 11 points at intermission, White had scored 14 of their 20 points on 7 of 16 shots. His teammates misfired on 14 of the other 19 attempts. Four of White's baskets and most of his misses were uncontested shots.

"We went in knowing he was a great outside shooter from 20 feet on in," said Johnson, "but I think our problems occurred when we failed to switch, and that left Greg with open shots."

A smile spread across Johnson's face when someone mentioned his dunks. Then Spillane was asked whether the thought of stuffing the ball ran through his mind on several of his breakaways following steals.

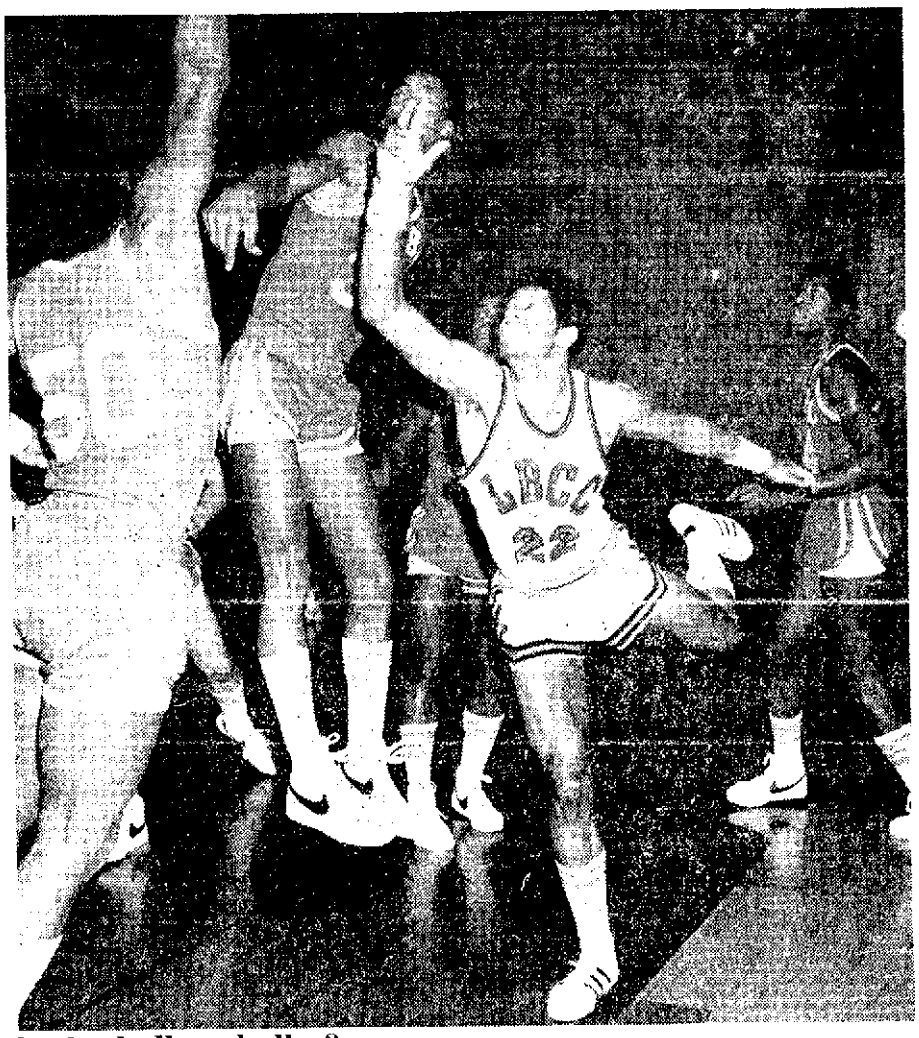

"Obviously, it did," he said with a grin, "but I need a real clean breakaway."

Millikan holds off a threat

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

Much like baseball, it's difficult to rally in basketball when you are down to your last strike and as far behind as Lakewood High was against visiting Millikan Friday night.

So, despite an exciting Lancer surge that put some life into what had been a Millikan runaway, there is still no change atop the Moore League standings today.

Millikan, again hitting an eye-opening percentage of its shots, prevailed, 82-73, to improve its league record to 4-0 — a half step up on idle Poly (3-0), which plays Jordan tonight.

Moore standings

The Rams saw an 18-point lead early in the third quarter dissipate to a 64-58 advantage at 5:24 of the fourth quarter. Millikan was bombarded by deft outside shooting on the part of Craig Dykema.

The Rams rallied for a 10-0 spurt of their own and suddenly it was 74-58—Millikan before Lakewood could get on the scoreboard with two free throws by Jeff Jones at 3:38.

Lakewood's comeback came after Dykema, fellow forward Bill Norris and center Keith Harrington drew their fourth fouls early in the third quarter.

Norris exited in a hurry, but Harrington and Dykema stayed around long enough to make their presence felt.

Dykema, at one eight-minute stretch spanning the third and fourth quarters, hit seven successive shots, all from outside 18 feet. He finished with a game-high 27 points.

Harrington added 15 points before fouling out with 3:56 to play.

The Rams were 32 of 47 from the field, a 68 per cent clip. And for the third time in four Moore contests, four players scored 10 or more points.

Hinkle is hot at home

SAN DIEGO — A hometown golfer who has been "constantly broke for as long as I can remember" may be on his way to victory in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Lon Hinkle, a 28-year-old heavyweight who played at San Diego State five years ago, continued his par-busting at Torrey Pines North Friday to grab a share of the lead at a record-tying 11-under-par after the second round.

A 6-foot-2, 230-pound long knocker, Hinkle added a 5-under-par 67 to his first-round 66, boosting him into a first-place deadlock with Australian Bob Shearer and last week's Crosby winner, Tom Watson. Shearer shot 66 on the easier North course and Watson carded a 67 on the South.

Bill Rogers, a slender Texan, had a 68 on the South and trails by two shots at 9-under. First-day coleader Tom Kite is among seven at 8-under after a 71 on the South. Two-time defending champion J.C. Snead and Ben Crenshaw are among 11 at 7-under.

The conditions for scoring were excellent Friday and 72 of the 156 golfers broke par, compared to 80 on Thursday. It took a score of 143 (1-under) to survive the cut. Among those who failed were Arnold Palmer (145), Al Geiberger (146), Dave Hill (148) and past champions Paul Harney (148) and Pete Brown (144).

Hinkle got into the tournament on a sponsor's exemption because he lives in the area. It has been a policy here to allow "local" down-and-outers an exemption. Now Hinkle is big news in this border city.

Financially, any high finish will help him stay on the tour. He does not have a sponsor, lives frugally and admits "my credit card limit has about run out."

IS THERE A FORD IN KNOX' FUTURE?

DETROIT (AP) — Owner William Clay Ford of the Detroit Lions reportedly flew to Los Angeles Friday to dangle a record $2.5 million contract in front of Chuck Knox, the man he wants to coach his National Football League team.

The Detroit Free Press said in today's editions that Ford and Lions general manager Russ Thomas headed West for an all-out effort to lure Knox away from his job as coach of the Rams.

Other Lions officials said it was no secret Ford has talked with Knox several times in recent days.

"I don't know if Mr. Ford or Russ are in California," said one Lions official. "Mr. Ford keeps those things pretty much to himself."

The Free Press said Ford is prepared to offer Knox the most lucrative coaching contract in the history of the NFL.

The newspaper said it would not be a straight cash deal of $500,000 a year for five years. Instead, some of it would be in fringe benefits such as deferred payment, an insurance policy and a home in a Detroit area. The deal would not include any Lions stock.

Jabbar gives Dr. J the medicine

BY DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

The fans came to see Dr. J and Big George and stayed to cheer Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and rookie Earl Tatum.

A sellout crowd of 17,505 watched Abdul-Jabbar score 28 points in the second half and Tatum 19 in the fourth period Friday night as the Lakers rallied to whip the Philadelphia 76ers, 117-104, at the Forum.

The victory extended the Lakers' home winning streak to 18 games, the longest in the club's history, and reversed a 23-point shellacking at the hands of the 'Sixers in Philadelphia two weeks ago.

Now a half-game out of first place in the Pacific Division, the Lakers are the first of 22 National Basketball Association teams to beat every other club in the league.

They won this one with four reserves and Abdul-Jabbar outscoring the 76ers 40-20 in the final period, with Kareem and Tatum netting 30 of those points.

Tatum put on a show that the fans expected from Philadelphia's Julius Erving or George McGinnis. He scored eight points in a row at one stretch when the Lakers finally overtook the 76ers after trailing most of the game.

Bo Lamar, Kermit Washington and Tom Abernethy were the other subs in the lineup in the final stanza—and they also were outstanding, especially Lamar, who contributed six assists.

Philadelphia went more than seven minutes without scoring a basket in the fourth period as the Laker defense blocked four shots and made seven steals, three by Tatum.

Abdul-Jabbar wound up with 39 points, hitting 11 of 13 shots in the second half after a poor 5 for 14 first half in which he once missed seven in a row. Tatum totalled 23 points.

Erving led Philadelphia with 22 points, four on slam dunks—two of the acrobatic variety—and guard Lloyd Free netted 21.

McGinnis did little except rebound. He scored 14 points but missed 8 of 12 shots.

With Abdul-Jabbar scoring 11 points, the Lakers took a 32-29 first-period lead. But Jabbar was scoreless in the second stanza and subs Steve Mix, Jim Barnett and Caldwell Jones lifted the Sixers to a 56-46 lead.

When Philadelphia moved out 72-60 midway in the third quarter, Laker coach Jerry West went to his bench and stayed with at least four subs on the court the rest of the way.

The Lakers finally caught the Sixers with 8:21 left on Abdul-Jabbar's basket, and then Tatum went on an eight-point scoring spree in the next three minutes to open an eight-point lead.

Mostly a one-on-one team, the Sixers were disorganized in that final stanza as the swarming Lakers' defense forced them into one mistake after another.

Tatum, called "Dr. Earl" by Don Chaney, took his praise calmly.

"I just wanted to play good defense," he said, passing over one of the finest one-quarter offensive performances in Lakers' history.

"This was Earl's fifth strong game in a row," said West, who doesn't like to call his subs second-stringers.

Abdul-Jabbar was in a talkative mood for a change.

"I stunk up the joint in the first half," he admitted. "But we all played better in the second half. It was a good win for us considering how badly they beat us before."

UCLA hands USC worst licking yet

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

The scoreboard above midcourt showed five minutes, 22 seconds remaining when Marques Johnson took an alley-oop pass from Brad Holland, contorted his muscular 6-7 frame to avoid a USC defender and in the same motion dropped the basketball through the hoop.

At that point Friday night, the Trojans trailed UCLA by 21 points. Eleven seconds later, USC coach Bob Boyd called timeout and made three personnel changes that gave him an all-freshman lineup.

Boyd was waving a white flag. He was conceding defeat — his 22nd in 24 battles with the Bruins. UCLA's victory was 18 points, 77-59. It could have easily been 58.

Few Pauley Pavilion patrons in the announced crowd of 12,397 really believed the Trojans were as pathetic as their 4-12 record indicated. They were worse.

USC committed 23 turnovers, shot only 35 per cent from the field and was outrebounded, 57-40. It was the Trojans' worst defeat of the season.

Not everyone was writing off the losers, however.

"I think USC is going to beat some people in the Pacific-8 Conference," Bruin coach Gene Bartow told a shocked group of writers. "Now I'm sure most of you don't think so, but that team is capable."

The rest of Bartow's comments were more believable.

"We feel we played as well tonight as we have all season. We played end line to end line and made the transitions from offense to defense and defense to offense as well or better than ever before."

The Bruins were near perfect in every department. Individually, the leaders were Johnson and senior guard Jimmy Spillane.

Johnson converted 12 of 18 field goal attempts — including a Pavilion record five slam dunks — led all rebounders with 15 and scorers with 26 points.

The 5-11 Spillane, besides contributing 11 points at the offensive end, was spectacular — or as Bartow termed it, "phenomenal" — in defensing Marv Safford.

USC's senior guard scored 12 points on five of 12 shots and two free throws. While Spillane was glued on his hip in the first half, he managed to get off only one shot and Jimmy blocked that one out of bounds.

"My job was to deny him the ball and I guess I did a pretty good job," Spillane said. "After awhile, I told him to quit running so much because he was tiring me out."

While the Trojans trailed by 11 points at intermission, White had scored 14 of their 20 points on 7 of 16 shots. His teammates misfired on 14 of the other 19 attempts. Four of White's baskets and most of his misses were uncontested shots.

"We went in knowing he was a great outside shooter from 20 feet on in," said Johnson, "but I think our problems occurred when we failed to switch, and that left Greg with open shots."

A smile spread across Johnson's face when someone mentioned his dunks. Then Spillane was asked whether the thought of stuffing the ball ran through his mind on several of his breakaways following steals.

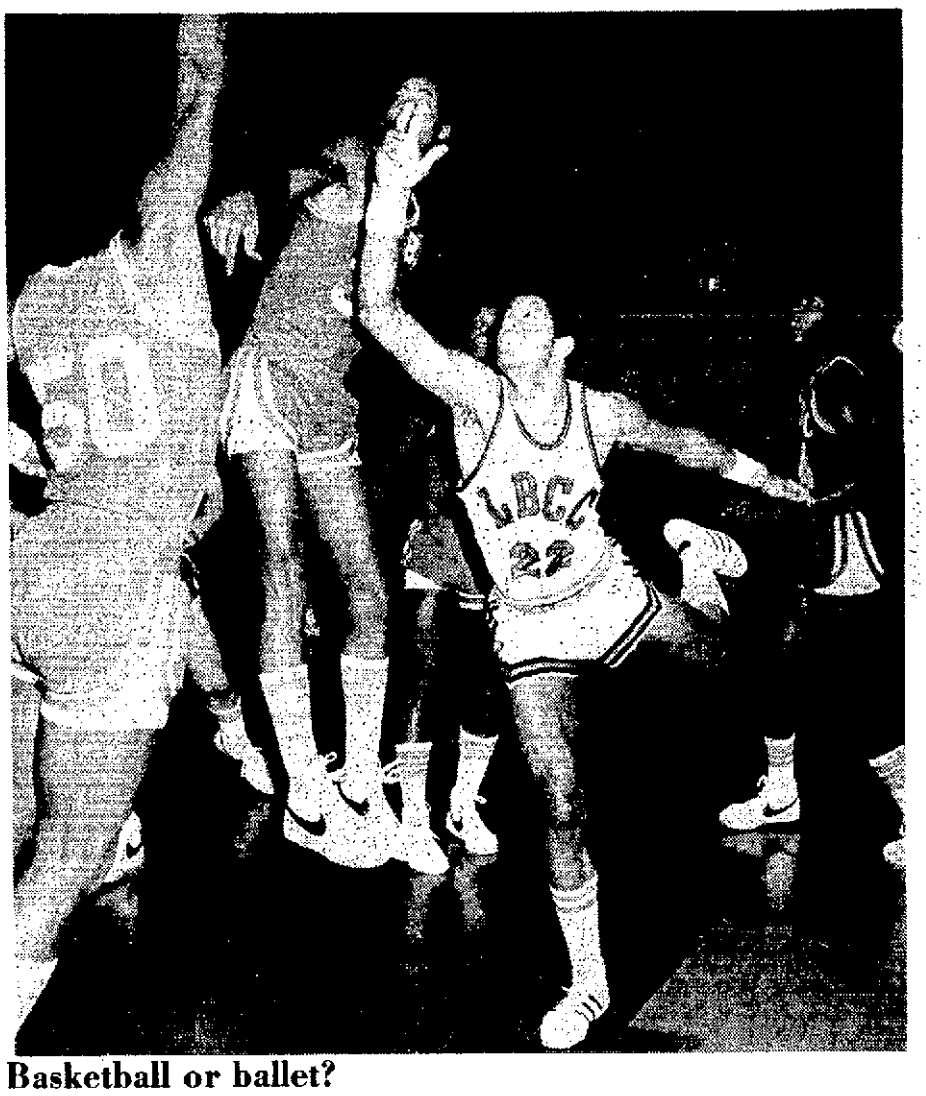

"Obviously, it did," he said with a grin, "but I need a real clean breakaway."

Harrington added 15 points before fouling out with 3:56 to play.

The Rams were 32 of 47 from the field, a 68 per cent clip. And for the third time in four Moore contests, four players scored 10 or more points.

DETROIT (AP) — Owner William Clay Ford of the Detroit Lions reportedly flew to Los Angeles Friday to dangle a record $2.5 million contract in front of Chuck Knox, the man he wants to coach his National Football League team.

"I don't know if Mr. Ford or Russ are in California," said one Lions official. "Mr. Ford keeps those things pretty much to himself."

The Free Press said Ford is prepared to offer Knox the most lucrative coaching contract in the history of the NFL.

The newspaper said it would not be a straight cash deal of $500,000 a year for five years. Instead, some of it would be in fringe benefits such as deferred payment, an insurance policy and a home in a Detroit area. The deal would not include any Lions stock.

As Boyd knows, you can't win 'em all

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

You can't fool all of the people all off the time.

The more than 12,000 fans who showed up at Pauley Pavilion knew it wasn't a contest. It was like Hitler against the Poles, Muhammad Ali against Chuck Wepner.

USC fans came to mourn the dead, which they were able to do late in the first half when UCLA sprinted to a 41-30 lead en route to a 77-59 Pacific-8 Conference basketball victory Friday night.

Bored with what was transpiring before them, Bruin fans began chanting: "We want Wulfemeyer," teasing USC coach Bob Boyd about player who had quit the Trojans this past week.

A cluster of Trojan rooters responded: "Rose Bowl! Rose Bowl! Rose Bowl!"

And that about summed up the 162nd basketball meeting between UCLA and USC. One is a basketball school. The other excels in football.

Boyd seemed to be accepting his 20th consecutive Pacific-8 loss with good grace.

"We executed so poorly it gave us no chance to win the game," he said, referring to USC's 23 turnovers and .343 shooting percentage.

He removed senior forward Greg White frrom the contest three times in the first half and called three timeouts. White was back in for his second game after missing six contests with a stress fracture of the left foot.

"The idea was to give Greg some rest," said the Trojan coach. "I thought he was effective for the first five or six minutes, but was ineffective in the second half."

Boyd said he had hoped the Trojans "would be more control conscious offensively."

"What we wanted to do and what we did were two different things," he said. "There's a tendency on the part of players when they get behind to shoot quickly and try to catch up.

"The fast break and a spread court game against that team here (Pauley Pavilion) is not the way to compete."

Someone started to ask a question, but Boyd interrupted and said: "I thought Marques (Johnson) was outstanding."

Then he said, "That's it, men," and stalked into the USC dressing room.

As coach of a team which had dropped 28 of its last 32 games, he should know you can't win 'em all.

It wasn't easy but Saints are alone in first

By DAVE WIELENGA
Staff Writer

While St. Anthony was sweating out its third narrow victory in four Angelus League wins Friday night—a 72-65 decision over host Mater Dei—not far away something was happening that should make things a little cooler for the Saints when they tangle with Pius X Tuesday.

A convincing 86-64 triumph for Servite over visiting Pius enabled St. Anthony to claim a one-game lead over the Warriors, who had entered Friday's action sharing first place with the Saints.

Victory did not come easy for St. Anthony by any means.

The Saints played erratically in the early going, then were forced to bench center Jim Donnelly and forward Ralph Esposito when each picked up his fourth foul in the opening 38 seconds of the second half.

That, plus a sudden hot hand by Mater Dei reserve forward Pat Steele, who sank three of four shots from long range in the waning minutes of the third period, turned a 36-27 St. Anthony lead into a 45-44 deficit entering the final quarter.

Mater Dei widened its advantage to 56-50 with less than five minutes to go before St. Anthony turned on a three-minute scoring splurge that put them in the lead to stay, 60-59, with 2:04 remaining.

Playmaking guard Lance Dietrich—who tallied 10 of his 12 points in the fourth quarter—led the winning charge but it was the consistency of forward Tony Spanier that was most responsible for the Saints' victory.

The 6-4 senior led all scorers with 20 points and achieved the figure with pin-point 10-for-15 accuracy from the field. Spanier was joined by Donnelly (14), Dietrich (12) and Esposito (11) in double figures. Center John Garcia paced Mater Dei, now 1-3 in league, with 18 points.

Bakersfield, which arrived late and caused a 15 minute delay, hit four of 15 shots from the floor in the first 10 minutes, yet outscored the methodical Vikings, 16-8, during one stretch to take a 20-18 lead with 11 minutes gone.

LBCC mounted a nine-point lead, 51-42, with 11:30 remaining in the game. But Bakersfield returned the favor and rattled off nine consecutive points to tie the score at 51 with 6:22 remaining.

The score changed hands or was tied five times in the final six minutes, with Bakersfield leading by three, 62-59, with 46 seconds remaining.

Oliver inbounded to Danny Chislock, who passed to Mulder at half court. With 11 seconds on the clock, Mulder drove the lane, then passed off to Scott at the top of the key. Scott whirled to the bucket, then backed off, spun to his left and with his back to the hoop and with seven seconds to play, passed to Mickey Chislock in the right corner, from where the 6-4, 200-pound sophomore forward pumped in his game winning shot.

POLY TAKES ON JORDAN TONIGHT

Poly High will be striving to improve its season record to 17-2 tonight, 7:30, when the Jackrabbits host Jordan in a Moore League basketball game at Long Beach City College.

The Jackrabbits are 3-0 in league and a win tonight would set up a big game with Millikan (4-0) for undisputed first place Wednesday night at LBCC.

Jordan gave up a Moore season-high 92 points to Millikan Wednesday and has lost eight of its last 10 games. Dwayne Campbell's 18.2 average leads the Panthers.

Surrounded

Millikan forward John White is surrounded by trio of Lakewood defenders Friday night. Trying to check White are (from left) Craig Dykema, Doug Lisle and Bill Norris. White had 22 points as Rams rolled to 82-73 Moore League victory Friday night.

John White led the way Friday with 22, followed by Doug Marty (16), Ed Brown (13) and Sherman Johnson (10). Millikan's three guards — Marty, Rich Boatright and Brian Mott were, collectively, 12 of 14 shooting.

Millikan had asserted itself 2:31 into the second quarter when it held only a two point lead, 24-22.

White, with reserves Mott and Johnson, sparked a 18-4 spurt that led to a 42-26 Millikan lead and an eventual 16-point halftime advantage.

Ironically, it was Millikan's inability to hit free throws in the third quarter — the Rams missed four one-and-one opportunities — that helped Lakewood make its big run.

Lakewood stayed with a man-to-man defense the entire game, but with its big men, Harrington (6-5) and Norris (6-4) in foul trouble, had no one else over 6-1.

"He can two-hand, reverse slam dunk as well as anyone on the team," broke in Johnson. "He's not as tall as most of the other players."

So apparently were the Bruins as a team. They had many chances to blow the Trojans off the floor, but never found an adequate spark.

"Tennessee (Sunday's opponent in Atlanta) might have been on our minds," said Johnson. "We always seem to have a slow start and then a letdown in the second half. At least tonight we didn't let a 10-to-15 point lead slip to five."

Bartow, with his third victory over USC safely tucked away, was also eager to test the sixth-rated Volunteers.

"We've played 30 good minutes of basketball on each of our other two nationally televised Sunday games," noted Bartow. "If we do this week and win, it'll be another milestone."

Compton thumps Wilson

By JOHN LOWE
Staff Writer

After three tough encounters to open the Moore League basketball campaign, Compton High enjoyed a laughter against overmatched Wilson Friday evening.

The Tarbabes prevailed, 76-48, in their first night contest at home since joining the circuit in 1972.

"It was great to have a game like this — we were able to work on our rhythm," said Compton coach Eddie Thomas, whose team had dropped decisions to front-runners Poly and Millikan before defeating Lakewood earlier this week.

The dynamo of the winners' attack, 6-7 center Purvis Miller, had a field day, converting 10-of-14 shots. He also dropped in five free throws to finish with 25 points, one above his league-leading average.

Wilson was without its top scorer, Chris Smith, who incurred a separated shoulder in Wednesday's loss to Poly. He's finished for the year, decreasing the Bruins' chances of improving on their marks of 1-3 and 3-14 over-all. Compton is 13-3.

Bucky Dennis gave Butch Taylor's Wilson team its only lead at 2-0. Then the taller Tarbabes went to work, running off a 15-2 spurt that was culminated by sophomore guard Melvin Herndon's basket one minute into the second period.

The Bruins rallied to cut the margin to 29-22 at intermission, but Compton pushed the rout button by scoring 16 of the second half's first 18 points.

As Boyd knows, you can't win 'em all

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

You can't fool all of the people all off the time.

The more than 12,000 fans who showed up at Pauley Pavilion knew it wasn't a contest. It was like Hitler against the Poles, Muhammad Ali against Chuck Wepner.

USC fans came to mourn the dead, which they were able to do late in the first half when UCLA sprinted to a 41-30 lead en route to a 77-59 Pacific-8 Conference basketball victory Friday night.

Bored with what was transpiring before them, Bruin fans began chanting: "We want Wulfemeyer," teasing USC coach Bob Boyd about player who had quit the Trojans this past week.

A cluster of Trojan rooters responded: "Rose Bowl! Rose Bowl! Rose Bowl!"

And that about summed up the 162nd basketball meeting between UCLA and USC. One is a basketball school. The other excels in football.

Boyd seemed to be accepting his 20th consecutive Pacific-8 loss with good grace.

"We executed so poorly it gave us no chance to win the game," he said, referring to USC's 23 turnovers and .343 shooting percentage.

He removed senior forward Greg White frrom the contest three times in the first half and called three timeouts. White was back in for his second game after missing six contests with a stress fracture of the left foot.

"The idea was to give Greg some rest," said the Trojan coach. "I thought he was effective for the first five or six minutes, but was ineffective in the second half."

Boyd said he had hoped the Trojans "would be more control conscious offensively."

"What we wanted to do and what we did were two different things," he said. "There's a tendency on the part of players when they get behind to shoot quickly and try to catch up.

"The fast break and a spread court game against that team here (Pauley Pavilion) is not the way to compete."

Someone started to ask a question, but Boyd interrupted and said: "I thought Marques (Johnson) was outstanding."

Then he said, "That's it, men," and stalked into the USC dressing room.

As coach of a team which had dropped 28 of its last 32 games, he should know you can't win 'em all.

It wasn't easy but Saints are alone in first

By DAVE WIELENGA
Staff Writer

While St. Anthony was sweating out its third narrow victory in four Angelus League wins Friday night—a 72-65 decision over host Mater Dei—not far away something was happening that should make things a little cooler for the Saints when they tangle with Pius X Tuesday.

A convincing 86-64 triumph for Servite over visiting Pius enabled St. Anthony to claim a one-game lead over the Warriors, who had entered Friday's action sharing first place with the Saints.

Victory did not come easy for St. Anthony by any means.

The Saints played erratically in the early going, then were forced to bench center Jim Donnelly and forward Ralph Esposito when each picked up his fourth foul in the opening 38 seconds of the second half.

That, plus a sudden hot hand by Mater Dei reserve forward Pat Steele, who sank three of four shots from long range in the waning minutes of the third period, turned a 36-27 St. Anthony lead into a 45-44 deficit entering the final quarter.

Mater Dei widened its advantage to 56-50 with less than five minutes to go before St. Anthony turned on a three-minute scoring splurge that put them in the lead to stay, 60-59, with 2:04 remaining.

Playmaking guard Lance Dietrich—who tallied 10 of his 12 points in the fourth quarter—led the winning charge but it was the consistency of forward Tony Spanier that was most responsible for the Saints' victory.

The 6-4 senior led all scorers with 20 points and achieved the figure with pin-point 10-for-15 accuracy from the field. Spanier was joined by Donnelly (14), Dietrich (12) and Esposito (11) in double figures. Center John Garcia paced Mater Dei, now 1-3 in league, with 18 points.

showers. He ordered his statistician not to contact the media with results.

Bakersfield, which arrived late and caused a 15 minute delay, hit four of 15 shots from the floor in the first 10 minutes, yet outscored the methodical Vikings, 16-8, during one stretch to take a 20-18 lead with 11 minutes gone.

LBCC mounted a nine-point lead, 51-42, with 11:30 remaining in the game. But Bakersfield returned the favor and rattled off nine consecutive points to tie the score at 51 with 6:22 remaining.

The score changed hands or was tied five times in the final six minutes, with Bakersfield leading by three, 62-59, with 46 seconds remaining.

Oliver inbounded to Danny Chislock, who passed to Mulder at half court. With 11 seconds on the clock, Mulder drove the lane, then passed off to Scott at the top of the key. Scott whirled to the bucket, then backed off, spun to his left and with his back to the hoop and with seven seconds to play, passed to Mickey Chislock in the right corner, from where the 6-4, 200-pound sophomore forward pumped in his game winning shot.

POLY TAKES ON JORDAN TONIGHT

Poly High will be striving to improve its season record to 17-2 tonight, 7:30, when the Jackrabbits host Jordan in a Moore League basketball game at Long Beach City College.

The Jackrabbits are 3-0 in league and a win tonight would set up a big game with Millikan (4-0) for undisputed first place Wednesday night at LBCC.

Jordan gave up a Moore season-high 92 points to Millikan Wednesday and has lost eight of its last 10 games. Dwayne Campbell's 18.2 average leads the Panthers.

Surrounded

MILLIKAN

John White led the way Friday with 22, followed by Doug Marty (16), Ed Brown (13) and Sherman Johnson (10). Millikan's three guards — Marty, Rich Boatright and Brian Mott were, collectively, 12 of 14 shooting.

Millikan had asserted itself 2:31 into the second quarter when it held only a two point lead, 24-22.

White, with reserves Mott and Johnson, sparked a 18-4 spurt that led to a 42-26 Millikan lead and an eventual 16-point halftime advantage.

Ironically, it was Millikan's inability to hit free throws in the third quarter — the Rams missed four one-and-one opportunities — that helped Lakewood make its big run.

Lakewood stayed with a man-to-man defense the entire game, but with its big men, Harrington (6-5) and Norris (6-4) in foul trouble, had no one else over 6-1.

"He can two-hand, reverse slam dunk as well as anyone on the team," broke in Johnson. "He's not as tall as most of the other players."

So apparently were the Bruins as a team. They had many chances to blow the Trojans off the floor, but never found an adequate spark.

"Tennessee (Sunday's opponent in Atlanta) might have been on our minds," said Johnson. "We always seem to have a slow start and then a letdown in the second half. At least tonight we didn't let a 10-to-15 point lead slip to five."

Bartow, with his third victory over USC safely tucked away, was also eager to test the sixth-rated Volunteers.

"We've played 30 good minutes of basketball on each of our other two nationally televised Sunday games," noted Bartow. "If we do this week and win, it'll be another milestone."

Compton thumps Wilson

By JOHN LOWE
Staff Writer

After three tough encounters to open the Moore League basketball campaign, Compton High enjoyed a laugher against overmatched Wilson Friday evening.

The Tarbabes prevailed, 76-48, in their first night contest at home since joining the circuit in 1972.

"It was great to have a game like this — we were able to work on our rhythm," said Compton coach Eddie Thomas, whose team had dropped decisions to front-runners Poly and Millikan before defeating Lakewood earlier this week.

The dynamo of the winners' attack, 6-7 center Purvis Miller, had a field day, converting 10-of-14 shots. He also dropped in five free throws to finish with 25 points, one above his league-leading average.

Wilson was without its top scorer, Chris Smith, who incurred a separated shoulder in Wednesday's loss to Poly. He's finished for the year, decreasing the Bruins' chances of improving on their marks of 1-3 and 3-14 over-all. Compton is 13-3.

Bucky Dennis gave Butch Taylor's Wilson team its only lead at 2-0. Then the taller Tarbabes went to work, running off a 15-2 spurt that was culminated by sophomore guard Melvin Herndon's basket one minute into the second period.

During the blitz, Miller sank four shots over his counterpart, 6-1 Kevin Jones, while Herndon contributed four points and Steve Harriel three.

The Bruins rallied to cut the margin to 29-22 at intermission, but Compton pushed the rout button by scoring 16 of the second half's first 18 points.

Plot thickens as Aztecs visit L.B.

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

With a track record of seven titles in seven races, it would seem logical for one to immediately declare Long Beach State the basketball champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

After all, the 49ers are the only unbeaten team (4-0) in the league and if they can dismantle San Diego State tonight at 8 in the Long Beach Arena everyone else in the chase will have at least two defeats.

But LBSU coach Dwight Jones hasn't taken the time to find room for an eighth conference trophy on his mantle. . .yet.

"It's too early to make assumptions like that, or to put a value on a particular game," contends Jones. "If we get this win at home and play well next week at Pacific and San Jose State, then we can afford a little optimism. But not now. It would be foolish."

With a one-game lead, created Thursday night when the 49ers nudged Cal State Fullerton, 74-67, and Fresno upset the Aztecs, 77-61, Jones can afford a "one game at a time" outlook.

While Jones isn't throwing tonight's encounter into the "critical" category, he certainly is excited about it, basically because the game has more potential subplots than a daytime drama.

They include:

• The first meeting between the teams since the Aztecs' overtime triumph of last February, a decision that cost the 49ers their seventh consecutive undisputed PCAA title.

• The reunion of San Diego's Will Connelly and Long Beach's Clarence Ruffen, who were involved in a controversial scuffle at the end of that game. Most fans saw only Ruffen's punch, which broke Connelly's jaw, but films show the Aztec center delivered the first blow.

• LBSU's freshman guard, Donnie Martin, who was the focal point of a bitter recruiting battle between the schools.

• The comparison of Long Beach's Mark Stefl and San Diego's Fred Branch. Both schools feel they got the best JC center in Arizona. Branch starts for the Aztecs. Stefl has played very little for the 49ers.

• The return home of guard Dean Decker, who was a standout at Wilson High School and Long Beach City College before transfering to San Diego.

Jones was asked if the significance of the game might neutralize some of the passion created during the off-season.

"I don't know about that," says Jones, "but I know we're going to be very passionate."

The contest can be heard on KFOX-AM (1280) and KKOP-FM (93.5).

Sports can't weather the storm

Associated Press

Severe winter weather forced more changes in sports schedules Friday as several states declared emergencies because of energy problems.

Five race tracks called off their programs because of weather conditions. Closed were Washington Park in Chicago, Waterford in West Virginia, Latonia in Kentucky and Penn National in Pennsylvania. Another track, Windsor, Ont. Harness Raceway across the river from Detroit, also called off its Friday night races.

In Buffalo, the National Basketball Association game between the Braves and the Cleveland Cavaliers was postponed because of snow.

The Cavaliers were unable to get out of Cleveland because of blizzard conditions which forced the closing of the airport and similiar conditions existed in Buffalo.

No make-up date was announced.

Minnesota, usually the recipient of some of winter's toughest weather, picked up a Big Ten basketball game today because of energy and weather crises in Ohio.

The game between Minnesota and Ohio State, originally scheduled for Columbus, was moved after the Ohio school closed, citing "severe weather conditions, worsening energy crisis and the alarming weather forecasts for this weekend."

Snow also forced the University of Illinois to cancel all of its weekend sports competition except for today's basketball game at Purdue.

In addition, Indiana's basketball game at Iowa was called off and so was the Northern Colorado at Western Illinois game.

LBSU swimmers are in deep against UCLA

The Long Beach State swim team completes the "heavyweight" portion of its dual meet schedule tonight at 5 when it takes on UCLA at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

The 49ers have had previous encounters with USC, Tennessee and Arizona. They've been knocked out by all three and a similar fate is anticipated tonight.

"That's not a problem, though," says 49er coach Dick Jochums, "as long as our swimmers don't get down. The scores look bad, but they're not indicative of how well we swam. We've been competitive in every meet."

Which is exactly what Jochums wants.

"WE SWAM very well against Arizona and came back and swam well against Tennessee," reports Jochums. "The team is getting better every week.

"With four scholarships and swimming against teams with 11, we're at a disadvantage in dual meets," pointed out Jochums, "but our goal is to be good at the end of the year, to finish in the top 10 in the nationals, and I think we can do that."

To reach that objective, Jochums has trained his troops hard, right through the power duels with the USCs, UCLAs and Tennessees.

"If we could win one of those meets by resting we would have done it, but we can't, so there's no use in doing it."

Jochums has been delighted with his club's response to the drills.

SHAW, BOTHERED by injuries and illness last summer, is recovered.

"I'm letting Tim pick two of the races he'll swim against UCLA," says Jochums. "He's had four super weeks of workouts. He's done some things this week that are mind-boggling. He's swimming better than he has in two years."

Shaw is entered in the 50 and 100 freestyles.

"We're going to swim almost everyone in 'off' events," says Jochums, "but this is the last time we're going to 'waste' people. From now on we work toward the big meets."

Those are the PCAA championships, March 2-3-4, at Belmont Plaza, and the NCAA championships March 23-24-25.

Risch wins American golf —and $5,000

RIVERSIDE — Husky Bob Risch shot par 72 on the Quail Lake course Friday for a final score of 211 and a one-stroke victory in the American Golf Tour tournament.

He edged Artie McNickle, who closed with a 75, and Curt Madson, whose 68 was the best round of the day on the 6,700-yard course.

Risch, who earned $82,000 in mini-tour events the past two years, added $5,000 for first prize Friday. McNickle and Madson earned $2,500 each.

SAINT GERVAIS, France (AP) — Perrine Pelen, a 16-year-old French schoolgirl in her second international racing season, astonished the world skiing elite Friday with her second successive World Cup slalom victory.

Her triumph in the Mont Blanc International Ski Tournament followed the first World Cup victory of her career, Wednesday in a slalom race at Crans, Switzerland, and catapulted her into the top ranks of women skiers preparing for next year's world championships.

Pelen, narrowly beaten in the first of Friday's two slalom heats by Germany's 20-year-old Pamela Behr (42.33 seconds to Behr's 42.29), was off to a shaky start in her second run but recovered and finished in 1 minute, 23.60 seconds, more than eighttenths of a second ahead of the time of 1:24.41 by runnerup Patricia Emonet of France.

Sports can't weather the storm

Associated Press

Severe winter weather forced more changes in sports schedules Friday as several states declared emergencies because of energy problems.

Five race tracks called off their programs because of weather conditions. Closed were Washington Park in Chicago, Waterford in West Virginia, Latonia in Kentucky and Penn National in Pennsylvania. Another track, Windsor, Ont. Harness Raceway across the river from Detroit, also called off its Friday night races.

In Buffalo, the National Basketball Association game between the Braves and the Cleveland Cavaliers was postponed because of snow.

The Cavaliers were unable to get out of Cleveland because of blizzard conditions which forced the closing of the airport and similiar conditions existed in Buffalo.

No make-up date was announced.

Minnesota, usually the recipient of some of winter's toughest weather, picked up a Big Ten basketball game today because of energy and weather crises in Ohio.

The game between Minnesota and Ohio State, originally scheduled for Columbus, was moved after the Ohio school closed, citing "severe weather conditions, worsening energy crisis and the alarming weather forecasts for this weekend.".

Snow also forced the University of Illinois to cancel all of its weekend sports competition except for today's basketball game at Purdue.

In addition, Indiana's basketball game at Iowa was called off and so was the Northern Colorado at Western Illinois game.

The U.S. Auto Club midget races scheduled this weekend here and in Louisville, Ky., have been cancelled because of inclement weather.

Tonight's race at the Indianapolis Fairgrounds has been postponed until March 12, while no new date was set for the race scheduled Sunday afternoon in Louisville's Freedom Hall.

LBSU swimmers are in deep against UCLA

The Long Beach State swim team completes the "heavyweight" portion of its dual meet schedule tonight at 5 when it takes on UCLA at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

The 49ers have had previous encounters with USC, Tennessee and Arizona. They've been knocked out by all three and a similar fate is anticipated tonight.

"That's not a problem, though," says 49er coach Dick Jochums, "as long as our swimmers don't get down. The scores look bad, but they're not indicative of how well we swam. We've been competitive in every meet."

Which is exactly what Jochums wants.

"WE SWAM very well against Arizona and came back and swam well against Tennessee," reports Jochums. "The team is getting better every week.

"With four scholarships and swimming against teams with 11, we're at a disadvantage in dual meets," pointed out Jochums, "but our goal is to be good at the end of the year, to finish in the top 10 in the nationals, and I think we can do that."

To reach that objective, Jochums has trained his troops hard, right through the power duels with the USCs. UCLAs and Tennessees.

"If we could win one of those meets by resting we would have done it, but we can't, so there's no use in doing it," Jochums says. "In the long run, at the end of the season, it will pay great dividends."

Jochums has been delighted with his club's response to the drills.

"I feel real good about this team," says Jochums. "We're working harder than ever and swimming better than ever. We're right where we want to be.",

SHAW, BOTHERED by injuries and illness last summer, is recovered.

"I'm letting Tim pick two of the races he'll swim against UCLA," says Jochums. "He's had four super weeks of workouts. He's done some things this week that are mind-boggling. He's swimming better than be has in two years."

Shaw is entered in the 50 and 100 freestyles.

"We're going to swim almost everyone in 'off' events," says Jochums, "but this is the last time we're going to 'waste' people. From now on we work toward the big meets."

Those are the PCAA championships, March 2-3-4, at Belmont Plaza, and the NCAA championships March 23-24-25.

Risch wins American golf —and $5,000

RIVERSIDE — Husky Bob Risch shot par 72 on the Quail Lake course Friday for a final score of 211 and a one-stroke victory in the American Golf Tour tournament.

Risch, a resident of Diamond Bar, dropped four birdies, his longest putt from 22 feet, and had four bogeys on his final round of the 54-hole tournament.

He edged Artie McNickle, who closed with a 75, and Curt Madson, whose 68 was the best round of the day on the 6,700-yard course.

Risch, who earned $82,000 in mini-tour events the past two years, added $5,000 for first prize Friday. McNickle and Madson earned $2,500 each.

French teen shocks skiing elite in slalom

SAINT GERVAIS, France (AP) — Perrine Pelen, a 16-year-old French schoolgirl in her second international racing season, astonished the world skiing elite Friday with her second successive World Cup slalom victory.

Her triumph in the Mont Blanc International Ski Tournament followed the first World Cup victory of her career, Wednesday in a slalom race at Crans, Switzerland, and catapulted her into the top ranks of women skiers preparing for next year's world championships.

Pelen, narrowly beaten in the first of Friday's two slalom heats by Germany's 20-year-old Pamela Behr (42.33 seconds to Behr's 42.29), was off to a shaky start in her second run but recovered and finished in 1 minute, 23.60 seconds, more than eight-tenths of a second ahead of the time of 1:24.41 by runnerup Patricia Emonet of France.

Classy field vies in $131,000 Derby

Jonny Apollo and Comingforth head a field of 10 outstanding sophomores set to run for the winner's share of a $131,000 purse in the nation's first major horse race of 1977, the El Primero Del Ano Derby tonight at Los Alamitos Race Track.

Jonny Apollo comes into the finals with the fastest qualifying time, while Comingforth will be trying to make it a clean sweep this winter at Los Alamitos after winning the $186,000 Golden State Futurity last month.

An impressive group of young sprinters earned berths along with Jonny Apollo and Comingforth in last week's trial heats to the Derby. Takeme Freely, Game Plan, Etta Chick, Pageant Queen, Le Fleur, Sir Chica Mor, Doc's Express and Miss Tiny Rockette will be answering the starter's call, while the quarter horse world waits to see which youngster will wear the first Derby crown of the year.

Post time for the first race $2 exacta is 7:45 p.m.

Jonny Apollo breezed to a 20.23 qualifying victory last week over an "off" track and is the fastest qualifier by .17. It was the second career win for the lightly raced son of Easy Jet who has been at the starting gate only five times.

Comingforth may be the betting favorite when post time rolls around. The speedy Azure Te filly is unbeaten in three starts on the Los Alamitos straightaway and is the second fastest qualifier to the Derby after a 20.40 trial triumph. A finalist in last year's million dollar All-American Futurity, the speedster easily won the Golden State Futurity over many of these sprinters last month. Trainer Roger Fagan calls her one of the most honest quarter horses he's ever seen, and her racing record shows only three worse-than-second place finishes in 15 career starts.

D. Wayne Lukas, the only trainer with more than one horse in the Derby, has a trio going postward — Takeme Freely, Game Plan and Etta Chick. Game Plan brings the most impressive bankroll and credentials after winning the Bay Meadows Futurity last spring. The Easy Jet colt has seven career wins and nearly $125,000 in earnings. Takeme Freely has five lifetime wins and nearly $40,000 in earnings, while Etta Chick has three wins.

Pincay scores triple, wins S'Anita feature

Heavily-favored Maheras carried Laffit Pincay Jr. to his third victory of the day Friday in the $16,000 feature race at Santa Anita, an easy four-length triumph over False Prophet.

Maheras broke on top, settled into a stride-for-stride run with pace-setting False Prophet and broke free to take command of the race under hand coaxing.

In the final furlong of the six-furlong race, Maheras was well in hand and the 4-year-old bay colt won going away as False Prophet finished ahead of Sure Fire by a nose.

Pincay's mount returned $3.80, $2.60 and $2.20. False Prophet paid $3.40 and $2.60 and Sure Fire returned $2.60.

Time for Maheras, under top weight of 122 pounds, was a fast 1:08⅗. On opening day, Maheras won the Palos Verdes Handicap, also running six furlongs in 1:08⅗.

One of Pincay's other victories, with Barrera in the sixth race, also produced a 1:08⅘ time for six furlongs. Pincay started his triple with a triumph in the second race.

Earlier in the day, trainer Keith Stucki suffered lacerations and was hospitalized as a precautionary measure when he was kicked in the side of the head during a schooling session in the paddock area.

Stucki was walking behind his stable star, who has won nearly $1 million in his career, when the horse suddenly kicked him. Stucki was treated for lacerations behind the right ear.

Darrel McHargue closed the day by winning the ninth as he also scored a triple — taking the third and fifth, as well.

Today at Santa Anita, Riot In Paris and Ancient Title head a field of 10 stakes winners in the $58,000 San Pasqual Handicap, the 40th running of the 1 1-16th mile test for older horses.

Classy field vies in $131,000 Derby

Jonny Apollo and Comingforth head a field of 10 outstanding sophomores set to run for the winner's share of a $131,000 purse in the nation's first major horse race of 1977, the El Primero Del Ano Derby tonight at Los Alamitos Race Track.

Jonny Apollo comes into the finals with the fastest qualifying time, while Comingforth will be trying to make it a clean sweep this winter at Los Alamitos after winning the $186,000 Golden State Futurity last month.

An impressive group of young sprinters earned berths along with Jonny Apollo and Comingforth in last week's trial heats to the Derby. Takeme Freely, Game Plan, Etta Chick, Pageant Queen, Le Fleur, Sir Chica Mor, Doc's Express and Miss Tiny Rockette will be answering the starter's call, while the quarter horse world waits to see which youngster will wear the first Derby crown of the year.

Post time for the first race $2 exacta is 7:45 p.m.

Jonny Apollo breezed to a 20.23 qualifying victory last week over an "off" track and is the fastest qualifier by .17. It was the second career win for the lightly raced son of Easy Jet who has been at the starting gate only five times.

Comingforth may be the betting favorite when post time rolls around. The speedy Azure Te filly is unbeaten in three starts on the Los Alamitos straightaway and is the second fastest qualifier to the Derby after a 20.40 trial triumph. A finalist in last year's million dollar All-American Futurity, the speedster easily won the Golden State Futurity over many of these sprinters last month.

D. Wayne Lukas, the only trainer with more than one horse in the Derby, has a trio going postward — Takeme Freely, Game Plan and Etta Chick. Game Plan brings the most impressive bankroll and credentials after winning the Bay Meadows Futurity last spring. The Easy Jet colt has seven career wins and nearly $125,000 in earnings. Takeme Freely has five lifetime wins and nearly $40,000 in earnings, while Etta Chick has three wins.

Pincay scores triple, wins S'Anita feature

Heavily-favored Maheras carried Laffit Pincay Jr. to his third victory of the day Friday in the $16,000 feature race at Santa Anita, an easy four-length triumph over False Prophet.

Maheras broke on top, settled into a stride-for-stride run with pace-setting False Prophet and broke free to take command of the race under hand coaxing.

In the final furlong of the six-furlong race, Maheras was well in hand and the 4-year-old bay colt won going away as False Prophet finished ahead of Sure Fire by a nose.

Pincay's mount returned $3.80, $2.60 and $2.20. False Prophet paid $3.40 and $2.60 and Sure Fire returned $2.60.

Time for Maheras, under top weight of 122 pounds, was a fast 1:08⅗. On opening day, Maheras won the Palos Verdes Handicap, also running six furlongs in 1:08⅗.

One of Pincay's other victories, with Barrera in the sixth race, also produced a 1:08⅘ time for six furlongs. Pincay started his triple with a triumph in the second race.

Earlier in the day, trainer Keith Stucki suffered lacerations and was hospitalized as a precautionary measure when he was kicked in the side of the head during a schooling session in the paddock area.

Stucki was walking behind his stable star, who has won nearly $1 million in his career, when the horse suddenly kicked him. Stucki was treated for lacerations behind the right ear.

Darrel McHargue closed the day by winning the ninth as he also scored a triple — taking the third and fifth, as well.

Today at Santa Anita, Riot In Paris and Ancient Title head a field of 10 stakes winners in the $58,000 San Pasqual Handicap, the 40th running of the 1 1-16th mile test for older horses.

Hough signs 4-year pact with Dodgers

Pirates upend Artesia

Paramount moves into third spot

The Pirates, led by Rick Lee's 14 points, had four starters in double figures. John Gonzales and Keith Korver chipped in 13 each.

Paramount improved its league mark to 6-2; Artesia is 5-3.

Bellflower (7-1, 17-2 over-all) kept its share of the lead with an 87-53 win over Norwalk.

Mayfair had little trouble with host Excelsior, 73-62, to stay even with Bellflower in the first place race.

Luc Boily poured in 22 points for Mayfair to lead all scorers and teammate Rick Diffine added 14 for the winners. Leading Pilot scorer Herschel McMahon picked up four fouls in the first period for Excelsior and was disqualified early in the second half.

Downey subdues Warren

By FRANK BURLISON
Staff Writer

Forward Herb Harper hit three free throws, blocked two shoots and made a steal in the final 2:22 Friday night to lead Downey to a 81-76 win over rival Warren before an estimated 2,500 spectators at Cerritos College.

The victory gives the Vikings a share of the San Gabriel Valley League lead with Cerritos, a 62-49 winner over Gahr. The co-leaders are 3-1.

In an afternoon SGVL game, Lynwood won its first game in league by defeating host Dominguez, 71-54.

Warren (2-2, 14-6 over-all), the No. 1 team in this week's CIF 3-A ratings, broke quickly, taking a 16-6 lead with 3:30 to play in the first period.

But five different Vikings scored as Downey outscored the Bears, 11-1, the remainder of the period to leave the scored tied at 17-17.

Warren, with Downey sophomore center John Ritchie languishing on the bench with three personal fouls, fought back from a six-point deficit during the second period to pull out ahead, 40-37 at halftime, behind the scoring of Mark Mullane (15) and Jerry McCarthy (14).

Downey then outscored Warren, 19-6, the first 4:40 of the second half to move out in front by 10 (56-46). The Vikings increased the lead to 66-55 going into the final eight minutes of play.

Behind the play of Mark Mullane, who played the entire second half with four personal fouls, and Mark Guastella, Warren tied the score at 76-76 with 2:35 remaining on Mullane's two free throws.

But Harper, who missed Downey's last game with a hip-pointer, hit a free throw to give Downey a 77-76 advantage. Kevin Hughes hit two free throws with eight seconds remaining to cinch the win for Downey (16-3 over-all).

CERRITOS received a balanced scoring attack to beat Gahr.

The Dons went up by five points with two minutes to go in the game, then went to a four-corner delay offense.

Gahr was forced to foul in trying to get the ball and Cerritos was able to convert its free throws, hitting 17 of 19 attempts in the final quarter.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Associated Press

New York's defending champions Graig Nettles and Bob Tucker combined for a net 14-under-par 58 to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the 54-hole best-ball Sports Golf Classic Friday in Scottsdale, Ariz.

One shot behind in the tournament composed of professional baseball and football players were Hall of Famers Otto Graham and Joe DiMaggio. DiMaggio suffered an accidental "beaning" by his former New York Yankees teammate Yogi Berra, another Hall of Famer.

RING ROUSERS: World lightweight champion Roberto Duran, nicknamed "The Hand of Iron" and called by his trainer "a little Jack Dempsey," faces challenger Vilomar Fernandez today in Miami Beach in Duran's 16th title defense, to be televised by CBS (channel 2) at 4 p.m. Duran, 25, of Panama, has a 54-1 record; Fernandez, of New York City, is 20-5-1.

Heavyweights Jimmy Clark, the 1975 Golden Gloves champion with a 62-7 record, and Clinton Jackson, the only man to win three Golden Gloves titles and three AAU crowns, headline today's ninth international championships between American and Russian fighters in Las Vegas, also on TV (ABC, channel 7, 5 p.m.). Champion Yoko Gushikan of Japan and challenger Jaime Rios of Panama each predicted Friday that he will win by knockout when they meet for the WBA junior flyweight crown Sunday in Tokyo. One of them is wrong.

BASEBALL BANTER: Lou Brock, only 27 stolen bases away from Ty Cobb's all-time theft record of 892, has resigned from the St. Louis Cardinals coaching staff so he can concentrate solely on his responsibilites as a player. . . . Outfielder Lou Piniella checked into the New York Yankees' informal early training camp and immediately went shopping — for a first baseman's glove. "They didn't ask me to take a shot at first base," he said. "They told me." . . . Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox' 17-year veteran, says he doesn't expect any problems about what position he plays in 1977, shrugging off suggestions of conflict since the club has acquired first baseman Gene Scott. Yaz, normally at first but also accustomed to leftfield, said, "Don Zimmer is the manager and it's what he decides."

BRIEFLY: A seven-year-old marijuana charge against ABC sports caster Jim Lampley, who was arrested after a detective saw him on television during the Gator Bowl game, was dropped Friday after a prosecutor told a judge that the state had no case. "Unfortunately, there was an improper search and arrest," Asst. Florida state attorney Fred Graves told circuit judge Richard Fuller before Fuller dropped the charge. "The marijuana, the evidence has been destroyed," Graves said. "The arresting officers are no longer policemen . . . all circumstances which would make prosecution difficult." . . . Italians Sandro Munari and Silvio Maiga drove a Lancia Stratos to an unprecedented third consecutive victory Friday in the Monte Carlo rally and equalled the record of four victories in the classic event. They headed a Fiat group near-sweep of the 45th Monte Carlo rally. Lancias were first and sixth, a Fiat 131 was second and Seats from the Spanish subsidiary placed third, fourth and eighth.

enough in England, Germany and Japan to avoid the bread line here. He missed the cut in the Swiss Open but found a wife, whom he married in the States last fall. With another mouth to feed, Hinkle responded in the tour opener at Phoenix by finishing 10th, worth $4,600. He still has a long way to go to recoup his past losses, however.

"I'm just a Joe Schmuck on the PGA tour," he said. "Like every other young golfer out here, you dream about winning a tournament and finding the pot of gold. But for me, it's been just a dream."

Hinkle joined the tour in 1972 and finished third at Hilton Head in South Carolina early in the year, collecting $7,350. It's been uphill since then.

Lon has three brothers and three sisters and most of his family dogged his every shot Friday. One brother, Toby, was his caddy. "There were Hinkles everywhere," he said.

As a long hitter, Hinkle felt he should have held the undisputed lead. All the par-5s on the 6,667-yard North course are reachable in two but he birdied only two of them. He missed 2-foot and 6-foot putts on the others.

Hinkle collected six birdies, four on par-4 holes with putts of six feet twice, 15 feet and 2½ feet. But he missed three putts of six feet or less and lipped out two longer ones.

Despite the knowledge he possesses of these seaside courses, Hinkle may encounter difficulty in outlasting Watson, the young Missourian who is the hottest golfer on the tour with more than $50,000 in earnings.

Watson ran his string of under-par rounds to seven in a row with a seven-birdie, two-bogey effort on the 7,047-yard South course. Only 5-9, 160-pounds, he reached all four par-5s in two and two-putted.

"I'm still riding the big wave," said Watson, who "over-celebrated" last week after winning the Crosby.

Watson, who has been under-par in 10 of 14 rounds this term, said he "wasn't as sharp as my score indicates. I hit a lot of thin shots."

Shearer, who earned his tour card last June after many years of success in Australia and England, played 7-under the last 11 holes to post 66. His round was highlighted by a 10-foot eagle putt on his finishing hole.

Prudhomme, the two-time defending Winternationals champion and the reigning world champion, produced a quartermile elapsed time of 6.14 seconds at a speed of 240 miles per hour.

Pirates upend Artesia

Paramount moves into third spot

Paramount High used a balanced attack to upend visiting Artesia, 67-55, Friday night and earn its sixth successive triumph.

The victory boosted Paramount into third place, one game behind Mayfair and Bellflower.

The Pirates, led by Rick Lee's 14 points, had four starters in double figures. John Gonzales and Keith Korver chipped in 13 each.

Paramount survived a sluggish first half as Artesia controlled the boards with eight offensive rebounds and built a 29-27 advantage at halftime.

But Paramount took command after tying the score, 36-36. The Pirates, led by Keith Korver's 11-point second half, shot out to a 66-49 lead early in the fourth quarter and the game was never close after that.

Paramount improved its league mark to 6-2; Artesia is 5-3.

Bellflower (7-1, 17-2 over-all) kept its share of the lead with an 87-53 win over Norwalk.

The Bucs were never threatened after building an early 14-4 advantage. Bellflower was paced by center Kurt Herbst's 9-for-10 shooting performance from the field for 24 points. Mike Anderson had 15.

Luc Boily poured in 22 points for Mayfair to lead all scorers and teammate Rick Diffine added 14 for the winners. Leading Pilot scorer Herschel McMahon picked up four fouls in the first period for Excelsior and was disqualified early in the second half.

Glenn won its second league contest in eight tries by handling visiting Neff (3-5), 74-60.

The Eagles trailed 14-13 at the end of the first quarter, but outscored Neff 20-8 in the second period to lead by 11 at the half.

Downey subdues Warren

By FRANK BURLISON
Staff Writer

Forward Herb Harper hit three free throws, blocked two shoots and made a steal in the final 2:22 Friday night to lead Downey to a 81-76 win over rival Warren before an estimated 2,500 spectators at Cerritos College.

The victory gives the Vikings a share of the San Gabriel Valley League-lead with Cerritos, a 62-49 winner over Gahr. The co-leaders are 3-1.

In an afternoon SGVL game, Lynwood won its first game in league by defeating host Dominguez, 71-54.

Warren (2-2, 14-6 over-all), the No. 1 team in this week's CIF 3-A ratings, broke quickly, taking a 16-6 lead with 3:30 to play in the first period.

But five different Vikings scored as Downey outscored the Bears, 11-1, the remainder of the period to leave the scored tied at 17-17.

Warren, with Downey sophomore center John Ritchie languishing on the bench with three personal fouls, fought back from a six-point deficit during the second period to pull out ahead, 40-37 at halftime, behind the scoring of Mark Mullane (16) and Jerry McCarthy (14).

Downey then outscored Warren, 19-6, the first 4:40 of the second half to move out in front by 10 (56-46). The Vikings increased the lead to 66-55 going into the final eight minutes of play.

Behind the play of Mark Mullane, who played the entire second half with four personal fouls, and Mark Guastella, Warren tied the score at 76-76 with 2:35 remaining on Mullane's two free throws.

But Harper, who missed Downey's last game with a hip-pointer, hit a free throw to give Downey a 77-76 advantage. Kevin Hughes hit two free throws with eight seconds remaining to cinch the win for Downey (16-3 over-all).

The Dons went up by five points with two minutes to go in the game, then went to a four-corner delay offense.

Gahr was forced to foul in trying to get the ball and Cerritos was able to convert its free throws, hitting 17 of 19 attempts in the final quarter.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Associated Press

New York's defending champions Graig Nettles and Bob Tucker combined for a net 14 under-par 58 to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the 54-hole best-ball Sports Golf Classic Friday in Scottsdale, Ariz.

One shot behind in the tournament composed of professional baseball and football players were Hall of Famers Otto Graham and Joe DiMaggio. DiMaggio suffered an accidental "beaning" by his former New York Yankees teammate Yogi Berra, another Hall of Famer.

RING ROUSERS: World lightweight champion Roberto Duran, nicknamed "The Hand of Iron" and called by his trainer "a little Jack Dempsey," faces challenger Vilomar Fernandez today in Miami Beach in Duran's 10th title defense, to be televised by CBS (channel 2) at 4 p.m. Duran, 25, of Panama, has a 54-1 record; Fernandez, of New York City, is 20-5-1. . . . Heavyweights Jimmy Clark, the 1975 Golden Gloves champion with a 62-7 record, and Clinton Jackson, the only man to win three Golden Gloves titles and three AAU crowns, headline today's ninth international championships between American and Russian fighters in Las Vegas, also on TV (ABC, channel 7, 5 p.m.). . . . Champion Yoko Gushikan of Japan and challenger Jaime Rios of Panama each predicted Friday that he will win by knockout when they meet for the WBA junior flyweight crown Sunday in Tokyo. One of them is wrong.

BASEBALL BANTER: Lou Brock, only 27 stolen bases away from Ty Cobb's all-time theft record of 892, has resigned from the St. Louis Cardinals coaching staff so he can concentrate solely on his responsibilites as a player. . . . Outfielder Lou Piniella checked into the New York Yankees' informal early training camp and immediately went shopping — for a first baseman's glove. "They didn't ask me to take a shot at first base," he said. "They told me." . . . Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox' 17-year veteran, says he doesn't expect any problems about what position he plays in 1977, shrugging off suggestions of conflict since the club has acquired first baseman Gene Scott. Yaz, normally at first but also accustomed to leftfield, said, "Don Zimmer is the manager and it's what he decides."

BRIEFLY: A seven-year-old marijuana charge against ABC sportscaster Jim Lampley, who was arrested after a detective saw him on television during the Gator Bowl game, was dropped Friday after a prosecutor told a judge that the state had no case. "Unfortunately, there was an improper search and arrest," Asst. Florida state attorney Fred Graves told circuit judge Richard Fuller before Fuller dropped the charge. "The marijuana, the evidence, has been destroyed," Graves said. "The arresting officers are no longer policemen — all circumstances which would make prosecution difficult." . . . Italians Sandro Munari and Silvio Maiga drove a Lancia Stratos to an unprecedented third consecutive victory Friday in the Monte Carlo rally and equalled the record of four victories in the classic event. They headed a Fiat group near-sweep of the 45th Monte Carlo rally. Lancias were first and sixth, a Fiat 131 was second and Seats from the Spanish subsidiary placed third, fourth and eighth.

enough in England, Germany and Japan to avoid the bread line here. He missed the cut in the Swiss Open but found a wife, whom he married in the States last fall. With another mouth to feed, Hinkle responded in the tour opener at Phoenix by finishing 10th, worth $4,600. He still has a long way to go to recoup his past losses, however.

"I'm just a Joe Schmuck on the PGA tour," he said. "Like every other young golfer out here, you dream about winning a tournament and finding the pot of gold. But for me, it's been just a dream."

Hinkle joined the tour in 1972 and finished third at Hilton Head in South Carolina early in the year, collecting $7,350. It's been uphill since then.

Lon has three brothers and three sisters and most of his family dogged his every shot Friday. One brother, Toby, was his caddy. "There were Hinkles everywhere," he said.

As a long hitter, Hinkle felt he should have held the undisputed lead. All the par-5s on the 6,667-yard North course are reachable in two but he birdied only two of them. He missed 2-foot and 6-foot putts on the others.

Hinkle collected six birdies, four on par-4 holes with putts of six feet twice, 15 feet and 2½ feet. But he missed three putts of six feet or less and lipped out two longer ones.

Despite the knowledge he possesses of these seaside courses, Hinkle may encounter difficulty in outlasting Watson, the young Missourian who is the hottest golfer on the tour with more than $50,000 in earnings.

Watson ran his string of under-par rounds to seven in a row with a seven-birdie, two-bogey effort on the 7,047-yard South course. Only 5-9, 160-pounds, he reached all four par-5s in two and two-putted.

"I'm still riding the big wave," said Watson, who "over-celebrated" last week after winning the Crosby.

Watson, who has been under-par in 10 of 14 rounds this term, said he "wasn't as sharp as my score indicates. I hit a lot of thin shots."

Shearer, who earned his tour card last June after many years of success in Australia and England, played 7-under the last 11 holes to post 66. His round was highlighted by a 10-foot eagle putt on his finishing hole.

Pace picks up in drag qualifying

Don Prudhomme of Granada Hills and Raymond Beadle of Dallas picked up the Funny Car qualifying pace Friday despite cooling temperatures which hampered second-day performances at the 17th Winternationals drag races at Pomona.

Prudhomme, the two-time defending Winternationals champion and the reigning world champion, produced a quartermile elapsed time of 6.14 seconds at a speed of 240 miles per hour.

That was good enough for the No. 1 spot in the field of 16 with only today's qualifying session remaining.

The wee baby, the middle-sized and the great big zinnia

Only a generation or two ago, gardeners had a limited choice in zinnia varieities. Most zinnias had tall, lanky plants; flower colors were subdued and somewhat dull. But, once flower breeders "broke the genetic code" of zinnias, they began reassembling them, in all sorts of combinations — like mechanical engineers turned loose with a large box of Tinkertoys.

Tiny plants with small blossoms — the Thumbelinas

Short, squatty plants with large blossoms — the Peter Pans

Medium-height plants with demitasse-size blossoms — the Ruffles

Tall (2 1/2 to 3 feet) plants with giant blossoms — many varieties and hybrids in a wonderful assortment of blossom forms:

Tall plants with demitasse-size blossoms — the Cut-and-Come Again varieties

Rapidly gaining in favor because of their low, spreading habit and resistance to drought and mildew are two small flowered, sun-colored zinnias with narrow willow-like leaves — the Mexican and the Classic zinnias (Zinnia haageana and Z. linearis).

Zinnias will bloom all summer long, except in the Deep South and Southwest where they burn out in August and are either replanted for fall bloom or replaced by calendulas, dwarf marigolds, or chrysanthemums.

Certain of the recently introduced hybrids have such vigor that they can stand up longer against the mildew that disfigures zinnias in early fall. Mildew is less of a problem where zinnias are grown in the full sun, where good air drainage keeps the foliage dry, and where watering is done by flowing water from a hose than by sprinkler.

Zinnias are distinctly summer flowers and should not be planted until early summer when the soil is quite warm. They grow quickly and easily from seeds and yield loads of blossoms for arrangements.

By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP)— California's new energy conservation plan will save consumers $1 billion a year by 1985—if consumers and politicians accept it, the head of the State Energy Commission said Friday.

Richard Maullin, commission chairman, told reporters that the commission's $1 billion estimate was "conservative," but there could be roadblocks, both politically and in the desire of the public to take part.

"THE realization of savings is really impossible unless the citizen sees it in his own best interest."

He added, "Most (proposals in the plan) are achievable without a hell of a lot of controversy. Others are political problems."

The plan envisions a 10 per cent saving in energy by 1985, and a big part of it is adequate insulation in 90 per cent of California's homes within a five-year period. That would cost $300 to $400 for the average homeowner, Maullin said.

Politically sensitive areas of the plan would be legislation that would increase registration fees on cars that use more gasoline, or create preferential freeway lanes for car pools.

TO MAKE it easier for the public to grasp the concepts, the plan stresses incentives, including financial subsidies.

But Maullin said legislation would be required for some of the plan's elements, such as required installation of insulation in all existing homes where feasible.

A prefential lane experiment on the Santa Monica Freeway last year was ended in a storm of controversy. Legislators running for re-election jumped on bills to outlaw the so-called Diamond Lane program.

So, said Maullin, such things as Diamond Lanes would come gradually as they gain public support.

Maullin, noting the East Coast energy shortages, said, "Sometimes the urgency is lost" on Californians because of the state's benign climate.

The plan proposes a mixture of government regulations and voluntary actions, but "the government can't order, unless there are unusual circumstances, the public to do the obvious things."

WHAT IF the plan doesn't work?

"The unsaid alternative in the long run is some sort of authoritarian order to do this or that," Maullin said. He said President Carter's allocation of energy to meet the East Coast crisis was really rationing in a sense.

The commission has adopted 15 programs in the plan which Maullin said would save 23 billion kilowatt hours of electricity and 2 billion therms of natural gas by 1985, the equivalent of energy produced by five to seven major power plants.

Besides residential insulation, they include:

—Efficient heating systems for homes, combining efficiency standards, incentives and consumer information to encourage the best space heating systems for new and existing homes.

—Night thermostat setback devices that automatically reduce home thermostat settings.

—Incentives, including financial and regulatory assistance, to accelerate the market of solar space and water heating, with special efforts on the design of new buildings that can utilize solar energy with no extra cost.

—Greater use of utilities' personnel to provide direct information, services and marketing of conservation devices to individuals in their homes.

—Energy audits of commercial buildings to help identify efficiency improvements, with proposed standards in some cases, and loans and financial assistance if necessary.

It also promotes expanded informational and technical help, loans and incentives, to encourage state and local governments to save energy in operations, as well as purchases of cars and equipment.

IT recommends a new rate structure that would reward conservation and cooperation between utilities and industries to generate electricity and process heat.

A proposed development's impact on energy supply and demand also would be considered in environmental impact reports.

Maullin said the federal government would be counted on to provide funds for incentives such as price reductions on solar equipment installations.

Seminars for bank officers are planned in an effort to overcome reluctance of some banks to make home loans for solar energy improvements, Maullin said.

Additional charges denied for prepaid lifetime care

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state refused Friday to allow a group of homes for the elderly to assess new monthly charges against residents who had purchased prepaid lifetime care.

The Methodist Church-affiliated Pacific Homes, Inc., had sought minimum fees of $300 to $500 a month to cover operating deficits.

Raymond Procunier, chief deputy state health director, said the decision could bankrupt the corporation, which cares for 1,700 elderly persons in 10 retirement homes in California, Arizona and Hawaii.

But, Procunier said in a news release, even if the homes are allowed to assess extra fees on residents, they might still go into bankruptcy eventually.

Pacific Homes officials were not available for comment. A secretary at headquarters in Los Angeles said President Edward Marek and other officials were meeting all day with the corporation's board of directors and were not answering outside inquiries.

The California homes are in Los Angeles, San Diego, Chula Vista and Claremont. Residents average 85 years in age, the state said.

"If Pacific Homes so desires, it can appeal my decision in court," Procunier said.

"All those elderly people acted in good faith. They did their best to assure they could live their lives without ever becoming a burden on anybody else. That is the service they paid for. This is the service they are entitled to receive."

The residents of the retirement homes and convalescent hospitals made lump sum payments to Pacific Homes for contracts which promised lifetime care at either no or only minimal additional costs, the Health Department said.

But problems began in 1972, when Pacific Homes dipped $17 million into reserves which the state requires the firm to maintain to meet its long-term obligations.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Special auto license plates for the blind would be authorized under legislation introduced in the Assembly.

The purpose of the bill by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, is to allow blind persons to use special parking places now designated for the handicapped.

A spokesman for Vasconcellos said many blind persons own vehicles or have persons who regularly drive them. The law allowing special, convenient parking spots reserved for persons with special handicapped driver license plates does not allow issuance of those plates to vehicles regularly used to transport the blind. The bill is AB 289.

Try the long-lasting perennial vegetables

BY JOE LITTLEFIELD

Perennial vegetables last for several years before they need to be dug up or divided, and new plants reset in the garden.

There are several perennial vegetables available bare root at nurseries to be planted now. They are asparagus, rhubarb, artichoke, and a favorite fruit, strawberry.

Asparagus is considered a status vegetable, especially because of the cost when it first appears in the market.

Some years ago, a Chinese vegetable farmer in the San Gabriel valley grew asparagus for 20 years. The bareroots are sold in plastic sacks. However, gardeners should check the roots. Select a sack which contains firm root plants. Some nurserymen may have them temporarily heeled in damp shavings or sawdust. The plant roots may be from three to six inches long.

Plants should be set out in a sunny area by themselves where they'll be undisturbed for several years. Their yarn-like roots grow down from a knobby top. Plant them six inches apart in rows, the knobby tops two inches below the soil surface. They will grow from two to nearly four feet tall.

The foliage should not be cut till it dies. The second year some gardeners begin to harvest.

Rhubarb root clump sections are, or have been, sold in plastic sacks. Don't plant the root clump if it is soft. Purchase those in containers which were grown from seed.

Some gardeners have problems with root clump planted rhubarb, because they cover the top area with soil. The tops must not be covered at all. The other trouble could be due to keeping the root clump too wet, hence rot sets in and the clump dies.

Artichoke clumps are divided into smaller individual root clumps. They too won't grow if they're treated like the rhubarb.

Gardeners must keep sharp lookout for possible infestation of aphids. A liquid pesticide spray listed for vegetables and fruits, or a vegetable-tomato dust, should be used to discourage those pests. Sharhose sprayings at intervals will help during the critical aphids infestation.

Strawberry roots too are available. Plant them on hilled rows, or if you prefer to plant them on level ground, then scrape out furrows about four inches deep between the rows.

Sun loving perennial flowering plants also are available bare root for a period of time. They are gerbera, shasta daisy, bleeding heart, bearded iris, and day lily.

Gerbera with yarn-size thickness but firm roots, has a knobby top too. It must not be covered by soil, otherwise the leaves grow stunted, and what few blossoms appear are small and malformed. They'll bloom more freely if they are allowed to get thirsty then deeply watered.

Shasta daisy, with attractive single white flowers, have been available bare root. The double and lacinated forms usually are grown in containers.

Tomatoes can be planted very deeply

In loose or sandy soil, you can set plants vertically, but in heavy or poorly drained soil, it is better to dig a slanting trench 2 or 3 in. deep and lay the plant in it with the top 4 to 6 sets of leaves sticking out. Trim off all the leaves that would be under the surface. New roots will sprout all along the length of the stem.

Don't try deep transplanting with cabbages, eggplant, peppers, and flowers. These are fussy about planting depth and prefer to be set in only as deep as the former soil line on the plant. You can see the line where the stems change color from pale white to green.

Club memo

Joe Littlefield, I.P-T garden columnist, will speak to members of the Belmont Heights Garden Club Tuesday at Belmont Heights Methodist Church, Third Street and Miramar.

Littlefield will speak on "Flowers, Indoor House Plants and Lawns" at the 1 p.m. meeting.

Those attending are invited to bring their "sickly" house plants — Joe will diagnose the ills. Visitors are welcome.

The wee baby, the middle-sized and the great big zinnia

Only a generation or two ago, gardeners had a limited choice in zinnia varieities. Most zinnias had tall, lanky plants; flower colors were subdued and somewhat dull. But, once flower breeders "broke the genetic code" of zinnias, they began reassembling them, in all sorts of combinations — like mechanical engineers turned loose with a large box of Tinkertoys.

Now, zinnias come in almost all colors except true blue and in numerous combinations of blossom and plant sizes — wee, medium, and great big:

Tiny plants with small blossoms — the Thumbelinas

Short, squatty plants with large blossoms — the Peter Pans

Medium-height plants with demitasse-size blossoms — the Ruffles

Tall (2 1/2 to 3 feet) plants with giant blossoms — many varieties and hybrids in a wonderful assortment of blossom forms:

Tall plants with demitasse-size blossoms — the Cut-and-Come Again varieties

Rapidly gaining in favor because of their low, spreading habit and resistance to drought and mildew are two small flowered, sun-colored zinnias with narrow willow-like leaves — the Mexican and the Classic zinnias (Zinnia haageana and Z. linearis).

Zinnias will bloom all summer long, except in the Deep South and Southwest where they burn out in August and are either replanted for fall bloom or replaced by calendulas, dwarf marigolds, or chrysanthemums.

Certain of the recently introduced hybrids have such vigor that they can stand up longer against the mildew that disfigures zinnias in early fall. Mildew is less of a problem where zinnias are grown in the full sun, where good air drainage keeps the foliage dry, and where watering is done by flowing water from a hose than by sprinkler.

Zinnias are distinctly summer flowers and should not be planted until early summer when the soil is quite warm. They grow quickly and easily from seeds and yield loads of blossoms for arrangements.

By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's new energy conservation plan will save consumers $1 billion a year by 1985—if consumers and politicians accept it, the head of the State Energy Commission said Friday.

Richard Maullin, commission chairman, told reporters that the commission's $1 billion estimate was "conservative," but there could be roadblocks, both politically and in the desire of the public to take part.

"THE realization of savings is really impossible unless the citizen sees it in his own best interest."

He added, "Most (proposals in the plan) are achievable without a hell of a lot of controversy. Others are political problems."

The plan envisions a 10 per cent saving in energy by 1985, and a big part of it is adequate insulation in 90 per cent of California's homes within a five-year period. That would cost $300 to $400 for the average homeowner, Maullin said.

Politically sensitive areas of the plan would be legislation that would increase registration fees on cars that use more gasoline, or create preferential freeway lanes for car pools.

TO MAKE it easier for the public to grasp the concepts, the plan stresses incentives, including financial subsidies.

But Maullin said legislation would be required for some of the plan's elements, such as required installation of insulation in all existing homes where feasible.

A prefential lane experiment on the Santa Monica Freeway last year was ended in a storm of controversy. Legislators running for re-election jumped on bills to outlaw the so-called Diamond Lane program.

So, said Maullin, such things as Diamond Lanes would come gradually as they gain public support.

Maullin, noting the East Coast energy shortages, said, "Sometimes the urgency is lost" on Californians because of the state's benign climate.

The plan proposes a mixture of government regulations and voluntary actions, but "the government can't order, unless there are unusual circumstances, the public to do the obvious things."

WHAT IF the plan doesn't work?

"The unsaid alternative in the long run is some sort of authoritarian order to do this or that," Maullin said. He said President Carter's allocation of energy to meet the East Coast crisis was really rationing in a sense.

The commission has adopted 15 programs in the plan which Maullin said would save 23 billion kilowatt hours of electricity and 2 billion therms of natural gas by 1985, the equivalent of energy produced by five to seven major power plants.

Besides residential insulation, they include:

—Efficient heating systems for homes, combining efficiency standards, incentives and consumer information to encourage the best space heating systems for new and existing homes.

—Night thermostat setback devices that automatically reduce home thermostat settings.

—More efficient use of water, particularly hot water.

—Incentives, including financial and regulatory assistance, to accelerate the market of solar space and water heating, with special efforts on the design of new buildings that can utilize solar energy with no extra cost.

—Greater use of utilities' personnel to provide direct information, services and marketing of conservation devices to individuals in their homes.

—Labels on appliances so consumers would know how much energy would be required.

—Energy audits of commercial buildings to help identify efficiency improvements, with proposed standards in some cases, and loans and financial assistance if necessary.

It also promotes expanded informational and technical help, loans and incentives, to encourage state and local governments to save energy in operations, as well as purchases of cars and equipment.

IT recommends a new rate structure that would reward conservation and cooperation between utilities and industries to generate electricity and process heat.

A proposed development's impact on energy supply and demand also would be considered in environmental impact reports.

Maullin said the federal government would be counted on to provide funds for incentives such as price reductions on solar equipment installations.

Seminars for bank officers are planned in an effort to overcome reluctance of some banks to make home loans for solar energy improvements, Maullin said.

GARDENING

Try the long-lasting perennial vegetables

BY JOE LITTLEFIELD

Perennial vegetables last for several years before they need to be dug up or divided, and new plants reset in the garden.

There are several perennial vegetables available bare root at nurseries to be planted now. They are asparagus, rhubarb, artichoke, and a favorite fruit, strawberry.

Asparagus is considered a status vegetable, especially because of the cost when it first appears in the market.

Some years ago, a Chinese vegetable farmer in the San Gabriel valley grew asparagus for 20 years. The bareroots are sold in plastic sacks. However, gardeners should check the roots. Select a sack which contains firm root plants. Some nurserymen may have them temporarily heeled in damp shavings or sawdust. The plant roots may be from three to six inches long.

Plants should be set out in a sunny area by themselves where they'll be undisturbed for several years. Their yarn-like roots grow down from a knobby top. Plant them six inches apart in rows, the knobby tops two inches below the soil surface. They will grow from two to nearly four feet tall.

The foliage should not be cut till it dies. The second year some gardeners begin to harvest.

Rhubarb root clump sections are, or have been, sold in plastic sacks. Don't plant the root clump if it is soft. Purchase those in containers which were grown from seed.

Some gardeners have problems with root clump planted rhubarb, because they cover the top area with soil. The tops must not be covered at all. The other trouble could be due to keeping the root clump too wet, hence rot sets in and the clump dies.

Artichoke clumps are divided into smaller individual root clumps. They too won't grow if they're treated like the rhubarb.

Gardeners must keep sharp lookout for possible infestation of aphids. A liquid pesticide spray listed for vegetables and fruits, or a vegetable-tomato dust, should be used to discourage those pests. Sharhose sprayings at intervals will help during the critical aphids infestation.

Strawberry roots too are available. Plant them on hilled rows, or if you prefer to plant them on level ground, then scrape out furrows about four inches deep between the rows.

Sun loving perennial flowering plants also are available bare root for a period of time. They are gerbera, shasta daisy, bleeding heart, bearded iris, and day lily.

Gerbera with yarn-size thickness but firm roots, has a knobby top too. It must not be covered by soil, otherwise the leaves grow stunted, and what few blossoms appear are small and malformed. They'll bloom more freely if they are allowed to get thirsty then deeply watered.

Shasta daisy, with attractive single white flowers, have been available bare root. The double and lacinated forms usually are grown in containers.

Bearded iris furnish showy spring flowers. The day lilies provide lily-like blossoms in shades of yellow and orange, in single and double blooms.

Weekend Bonsai show set

The Baiki-En Bonsai Kenkyukai Society of Temple City will present its seventh annual exhibit today and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia. Admission is free.

Under the theme, "Winter Silhouettes," the Society will feature a large collection of deciduous trees which reveal more readily the structural forms of the bonsai art.

Additionally, a large collection of dwarfed pines, elms, oaks, maples, olives, pomegranates, junipers, cedars and azaleas will be shown in a variety of styles familiar to the bonsai aficionado.

Tomatoes can be planted very deeply

Tomato plants can be set so deep in the ground that only a little tuft of leaves shows above he surface.

In loose or sandy soil, you can set plants vertically, but in heavy or poorly drained soil, it is better to dig a slanting trench 2 or 3 in. deep and lay the plant in it with the top 4 to 6 sets of leaves sticking out. Trim off all the leaves that would be under the surface. New roots will sprout all along the length of the stem.

Don't try deep transplanting with cabbages, eggplant, peppers, and flowers. These are fussy about planting depth and prefer to be set in only as deep as the former soil line on the plant. You can see the line where the stems change color from pale white to green.

Club memo

Joe Littlefield, I,P-T garden columnist, will speak to members of the Belmont Heights Garden Club Tuesday at Belmont Heights Methodist Church, Third Street and Miramar.

Littlefield will speak on "Flowers, Indoor House Plants and Lawns" at the 1 p.m. meeting.

Those attending are invited to bring their "sickly" house plants — Joe will diagnose the ills. Visitors are welcome.

Additional charges denied for prepaid lifetime care

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state refused Friday to allow a group of homes for the elderly to assess new monthly charges against residents who had purchased prepaid lifetime care.

The Methodist Church-affiliated Pacific Homes, Inc., had sought minimum fees of $300 to $500 a month to cover operating deficits.

Raymond Procunier, chief deputy state health director, said the decision could bankrupt the corporation, which cares for 1,700 elderly persons in 10 retirement homes in California, Arizona and Hawaii.

But, Procunier said in a news release, even if the homes are allowed to assess extra fees on residents, they might still go into bankruptcy eventually.

Pacific Homes officials were not available for comment. A secretary at headquarters in Los Angeles said President Edward Marek and other officials were meeting all day with the corporation's board of directors and were not answering outside inquiries.

The California homes are in Los Angeles, San Diego, Chula Vista and Claremont. Residents average 85 years in age, the state said.

"If Pacific Homes so desires, it can appeal my decision in court," Procunier said.

"All those elderly people acted in good faith. They did their best to assure they could live their lives without ever becoming a burden on anybody else. That is the service they paid for. This is the service they are entitled to receive."

The residents of the retirement homes and convalescent hospitals made lump sum payments to Pacific Homes for contracts which promised lifetime care at either no or only minimal additional costs, the Health Department said.

But problems began in 1972, when Pacific Homes dipped $17 million into reserves which the state requires the firm to maintain to meet its long-term obligations.

Car license plates for blind

The purpose of the bill by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, is to allow blind persons to use special parking places now designated for the handicapped.

A spokesman for Vasconcellos said many blind persons own vehicles or have persons who regularly drive them. The law allowing special, convenient parking spots reserved for persons with special handicapped driver license plates does not allow issuance of those plates to vehicles regularly used to transport the blind. The bill is AB 289.
